A Super-Race? Not Soon.
Coming, a Little Italian.
Saving the Old Home.
A Bright 5 Billion Spot.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ALAIN GERBAULT, who has sailed around the world in his 38-foot boat Firecrest, has found his mission. He will start a new colony in the South Seas, and in that tropical Utopia, carefully selecting native parents, he will build up a super-race of human beings.

TO CARRY OUT his plan he will have to live some time. Mother nature, wisely selecting and mixing natives of all kinds, has been trying to build up a super-race on this earth for at least 40,000,000 years, and her success thus far is not particularly brilliant.

If he could live long enough, Mr. Gerbault would be surprised to find that in 10,000 years he couldn't raise the frontal angle of his "picked natives" by as much as 1 per cent.

To make a real super-race he would have to straighten those foreheads up to the perpendicular. That would take at least 100,000 years, probably 1,000,000 years.

PRINCESS MARIE JOSE, crown princess of Italy, wife of the King's heir, expects a baby.

If it is a boy, and lives, it will be king some day, Mussolini, on the one hand, and possibilities of revolution on the other, permitting.

In Italy, as in France in the old days, no woman can rule.

The French Loi Salique, which prevented it, was explained politely by a French king to an inquiring woman:

"France must have no woman on the throne, because under such circumstances a man might govern France. With a man on the throne some woman will always be the real ruler, an excellent thing for the country."

IN MELODRAMA as the "old home" is about to be sold by the cruel mortgage holder, somebody comes in, pays the bill and everything ends happily.

In a modern melodrama entitled "Who Killed Prosperity?" higher income taxes for the unfortunate rich were more earnestly discussed than the plight of the poor unemployed that you always have with you.

At the critical moment comes news that income taxes and other internal revenue receipts are up $101,000,000, in spite of a one per cent income tax reduction that has been in effect for six months.

Inheritance taxes paid Uncle Sam $64,760,625, and tobacco, chiefly cigarets, provided $450,339,000.

Imagine how prosperous Uncle Sam would be, if the people that want beer could get it, paying him several hundred millions a year for the privilege, instead of giving millions to bootlegging and racketeering in return for bad whisky.

FRANCE HAS more gold than she needs, is gathering in tens of millions of yellow metal every week. But France is not happy. Exports are down.

POOR OLD Uncle Sam, increasing his tariff and expecting to increase his income, finds that his customs are cut down instead of being higher.

Britain has troubles on which the sun never sets, scattered all around the world.

HOWEVER, ONE American, known to everybody in the United States, because he is able and has made many millions and is conspicuous in politics, finds one hopeful cloud the size of a man's hand and bigger.

Brokers' loans, says he, have diminished by five billions of dollars. They were eight billions in boom times. They are around three billions now. Those loans represent money that stock speculators and investors owe on stocks bought, not paid for.

If the brokers' loans dropped five billions it means that five billions have been paid and the stocks taken up. At least that is the theory.

PUTTING THE average price of stock thus taken up at $50, this would mean that 100,000,000 shares of stock have been taken "out of the market."

Such news means little to the man out of a job, or the farmer, offered 60 cents for wheat on the farm. But it means a good deal to intelligent financiers.

CALVIN COOLIDGE says the whole world is benefitted by the French revival of financial power. He puts in few words qualities that make the French a great people: "No one can estimate the future resources of a country that is willing to work, save, and face facts."

In addition, the French know how to think, and how to fight for their rights.

And French statesmen do all their worrying ABOUT FRANCE. They do not worry about us, or any other country, ONLY ABOUT FRANCE.

When this country stops worrying about other countries, taking advice or instructions from them, going across the ocean to learn what the United States must do, we also may "revive."

IRENE, DAGUE APPEAL SENTENCE

LON CHANEY, NOTED FILM STAR, DIES

Noted Film Contortionist Loses Fight for Life as Recovery Seems Assured

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 26.—Lon Chaney, famous motion picture character actor, known as "the man of a thousand faces," died at 12:55 a. m. today in St. Vincent's Hospital, where he had been confined for the past week, a victim of anemia.

For several hours before he succumbed Chaney had been unable to take nourishment. Shortly before he died, however, he seemed to be improving, and doctors were hopeful that he would recover.

The motion picture star was suffering also from a complicated infection of the bronchial tubes, which he previously had had treated in New York.

THOUGHT RECOVERING

This, coupled with the severe attack of anemia, made his condition extremely critical Saturday, and two blood transfusions were resorted to in an effort to restore his strength.

After passing a restful night Sunday his physician-in-chief, Dr. John Webster, said he thought his patient was on the road to recovery.

Dr. Webster predicted, however, that the crisis would be reached today. And the film star who had made the world shudder at his grotesque character portrayals failed to meet the crisis this morning.

HEMORRHAGE SPED END

A severe hemorrhage of the throat suffered at midnight was the immediate cause of death, the actor's physicians agreed.

He was 47 years old.

JAIL FOR DEBTS LAW INVOKED

An almost forgotten act of 1836—six years before an act abolishing imprisonment for debt was passed—was cited today in Common Pleas Court and Gorman Cray, Hazelwood transfer man, unable to pay $4,000 damages which grew out of an automobile law suit, was remanded to the sheriff's office and faced a night in jail.

When Judges Harry H. Rowand and James M. Swearingen demanded to know why Cray had been arrested, counsel for William G. Howell, of Beaver County, awarded damages for a fractured skull suffered when his car collided with Cray's truck, cited the law of 1836. The judges agreed the arrest was legal and remanded Cray to the sheriff's office.

Attorney Harry I. Glick, attorney for Cray, said he will file an involuntary petition today, otherwise Cray would spend the night in jail.

Deportation Urged To End Tong Strife

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Failure of warring Chinese tongs in New York to agree to end their murderous strife brought a recommendation today from Police Commissioner Mulrooney to the United States district attorney that all Chinese found to be in the city illegally be rounded up and deported.

Tong leaders had been given until last night to adjust their differences, after a fresh outbreak of tong warfare 10 days ago.

City Solicitor, McNaugher Bid For Judgeships

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and Attorney W. H. McNaugher were regarded in legal circles today as logical candidates for the two judgeship vacancies created through the resignations of Judge Thomas Ford and Judge Thomas D. Carnahan.

Gov. John S. Fisher is reported to be considering the advisability of allowing Mayor Charles H. Kline to name one of the new judges, and friends of the mayor felt he would indorse Waldschmidt, who aside from being head of the city legal department, is also Kline's law partner.

WALDSCHMIDT FAVORED

Waldschmidt, who was also named in one of the recent votes held by the Allegheny County Bar Association, was thought to be stronger politically than W. Heber Dithrich, county solicitor, who has also been mentioned as a candidate for the bench.

Because the Governor is not expected to make more than one political appointment at this time, Attorney McNaugher is strongly favored for the second appointment, it was said. McNaugher was formerly legal advisor to Prohibition Administrator Fred C. Baird and has been described as an outstanding member of the Bar Association.

DREW AIMS HIGHER

It was pointed out that Judge James B. Drew will be a candidate for the Supreme Court bench in November, and it was thought that should he be successful in his fight for the position, Dithrich could be appointed in his place.

GERMANS HOP FOR NEW YORK

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Favored by a warm sun and clear skies, Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his three trans-Atlantic flying companions took off from the waters of the Halifax Aero Club's basin here at 10:40 a. m. (Pittsburgh daylight time), on the last leg of their flight from Germany to New York.

A large crowd lined the shores of the basin to witness the start. After bidding their hosts of the night goodbye, the German fliers were rowed out to their flying boat and climbed aboard.

The big Dornier-Wahl plane responded to the throttle and roared down the harbor, throwing spray from her bow and drawing a huge after-swell before it finally lifted from the water and turned southeast toward New York.

The Germans had planned to have "breakfast in Halifax; dinner in New York," but in view of the late start, and the fact that the average cruising speed of their flying boat is 94 miles per hour, Aero Club officials here were doubtful if the fliers would reach New York at the conventional New York dinner hour.

Mercedes Repeats Hellespont Swim

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Mercedes Gleitz, British swimmer, in private life Mrs. Patrick Carey, today swam the Hellespont for the second time, in 3 hours and 3 minutes.

The English girl, who failed seven times to swim the English Channel, previously had conquered the Dardanelles strait at its widest point in 2 hours and 45 minutes.

TOWN HALL HEARING OPENS

Large Throng Forces Shift to Courtroom; Civic Leaders Among Those at Meeting

BULLETIN.

Seven proposed sites for the town hall wereeliminated as today's hearing got under way. Prominent among them was the Monument Hill site.

Others eliminated were the one at Second and Grant street; Forbes street and Craft avenue; Craig and Forbes streets; the Try street yards; the Presbyterian Hospital site, and the one at Liberty avenue and Grant street.

Battle lines formed in the County Commissioners' office today as the much-heralded elimination hearing, expected to result in the selection of a site for the $6,000,000 town hall, was scheduled to start.

As leaders of the various town hall associations arrived from every part of the city, the crowd of persons swelled to such an extent, that the commissioners were forced to adjourn to a room in Criminal Court so that all could get in to the meeting.

LEADERS ATTEND

Among the leaders were J. C. Chaplin and E. B. Strassberger, of the Downtown Association; O. B. Nicola, Schenley Farms; F. J. Osterling and W. H. Newmeyer, North Side Association; E. G. Kaltenbach, Downtown Association, and David Brown, of the Golden Triangle Association.

All advocates of sites for the town hall were invited to appear by Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, who announced last week that the site will be selected within two weeks.

OAKLAND SITE

The recommendation of the County Planning Commission that the Nicola site, in Oakland, is the only one submitted on which the building could be erected and the lot purchased within the $6,000,000 bond issue, will not be the determining factor in selection of the site, Armstrong said.

Commissioner Charles C. McGovern has been advocating construction of an auditorium in connection with the armory in Schenley Farms that would cost $1,000,000 and be state-maintained.

Swings, Falls Into Ravine, Killed

Reese Redelly, 20, of 438 Broadway, Pitcairn, was killed late today when he slipped from a swing on which he was sitting, falling 50 feet into a ravine from a point near there known as Gobbler's Knob.

Two companions placed him in their car and attempted to rush him to a hospital, but were forced to stop at an undertaker's office when one of their tires went flat.

A physician was called when they could go no farther, and the youth was pronounced dead, according to a report to the coroner.

Steel Output Gain Best In Months

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Steel production in the mills of the United States Steel Corporation increased this week to 96 per cent of mill capacity, according to estimates made today in reliable quarters. This is the largest weekly gain announced since last April.

The speeding up in steel mill activity is in line with the predictions of the directors of the company in July, to the effect that improvement would be seen in the steel markets in the third quarter.

U. S. Steel stock advanced on the stock exchange today nearly 3 points to 170.

Mrs. Thaden Flies to Air Meet, Plans Early Plane Excursion for Baby Bill

MRS. LOUISE THADEN AND HER BABY, "BILL"

Baby Bill, born to fly, who has to stay home with his plane-designer father while his mother-of-a-month, one-time champion woman flier, soars from Pittsburgh with Amelia Earhart to air races.

STILL SEEK JAIL FOR THOMPSON

Attorney Frederic Miller, counsel for the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, today verified reports that the princess is planning a new action which, if successful, would send her uncle, Josiah V. Thompson, Uniontown's one-time millionaire coal baron, to jail.

The action was begun last week when Attorney Miller informally presented to the State Supreme Court a petition asking that Thompson's $25,000 bail be lifted. However, the petition was withdrawn and will be presented later.

The Princess has charged that Thompson used funds from the estate of her father, the late John Niccols, in his own ventures, which proved failures.

Thompson, held in contempt of court and paroled from jail, has been granted countless postponements on his plea that he is trying to recoup his losses.

Aviatrix Sure Child Will Be Pilot; Picked Up by Amelia Earhart.

Mrs. Louise Thaden, Pittsburgh's outstanding aviatrix, was to fly to Chicago today, with Amelia Earhart, but "Bill" will remain behind.

Bill is the prospective flier born to Mr. and Mrs. Thaden a month ago, said his mother:

"I'm afraid if we took Bill up now he'd catch cold. But he'll get his first flight in another month or two. He'll just have to be a pilot when he grows up."

Mrs. Thaden and Miss Earhart are flying to Chicago to attend the national air races. Miss Earhart was scheduled to fly from Indianapolis to Pittsburgh today to pick up her friend.

ASK RETRIAL OF HIGHEST COURT

Arguments to Be Heard by Justices Here Sept. 29; Irene Keeps Up Courage

An appeal to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court for a new trial was filed here today by counsel for Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, under sentence of death for the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul, of the State Highway Patrol.

Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, in filing the petition, defined the action as a "mere formality." He said there were 31 reasons cited why Irene and her sweetheart should have a new trial. The reasons were the same as those named in the Lawrence County court when a new trial was refused.

HOLDS UP WELL

When asked about Irene, Attorney Dickey said:

"Irene seems to be holding up remarkably well. She is not the hard-boiled woman the world likes to believe her. We are taking this appeal because we have her interest at heart and think she is entitled to a break."

The appeal is one of the few remaining moves which their counsel can make in its effort to save the pair from the electric chair. The appeal was made 16 days after death sentence was passed. Only five more days remained in which it could be filed. It will be considered when the Supreme Court sits here September 29.

If the appeal is refused, counsel for the pair recently announced they would appeal to Gov. Fisher and the Pardon Board for commutation of sentence.

DELAYS EXECUTION DATE

Gov. Fisher, who sets the date of execution, has withheld action pending the disposition of the appeal.

Defense counsel for the former waitress and her sweetheart had sought to prove she was moved by an "irresistable impulse" in the shooting of Corp. Brady Paul on the Butler-New Castle road last December 27. The court refused to permit evidence to support this defense, and it was on exceptions to this ruling that the lawyers based their demand for a new trial.

Irene and Glenn were convicted in separate trials and recommended for the death penalty by the jury.

VOTE MACHINE CLASH RENEWED

Allegheny County's voting machine proposition was the basis of another controversy at today's meeting of the County Commissioners when C. C. McGovern moved that the contract be supplemented so as to guarantee delivery of 300 machines between October 1 and 15.

McGovern explained that under the specifications, bids were asked on not less than 70 and not more than 75 machines before October 15, but that later,

Missile of Chicago Diva Halts Sunrise Radio

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Mme. Ada Paggi, singer with the Ravinia and Civic Opera companies, was fined $15 yesterday for the "pot" shot she took at a neighbor.

The shot—with a flower pot—was an unmistakable protest on the diva's part against band music played on the radio at 6 o'clock in the morning. It also was unmistakable evidence of a deadly aim.

Mme. Paggi, Magistrate Benjamin Meyer, of Glencoe, was told, had long been irritated by the noisy music coming from the home of Otto and Walter Schultz in the early hours when the brothers were getting up and doing their calisthenics. She said she couldn't sleep with such an inartistic din ringing in her ears.

Finally the temperament for which opera stars are famous got the better of her and she let fly the first thing she found—a flower pot. The pot, Walter Schultz told the magistrate, sailed through a window and hit him on the head.

Since there is no law against band music and there is a law against throwing heavy objects through windows and against people's heads, the magistrate decided there was only one thing to do and he did it.

Coolidge Views Peru Revolt as Discouraging

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 26.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The reports of a revolution making headway in Peru are disquieting and discouraging.

Revolutions have long been the curse of some sections south of the Rio Grande. They indicate at their best that the orderly and lawful methods of conducting changes in the form or the officers of the government affected have broken down, and that there is no remedy for alleged abuses except an appeal to force. At their worst they make an attempt to seize a government that is doing as well as it can under all the circumstances surrounding it for the purpose of getting the power and spoils of office.

Calvin Coolidge

Too often these outbreaks are accompanied by a confiscation of private property and much suffering by innocent persons. If a revolution meant a cleaning up of a bad situation and the substitution of a stable, permanent and free government, it would have some merit. But when it means only a loss of life and property in order to substitute a new regime that is no better than the old, it accomplishes no constructive purpose. That is the reason our people regard revolutions with so much suspicion. They do not consider them as productive of genuine reform.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

U. S. CALLS UPON PERU FOR RELEASE OF AMERICAN FLIER

QUICK TO ACT WHEN TOLD OF PLIGHT

Leguia's Kin Obtain Shelter In Envoy's Home as Revolt Forces President to Flee

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The State Department today instructed the American embassy at Lima, Peru, to take all appropriate measures to effect the release of Harold B. Grow.

Its action followed receipt of word from the embassy concerning Grow's plight. A lieutenant commander in the United States Naval Reserve, he has the rank of captain in the Peruvian navy. He was captured Sunday after landing his plane at Camana.

The department's message also commended the embassy for the reports it had filed during the recent rapid turn of events in the Peruvian revolt.

AMERICANS SAFE

Ferdinand L. Mayer, American charge d'affaires at Lima, advised the department today that he had granted asylum to two daughters of President Leguia and their children.

Alfredo Larriniga, son-in-law of Leguia, also sought and was granted refuge in the charge's home.

Simultaneously, the department heard from Consul William G. Burdett that American citizens in the Lima-Callao district and their property are not endangered.

Lightning-Like Coup By Leguia Predicted

PANAMA, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Possibility of a lightning-like counter coup, sprung at a propitious moment to reinstate himself in power, was foreseen today with advices from Chile that Augusto B. Leguia, deposed president of Peru, has remained within the borders of his own country.

Contradicting reports from Lima, the Chilean dispatches declared that the Peruvian cruiser Almirante Grau, supposedly carrying into exile the "Iron Man of Peru," who had swung dictatorial power over the land for 11 years, still rode at anchor in the harbor of Callao, Peru.

This information vastly increased the current belief that, far from fleeing the country without a struggle, Leguia has remained close at hand, perfecting plans for another daring seizure of governmental power after the manner of his bloodless coup in 1919.

REPORTED IN FLIGHT

The Almirante Grau, with the deposed president and his family aboard, earlier was reported plowing its way through the Pacific toward Panama, where Leguia planned to live in retirement.

The military junta which took over control of the government after the fall of the Leguia regime on the heels of rebellion in the south of Peru, clamped down meanwhile a strict censorship on all the channels of communication, rendering difficult any insight into the true state of affairs within the South American nation.

However, it was believed most of the disorders had been quelled.

Bermuda Shipping Perilled by Gale

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—All small shipping scurried to shelter here today upon the Weather Bureau's report that a hurricane was only about 100 miles away and was fast approaching this island.

At 9:30 a. m. the wind had reached a velocity of a gale. The Furness motorship, Bermuda, scheduled to sail for New York with a capacity passenger list, was held at the pier, waiting for the storm to blow itself out.

'Vanishing Summer' Returns to England

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Only a few days ago London newspapers were headlining "Coldest August for fifty years." Wet weather and low temperatures had lasted from early July. Today summer returned to England. By mid-afternoon the mercury was 84 degrees in the shade, which is hot for Great Britain.

Women in summer attire on the streets were noticed for about the first time this summer.

Flames Destroy Car-Foundry Plant

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Fire destroyed the plant of the American Car and Foundry Company here today with loss estimated at $500,000. The plant employed nearly 400 men, and was used primarily for construction of mine cars.

BURY TWO SLAIN MEN TODAY

The funeral for the two victims of the Avella Sacco-Vanzetti Day tragedy will be held this afternoon from the late home of George Markoff, one of the slain men. The other victim, Stephen Mina, also will be buried from the Markoff home.

The procession at 3 o'clock will start its mile journey to the Avella Cemetery, carrying banners and slogans of the International Labor Defense.

Carl Hacker, chairman of the Pittsburgh office of the International, declared today that some officials would not make a serious attempt to capture the alleged murderer, Pietro Patrella. Hacker charged that Anarchists, as organization of which Patrella is said to be the leader, and certain officials were united to end the Communist movement.

When asked if he expected trouble today because of the parade, Hacker said his organization was prepared to cope with any situation that may arise.

Fordham University Star Athlete Drowns

AVON BEACH, N. J., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—A cramp or a swift undertow was blamed today for the drowning of David Coleman, Jr., 24, star Fordham University athlete. Coleman, graduated last year, played on the Fordham football, baseball and basketball teams.

Coleman, who was an expert swimmer, went into the water despite a swift current and was seen to suddenly sink.

Find Wax Record Of Zeppelin's Voice

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A phonograph record of the voice of the late Count Ferdinand Von Zeppelin, the existence of which was unsuspected, has been discovered accidentally among a lot of junk by a local phonograph company.

A primitive wax cylinder, still in good working order, is believed to hold the sole record of the famous aviator's voice.

MORE HOSPITAL AIDS URGED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The sacrifice of a woman's life that a man might live, because physicians decided he had prior claim to a respirator needed in both cases, led to a demand by citizens that the machines be made part of the equipment of all hospitals here to prevent recurrence of such an incident.

Physicians' decision to save the life of a man while a woman died came about when Irving S. Johnston, 25-year-old artist, victim of infantile paralysis, was removed from a respirator where he had been kept alive a week.

His removal was for the purpose of giving treatment to Miss May Jean McCulloch, whose case demanded it. Physicians in hasty consultation decided the man had prior claim to the machine and a better chance to recover. He was returned to the respirator and is reported slowly recovering today. Miss McCulloch is dead.

OIL WELL SALE PROGRESSING

Negotiations for the purchase of the Oil Well Supply Company by the United States Steel Corporation are proceeding satisfactorily, according to officials. A meeting of stockholders of Oil Well Supply has been called for September 9 to consider details.

Officers of the company were in New York yesterday in conference with Steel Corporation officials. Although declining to state definitely that the deal is completed, Oil Well executives declare themselves well pleased with the progress which has been made.

United States Steel Corporation directors meet today, and further details regarding the Oil Well Supply negotiations may come from their meeting. Oil Well Supply controls important pipe distributing facilities desirable to the steel corporation's marketing organization.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—The five contestants in the women's Dixie derby, Washington to Chicago, left the airport here today on the last lap of their flight to the national air races in Chicago.

Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, of Memphis, who has a lead of almost three hours over her nearest rival in elapsed time, took to the air at 10:01 a. m., followed at one-minute intervals by Mrs. Martie Bowman, of Hempstead, L. I.; Miss Nancy Hopkins, of Washington; Miss Laura Ingalls, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Charles Langdon, of Norfolk, Va.

DENIES WARNER RECEIVERSHIP

DOVER, Del., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—The receivership proceedings against Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and Renraw, Inc., were dismissed today by Chief Justice James Pennewill, on motion of former Judge Hugh W. Morris, counsel for the defendant.

Dismissal was granted on the ground the complaint had not been verified and properly signed by Ira L. Nelson, of Boston, the complainant.

Nelson alleged mismanagement of the Warner company and excessive expenditures for properties said to have been purchased by Renraw, a holding company.

H. M. Warner, president of Warner Brothers Pictures, characterized the allegations as false and intimated that the petition was filed to depress the price of the stock.

Jardine Won't Talk On University Job

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—William M. Jardine, recently appointed minister to Egypt, declined late today to affirm or deny a report he would become president of the University of Idaho upon leaving the diplomatic service.

"I am going to Egypt," he said, "I shall sail September 6 from New York. That is all I care to say."

MAIDEN VAINLY WAITED YEARS FOR ANDREE

Brother of Lost Arctic Explorer Tells of Girl Whose Hope Was Blasted

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A comely Swedish girl waited 15 years for her fiance, who never came back from a dash into the Arctic vastness with Auguste Andree, it was revealed here today by Eric Strindberg, Portsmouth architect, brother of Nils Strindberg, one of Andree's companions.

The girl, Anna Chartier, was engaged to Nils, the brother related. For more than a decade she waited, believing him alive, but lost in the icy wastes. Then hope faded and she married a New Hampshire college professor named Haughtrey.

BROTHERS LIVING

Two brothers beside the Portsmouth man survive the explorer whose body, with those of Andree and Knut Franenkel, the other members of the balloon party, was found recently after lying for 33 years on the Artic ice. Tore Strindberg, a sculptor, and Swen, curator of an art collection, are the brothers. Both live in Stockholm.

Nils, who was 24 when he set out with Andree in the hope of reaching the North Pole was a pupil of the scientist, Aremius.

Strindberg said the first attempt to fly to the pole by balloon was made in 1896, and that he was with his brother, Nils, when the party left Sweden. They turned back because of unfavorable winds.

FORESAW FAILURE

Eric had a letter from his brother dated the day the party set out in 1897. In it, Niles lamented the fact the party did not have enough varnish to furnish the balloon with proper seaming, and said chances were against the success of the venture.

The party set out on July 11, 1897, and three days later a homing pigeon brought back word that all was well. It also brought a long message in shorthand, but the master of the vessel which captured the bird was unable to read shorthand, and threw it away. Eric believes that the message may have contained valuable data on the expedition.

EATON QUIZZED ON OTHER MERGERS

Baker Seeks Details About Appraisals in Small Steel Firm Combines

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—An investigation of the extent to which appraisals figured in the small steel mergers incident to the Republic Steel Consolidation, effected by the Cyrus S. Eaton interests, and an inquiry to determine how the Republic merger was put together, formed the basis of Eaton cross-examination in Common Pleas Court today.

Newton D. Baker, defense counsel in the suit to enjoin the Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger, was attempting to show Eaton's motives in opposing that deal.

IMPORTANCE OF QUIZ

The importance of the appraisal question was gleaned from the charges made by the Cleveland financier that no evaluation of the physical properties of Bethlehem was furnished to Sheet and Tube stockholders.

Using as a base the merger of Interstate Steel of Chicago, with Central Alloy of Massilon, Baker wanted to know if a physical property appraisal was made available to stockholders in that deal. That merger was one of the component parts of the Republic consolidation.

Eaton testified that an appraisal was made by a Chicago engineer, who found that the purchase price had been fair.

QUESTIONED ON REPORT

Baker asked:

"Did Brassert (the appraisal engineer) reduce to writing an appraisal and was that supplied to the stockholders of Interstate or Central Alloy?"

Eaton said he thought Brassert did not. He said that appraisals had been made by the same engineer in the merger of United Alloy with Central Steel and in the absorption of Union Drawn Steel by Republic but in three instances the appraisal figures were not included in Brassert's reports because the sale price had been found to be fair.

The Republic consolidation, in which Central Alloy, Donner Steel and Bourne Fuller participated with Republic Iron and Steel, was not the result of a long conceived plan of Eaton, but resulted from discussions that started in 1929, the financier testified.

HOOVER MEETS DROUGHT AIDES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—President Hoover held a series of personal conferences with members of his drought relief committee today in advance of a general conference with bankers from the drought-ridden states.

The President summoned R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railways Association; John Barton Payne, head of the American Red Cross, and Paul Bestor, federal farm loan commissioner, to the White House for reports on federal relief measures. He was particularly interested in plans for the movement of cattle from sun-baked areas into green pasturelands.

The financial conference, to which a dozen states are sending bankers, was being held at the White House this afternoon. The President planned to address the session, after which the federal financial authorities and the state bankers will work out a credit relief program. The government's proposal is for the creation of local credit corporations to be supported financially by the intermediate credit banks.

PINCHOT PLANS DROUGHT TOUR

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Gifford Pinchot will introduce a new wrinkle in political campaigning this week.

The Republican nominee for governor will depart from the routine course of stump speaking Thursday and Friday of this week to make a personal tour of the Hanover and Gettysburg districts, hardest hit with water shortage from the drought in the state. The trip will be in keeping with his chief campaign plank, that of strict regulation of public utilities.

Thursday afternoon the former governor is to deliver an address at the annual farmers' picnic at Williams Grove, near here. After the meeting he will go to Gettysburg personally to inspect the properties and water supply sources of the Gettysburg Water Company and the next day will be spent at Hanover looking over the plant of the Hanover-McSherrystown Water Company.

Weather Conditions.

An extensive area of high pressure extends from New England and the lake region southwestward to Northern Texas, with most of the southern and eastern plains included in its area. Pressure is quite uniform throughout its area, but no thundershowers have occurred in the states east of the Rocky Mountains, except in Texas, and the weather is mostly clear. Pressure is relatively low over Southern Florida and a trough of low pressure, with centers over North Dakota and Arizona, is causing rather general showers in the Canadian Northwest, the Rocky Mountains and the plateau region. Pressure is moderately high over the North Pacific states. It is slightly warmer in the Northern Rocky Mountains and Plains states.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. Stage at Franklin is 0.2 foot; Lock No. 1, 5.4; Pittsburgh, 9.5; Dam No. 4, 9.1; Dam No. 6, 7.5; Dam No. 8, 5.1, and Dam No. 12, 4.0. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

Weather is mostly clear over the air route, with ceilings unlimited, except at Greenwood, 1,500 feet, and Brookville, 3,000 feet. Visibilities are two miles or over, except at Hadley, Goshen, Chicago and Detroit, where it is one mile, due to fog or smoke. Winds are mostly light, calms being reported from all but two stations between Chicago and Hadley. Temperatures are in the sixties.

Weather will continue fair, with ceilings mostly unlimited. Visibilities will improve somewhat during the day, but the flat pressure distribution will not permit of much wind and smoke and fog will be rather widely distributed again tonight. Temperatures will change but little, although the general tendency is upward.

VOTE MACHINE CLASH RENEWED

WOULD ADD TO CONTRACT

In making his motion, he said:

"But there is nothing in the contract to guarantee the delivery of 300 machines. I move that the contract be supplemented so that 225 machines will be delivered by October 15. With the original 75, this would bring the total to 300—the amount the company says it can produce."

Assistant County Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher, who drew up the contract, pointed out that it would be illegal at this time to change the number of machines to be delivered, unless it was done with the consent of the company furnishing the machines.

TO ASK PERMISSION

McGovern replied to Lesher's explanation by reminding the other two commissioners that his motion was still before the board.

Commissioners E. V. Babcock and Joseph G. Armstrong told McGovern they would see to it that a letter is sent to the Poole Engineering Company, asking their permission to stipulate the delivery of 225 additional machines.

HINT BIRTH DATE TRICK IN TRIAL

Certicate for Girl Victim Changed, Court Revokes Fine on Men, Asks Arrest

TOWANDA, Pa., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Revocation of the sentences imposed on two Elmira (N. Y.) men and their rearrest and extradition from New York state was ordered yesterday by Judge Charles M. Culver, following discovery of a change in the birth certificate of the girl who accused the pair.

The two men, John Coloroso and John Sweeney, were arrested some time ago on a statutory charge preferred by Leora Rothwell, of Towanda, who was said to be 14 years of age, and another girl. When called for sentence in the Bradford County court, the defendants, through their attorney, Charles E. Mills, presented a birth certificate showing the Rothwell girl was born in 1912 instead of 1916 as held by District Attorney William Rosenfield.

CERTIFICATE ALTERED

The charge was changed to a milder one and the men were fined.

Judge Culver's action yesterday revealed for the first time that a birth certificate of the girl had been altered at the state bureau of vital statistics. District Attorney Rosenfield, who went to Harrisburg to investigate the case, said he learned the change had been made at the request of Mills, a former Republican County Chairman and former state senator, who had asked A. Boyd Hamilton, assistant Republican State Chairman, to intercede for him.

He received a photostatic copy yesterday of the altered certificate, showing the name of "Oscar" on the document containing the 1916 birth date had been changed to "Leora." He turned over the copy to the court for disposition of the case.

OFFICIAL DENIES BLAME

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Commenting on the investigation by the Bradford County courts of an alteration by his bureau of a birth certificate involved in a criminal proceeding, Dr. Emlyn Jones, chief of the state Bureau of Vital Statistics, admitted last night a change had been made on the document.

"There was nothing irregular about it," said Dr. Jones. "We received a request to change the name of the certificate from 'Oscar' to 'Leora' and we made the change in accordance with the policy of the bureau when requests are received for changing the first name on a certificate.

"The certificate in question, although made out for an 'Oscar,' contained the word 'female' in description of the sex and on the face it appeared as though the attending physician at birth had made a mistake in the name."

JUST "PASSED IT ON"

Dr. Jones said further that his bureau had another certificate for a girl named "Leora" with a variation of the last name, Rothwell, with a date of birth of a later year than the one made out for "Oscar." He said he sent a photostatic copy of the altered document to District Attorney Rosenfield at his request.

A. Boyd Hamilton, assistant chairman of the Republican State Committee, said:

"Senator Mills, whom I have known for years, asked me to procure a copy of the birth certificate on file at the Department of Health. His request was forwarded to Dr. Emlyn Jones, chief of the Vital Statistics Bureau, and the papers were then forwarded to Senator Mills. I have never seen the original papers nor discussed them in any way."

'Who's Who' Ignores Aimee And 14 Gerard 'Rulers'

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Inspection of the new "Who's Who In America" reveals that 14 of the 64 men named by James W. Gerard recently as the "real rulers" of the United States are not listed in the volume.

Bobby Jones, the golf champion, gets into "Who's Who" for the first time, but Babe Ruth and Gene Tunney are out.

Among the notables included for the first time are John F. Curry, Tammany leader, and John Gilbert, the film star. Those dropped include Aimee McPherson, the evangelist, and Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.

Dr. William E. Barton, authority on Lincoln, gets the most space with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and Samuel Untermyer, New York lawyer, next in order. There are sketches of 29,704 persons in all.

Mabel Doesn't Care About Prohibition Any More

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Prohibition? Tish! Tish!

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, ex-assistant United States attorney general, said today she doesn't care or choose to talk about prohibition any more. She declared:

"Anyway, I promised I would not talk about prohibition, I won't say who I promised, but I did."

Mrs. Willebrandt came here to open the biennial session of Phi Delta Delta, organization of women lawyers.

Mrs. Willebrandt dislikes the term "woman lawyer." She said there are women who are lawyers and those who are not, but there are no "women lawyers," as there is no special field of law to which women are particularly adapted.

KIDNAPED GIRL RESCUED, CRAZED FARM HAND CAPTURED

CHILD FOUND UNHARMED BY POSSE

Vacationists Lead Police to Parked Car Near Elkhorn, Wis., and Release Captive

VALPARAISO, Ind., Aug. 26. — (AP.) — Ten-year-old Betty Jane Foster returned unharmed to her farm home today and the man who held her captive for two days was in jail.

The two were found near Elkhorn, Wis., yesterday, ending a man hunt that spread into three states and engaged hundreds of men.

The capture was the result of an automobile chase but Claude Dillner, 27, farm hand, made no resistance when he was finally stopped. The man, described by officers as partly demented, admitted his identity and said he took the girl from her home Saturday because he "just fell in love with her."

Betty Jane said Dillner had treated her all right except that he locked her in his battered car whenever he left it. An examination corroborated her statement that she had not been mistreated.

LOCKED IN AUTO

Posses that searched for the two in this vicinity and later near Elkhorn had feared to find the girl dead. Dillner left a note warning the child's father, Ernest Foster, he would kill her if police were notified of the kidnaping. The girl, however, appeared none the worse for her experience. Both she and Dillner said she slept each night in the locked car, parked at the side of a road, while Dillner went into woods nearby.

The Fosters, wealthy farmers, were so overcome with joy and excitement that they found it impossible to go to Elkhorn to bring their daughter back, sending a neighbor to accompany Sheriff Barney Maxwell.

The sheriff said the charge filed against Dillner would probably be kidnaping.

NAVY DESERTER

Dillner told the officers he deserted from the U. S. S. Tennessee in 1927 and came to Indiana, where he worked on the Foster farm. He said he watched Betty Jane grow up and learned to love her, that he had planned for some time on returning and taking her away with him to live as his daughter.

"I wanted to take Betty Jane West and give her a good home," he said.

The opportunity arose when Dillner, returning in search of work, was left at the Foster home with Betty Jane and two other children. After taking them all to town and back, Dillner let the others out, forced Betty Jane to remain and drove off.

The search that started almost immediately was concentrated on Southern Wisconsin yesterday when it was learned that Dillner had been offered a job at Whitewater, Wis. He was captured after two vacationing Chicagoans who had read of the kidnaping, followed his automobile and notified authorities.

NOTE, RAID LEAD TO GANG ARMS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—An anonymous letter, telling police that occupants of a Coney Island apartment had killed a man and buried him in their back yard with a milk can for a tombstone, led today to a raid in which explosives and three revolvers were seized and six prisoners were arrested.

Two of the six were former convicts, two were young women and a fifth was a discharged patrolman.

Police were digging up the yard behind the apartment, but were skeptical about the murder tale.

Divorce Granted To Lucille Dutton

RENO, Nev., Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Charging cruelty, Lucille Jacobson, known on the screen as Lucille Dutton, today had been granted a divorce from Donald Carlos Jacobson.

Mrs. Jacobson, in her complaint, stated her husband had a violent temper which he made no effort to control. She declared that when their home burned a year ago her husband told her there was no longer a reason for them to live together. They were married at Honolulu in March, 1929.

ness, and was at the bedside when death came. A son by a former marriage, Creighton Chaney, also was there at the end.

"MYSTERY MAN"

The death of Chaney removes from Hollywood's varied ranks a versatile mystery man, known almost entirely by his screen appearances.

Away from the motion picture lot Chaney inevitably wore a pulled-down cap, dark glasses and plain clothes. He commanded a large salary, made numerous investments and reputably was wealthy, but made few friends.

Born on April 1, 1883, in Colorado Springs, Col., the son of deaf and dumb parents, Chaney quit school before he had reached the fifth grade to become a tourists' guide on Pike's Peak.

His introduction to the theater was as a property boy. Later he became a stage hand, and to his death he carried a card in a stage hands' organization.

STUDIED, LEARNED

Behind the wings he studied the regular actors and learned without a teacher the fine points of acting which won him fame. He got his first "break" as a song-and-dance man at a stage hands' benefit when he was 16.

With his brother, George, who lives in Oakland, Cal., Chaney drifted into the wandering life of a "ham" actor, and toured the country.

While with the old Hartmann Opera Company in San Francisco he met and married Hazel Hastings, a member of the troupe, who was his companion for 22 years. Of a previous marriage little is known except that a son was born.

SLAPSTICK FIRST

Chaney's entrance into the motion picture world was via the slapstick route. In 1912 he became an extra in Western films.

Later he directed Warren Kerrigan, then a western star, in seven productions. He received his first screen credit in 1924 from Universal for appearance in a leading role in "Hell Morgan's Girls."

With his portrayal of "The Frog" in "The Miracle Man," came Chaney's shift from slapsticks and westerns to the grotesque characterizations that made him famous. Early this year he signed a five-year contract. The "speakies," bane of many actors and actresses, were no terror to the former musical show comedian.

With his portrayals of grotesque characters, Chaney himself slipped into a seclusion that well might have fitted in with the life of some of his screen characterizations. He refused interviews—"None of the public's darn business," he would say—shunned public appearances and utterly refused to attend premier showings. After studio hours he sought the seclusion of his home and his small circle of close friends. Among his close acquaintances were Gen. Smedley Butler, of the United States Marines, and Eddie Griffon, comedian.

Wholly self-educated, he was a voracious reader and a student of many subjects. He wrote the Encyclopedia Brittanica's chapter on screen makeup. Though often portraying the cripple or deformed character, Chaney off the lot was athletic and strong. His hobbies were fishing, football and prize fighting.

From the list of starring vehicles Chaney has appeared in outstanding were "The Miracle Man," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Phantom of the Opera," "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" and "The Unholy Three."

No sacrifice was too great for the actor to undergo if it meant to better his portrayal, and frequently he suffered painfully while the camera ground away.

Hungarian Fliers Head for Chicago

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Alexander Magyar and George Enders, Hungarian aviators, left the Metropolitan Airport at 5:32 a. m., Pacific time, on a non-stop flight to Chicago.

From there they plan a flight to Flint, Mich., where preparations will be completed for a thans-Atlantic crossing to Budapest.

LAWN SPRINKLE BAN AT END

The ban on lawn sprinklers will be lifted tomorrow, according to a report received from Director of Public Safety Edward G. Lang.

Lang declared that the recent rain has made the ban, designed primarily to relieve the low pressure area of Squirrel Hill, unnecessary. He added that the 12-inch water main that is being laid on Beacon street will do much to relieve the present condition.

A new booster pumping station will be finished soon which is expected to raise the pressure of the entire district and make low pressure, even in case of a drought, a thing of the past.

Coal Miner Killed Under Slate Slide

AVIATOR HELPS TAKE BANDITS

HILLSDALE, Ill., Aug. 26. — (AP.)—The capture of three bank robbers was brought about by use of an airplane yesterday. The robbers, all Negroes, held up a local bank, escaping with about $7,000.

An airplane pilot who volunteered assistance to a citizens' posse, located the trio hiding in a corn field and, summoning aid from the neighboring town of Fenton, effected the capture.

SEEK TRANSFER OF CRASH SUIT

Judge Nelson McVicar, in the United States District Court today, granted a rule on Joseph Diskin, of Pittsburgh, to show cause why his suit against William Walker, of Fayette County, should not be transferred to the Federal District Court.

Diskin filed suit for damages against Walker, who was a former prohibition agent, following a collision between his motorcycle and Walker's auto in Brownsville road, near the government warehouse.

Walker is now an assistant county detective in Fayette County. The suit was filed in Common Pleas Court in February, 1929.

BLVD. PARLEY PROMISED

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong, of the County Commissioners, today promised that early in September a special meeting will be called to iron out the difficulties which Commissioner C. C. McGovern feels are holding up completion of the Allegheny River boulevard.

McGovern brought up the subject when the John F. Casey Company presented a bill for excavation. Public Works Director Norman F. Brown told McGovern that George S. Davison, of the Pennsylvania Water Company, had objected to the original plans for the highway. The water company's pumping station at Nadine is in the middle of the planned roadway.

Armstrong promised that Davison or "Mr. Mellon" (Armstrong didn't specify which Mellon) would discuss the situation with the Commissioners at the special meeting.

AIRPORT BOND OPINION ASKED

Controller Robert G. Woodside today asked the County Commissioners for a legal opinion on whether the Sinking Fund Commission may purchase the $1,000,000 of commissioners' bonds authorized to complete work on the municipal airport in Mifflin Township.

The commissioners authorized Woodside to obtain an opinion from the legal firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay, after Commissioner McGovern had specified that the fee for the opinion be reasonable.

Paris Host to Negro Gold Star Mothers

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A group of Negro Gold Star mothers this afternoon paid a visit to the tomb of the unknown soldier and then were entertained at the customary official tea in the Laurent's restaurant on the Champs Elysee.

Claude Here on Way To 'Harness' Ocean

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Dr. Georges Claude, the man who seeks to harness the Gulf Stream, was in New York today en route from France to Cuba. A new tube, six feet in diameter and about a mile long, will be finished in six weeks and an attempt will be made to install it off the coast of Cuba, tapping the Gulf Stream for power. The first attempt to harness the sea waters failed last winter when a giant tube sank while being placed in position.

LOS ANGELES TO CHICAGO RACE ON

Brock and Schoenhair Set Pace; Lindy to Attend Midwest Meet Tomorrow

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—Four noted airmen were speeding toward Chicago today on a non-stop flight—a feature race in connection with the national air tournament being held in the Illinois city.

With the motor of his airplane emitting a staccato roar, William Brock sent his ship down the Metropolitan Airport runway at 4:55 a. m. (Pacific time.)

Five minutes later he was followed by Lee Schoenhair. Both soon vanished from sight. The third to get away was Wiley Post, who took off at 5:30 a. m.

Col. Roscoe Turner headed his plane toward the east five hours later. Art Goebel was undecided when he would start, but it was believed he would not do so until tomorrow morning.

Brock was accompanied by Robert V. Brown, radio announcer for station WLW, at Cincinnati, who will broadcast the adventures en route to Chicago.

Both Brock and Schoenhair are flying Lockheed-Vega high-wing monoplanes, equipped with supercharged 425-horsepower motors. Each carried 500 gallons of gasoline.

LINDBERGH DELAYED

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—The expected arrival of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and possibly Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Anne Morrow, was the main topic of interest here at the Curtiss airport today as the 1930 national air races entered the fourth day.

The colonel, however, decided to leave New York for Chicago tomorrow instead of today.

No explanation of the change in his plans could be obtained at the New York office of his friend and counsel, Col. Henry Breckinridge, hence it was assumed that business affairs detained him.

In addition to the regular program of races, contests and stunts by Army, Navy, Marine Corps and civilian aces, today's program will include the arrival of the women's Dixie derby class B from Washington. The fliers are expected this afternoon from Springfield, Ill., their last overnight control point.

WINS $3,500 PRIZE

Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Cal., took first place in the women's Pacific Coast derby, which ended late yesterday. After leading the other five contestants across the country, Mrs. O'Donnell landed her Waco at 3:16 p. m., winning $3,500.

Shortly afterward John Blum, of Seattle, dropped down from the northward to win first honors in the men's Class A derby from the Pacific Coast.

Closely trailing Mrs. O'Donnell was Mrs. Mildred Morgan, of Beverly Hills, Cal. Third in elapsed time was Jean Le Rene, of Chicago. Miss Ruth Stewart, of St. Louis, was fourth and Miss Ruth Barron, of Hollywood, fifth in elapsed time.

Mrs. O'Donnell's elapsed time was 15 hours, 13 minutes and 16 seconds.

FREE-FOR-ALL HELD

Blum's elapsed time for the race, which started from Seattle last Thursday, was 18 hours, 24 minutes and 31 seconds.

Ben Howard, of St. Louis, flying a Howard Special, took first place in the free-for-all race for planes of 300-horsepower yesterday when Charles Holman, of Minneapolis, famous speed flier, was disqualified for cutting a pylon. Holman had finished first.

Capt. Frank Hawks, transcontinental record holder, arrived from Wichita, Kan., yesterday in time to give an exhibition glider flight.

Informed that the latest airplane to cross from Europe to America had been requested to proceed here for the national air races, Earle H. Reynolds, president of the board of the Chicago Air Race Corporation, today dispatched an invitation to Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau to continue his transoceanic flight to Chicago.

Dog Bite Victim Yields, Treated; Resents Killing

Busko previously had been taken to the West Penn Hospital for Pasteur treatment, but arose from the operating table and departed in a huff before the treatment could be administered.

When asked today why he did not wish to be treated, Busko exclaimed:

"All this fuss for a dog bite! Show me a man that dies from a bite and I'll show you a weakling! Look, the wounds are closing already and my hand is only a little swollen. But I'll say this, that the man who killed my dog just because he had the rabies will answer to me for it."

Ex-Professor Held in Fake Show-Girl Job Racket

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Edwin F. Bamford, 48, a former assistant professor of sociology in a Pennsylvania college, was held in $500 bail for court today on charges of obtaining money under false pretense and operating an employment agency without a license.

Testimony was given that a number of girls had paid him fees and had been persuaded to pose in bathing suits on promises of employment in motion pictures or as models in stores.

Bamford had $280 when arrested in a hotel where the girls gathered. Police said $100 of this had been obtained from girls in "registration fees" of $1 each.

He represented himself, police said, as the representative of a motion picture agency.

2 HURT, 4 HELD IN AUTO CRASH

Two girls were injured one critically when an automobile in which they were riding struck a pole in Second avenue near the Glenwood bridge. They are Daisy Richards 15 of 406 Fifth avenue and her sister Dolores 14. Both are in Mercy Hospital where it was said Daisy had a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Police arrested Joseph F. Duffy 24, of 812 North Lincoln avenue as driver of the car and Thomas Duffy 22 of 1129 Fifth avenue and Joseph Fox 18 of 101 Pride street. The latter two were arrested when they appeared with Joseph Duffy's credentials and tried to claim the automobile police said. Two Pittsburgh boys were reported in serious condition in the Butler Hospital as a result of automobile accidents in that place yesterday. Charles Ackerman of 126 Fremont street, Mt. Oliver, who was jolted from a truck to the road was reported critically hurt. His back is broken the hospital reports. 3 IN BETROTHAL KILLING HELD

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Three Cleveland youths, aged from 16 to 20, faced hearings before the Cuyahoga County grand jury today on charges of first-degree murder, following their arraignment last night in connection with the death of Miller Wilkison, 21, which occurred during an attempted holdup of an engagement party at a Shaker Heights home early yesterday morning.

The youths—Mike Bell, 16, Ross Valore, 19, and Angelo Bell, 20—waived preliminary examination. The latter youth was arraigned as he lay in his bed in St. Luke's Hospital, suffering a bullet wound in the knee, received during the attempted holdup. The electric chair will b asked for all three, according to First Assistant County Prosecutor P. L. A. Leighley.

Wilkison, a Princeton University senior, was shot in the forehead during a scuffle of guests at the party with the three youths as they attempted to rob the party. He died in a hospital a few hours later.

Close Indiana Bank And Jail Treasurer

HAMMOND, IND., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The Northern Trust and Savings Bank was closed today and an audit was being made of the accounts of Boleshaw Salik, its secretary-treasurer.

Salik spent the night in jail after Deputy Bank Commissioner Barr ordered the institution closed. Bank officials said Salik admitted embezzling $140,000 of the bank's funds and $71,000 from the First Polish Building and Loan Association of which he was secretary. This money was lost in real estate speculation and in the stock market, he told them.

The Northern Trust and Savings Bank was capitalized for $25,000.

PRISON GUARDS GO TO SCHOOL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(Universal)—Its worth having been proved at New York and Atlanta, a school for prison guards will be extended to every federal prison to instruct employes in penology, it was learned today.

"Intelligence in how to handle prisoners, how to help them on to the road to reformation and usefulness as members of society, is the guiding motto of the school according to James V. Bennett, acting director of the Federal Prison Bureau. He said:

"We are trying to teach guards modern methods. They are taught jiu jitsu, boxing and calisthenics, but the big idea is to teach them how to help the prisoners so as to avoid the use of force."

Nearly all newly enlisted guards are without previous prison experience. Hereafter they will be put through the school course. Jesse Stuaman, in charge of detention headquarters at New York City, is the traveling school master. Formerly he was warden at Rockview Penitentiary in Pensylvania.

EWALD INQUIRY BRANCHES OUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Developments have come thick and fast in the many-sided investigations of charges that public offices in New York have been bought and sold.

A new charge was made public by Federal Attorney Charles H. Tuttle who said Jacob Cash, former city marshal, told him just about the time of his appointment he paid Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader, $2,000 cash. Cash also reported giving Mrs. Healy a diamond and emerald bracelet.

It was Healy's receipt of $10,000 from Mrs. George F. Ewald about the time of her husband's appointment as a city magistrate, that brought the pending widespread investigation of the magistrates' courts.

Mrs. Ewald said the $10,000 was a loan to enable Healy to buy a house, but after a county grand jury had refused to indict anybody, Gov. Roosevelt ordered Attorney General Ward to take over investigation of the Ewald case superseding District Attorney Crain.

FLIES TO LEARN FRANKLIN FATE

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Officials of the Department of the Interior deny that Mal. L. T. Burwash, Canadian Arctic explorer, was flying toward the magnetic North Pole. They gave King Williams Land as his destination.

Burwash's purpose, they said, was to solve the fates of Sir John Franklin and 149 men who were lost there with two ships more than a century ago. They emphatically denied the report he would continue north to Boothia Island, the estimated position of the pole.

The explorer and his pilot, W. E. Gilbert, took off to the east toward Victoria Land Saturday and were expected to be at Cambridge Bay today. They will leave for King Williams Land as soon as weather permits, authorities said.

Marquise Startles Society With Long, Black Cigar

DEAUVILLE, France, Aug. 26.—(Universal)—Something new under the sun, that startled even the blase international society that is Deauville's, occurred here in the day's early morning hours, as the fashionables in a grand gala dinner at The Ambassadeurs celebrated the climax of the social season.

The exquisitely-gowned Marquise de Polignac, the former Nina Crosby, of New York, gave her fashionable companions a new sensation when, as is usually the case in mixed gatherings hereabouts, the women started smoking.

Moreover, she not only lighted it, but smoked the cigar with apparent relish, much to the amazement of her hosts, Lord and Lady Mountbatten.

We think we know something about coffee and we should—we have been handling it for over a quarter of a century.

The big national advertising Coffee concerns—some with beautifully written high flown mellifluous advertisements; others with published testimonials from the glittering galaxy of Hollywood stars, loudly sound the virtues of their respective coffees and praise their brands to the skies.

—And we agree their coffees are good—but, we strongly assert and emphatically claim that our My-Te-Good brand is about the equal in quality and our Fifth Avenue brand is superior to any of the nationally advertised brands of coffee—and just think of the difference in price!

If you are a "crank" on coffee—hard to satisfy—we urge you to try Fifth Avenue brand—buy a three-pound package; compare it with any of these much higher-priced coffees—if, in your judgment, Fifth Avenue is not superior, bring it back and we will cheerfully refund your money.

If you will only try Fifth Avenue brand once, you will save a lot of money on your future coffee bills.

ALBRECHT WED, STARTS COLONY

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 26 —(AP.)—Archduke Albrecht, of the Hapsburgs, aspirant to the Hungarian throne, has found, like King Carol of Rumania, that the royal road to romance is a rocky one.

The archduke, preferring love to leadership, has married Mme. Irene Leibach, divorced wife of the Hungarian minister to Sofia, also known as Irene Rudnay. He intends to renounce all his titles and privileges as a member of the Hapsburg royal family and emigrate to Brazil.

The marriage is said by an official communique to have been a civil ceremony, which took place some time ago, probably in London. With it virtually ends his chance of ever occupying the throne.

Albrecht was bitterly opposed in his romance by his mother, widow of the Archduke Friedrich. She was ambitious for him and led a fight against the pretentions of Archduke Otto, son of the ex-Emperor Charles.

In Brazil Albrecht acquired 150,000 acres of land, where he intends to settle with his bride and about 400 Hungarian retainers. He is 42 years old, whereas Otto will be 18 in November.

SHOWING MARKS TELEVISION'S HOME DEBUT

Program Presents Animated Drawings and Entertainers With Synchronized Sound

NEW YORK Aug 26 (AP)—Universal ... New Yorkers last night heard the most comprehensive radio-audio-vision broadcast ever put on in the United States and saw such things as an animated drawing and a dog televised for the first time.

The broadcast was sponsored by the American Radio News Corporation in co-operation with the New York Evening Journal and marked the emergence of television from the laboratory into the home.

Newspaper correspondents gathered in an apartment on Riverside Drive, 20 miles from the transmission point, witnessed the program on sets installed in home surroundings by the Jenkins Television Corporation. At other points in the city and in Newark and Jersey City, non-owners of television sets saw and heard the program on receiving sets placed in public places.

The visions were broadcast from the Jenkins television station in Jersey City and the synchronized sounds from the DeForest radio station in Passaic.

IMPROVEMENTS NOTED

Entertainers were plainly seen by the distant audience as they made their speeches or sang their songs and a marked improvement over previous television broadcasts was accomplished due to a newly developed automatic synchronizer for the scanning discs at the sending and receiving ends.

Stars of the program included Harry Hershfield, cartoonist, and his dog "Vamp;" George Jessel, movie and stage star; Diana Seaby, Broadway dancer; Arthur "Bugs" Baer, humorist; Dr. Shirley Wynne, New York health commissioner; Nelson Harding, cartoonist; Billy DeBeck, cartoonist; Rose Pelswick, movie critic, and Sid Grauman, a famous Hollywood showman. DeBeck and Harding were responsible for the first televised cartoons.

In the opinion of radio engineers who listened at different points in the city, the program signals the beginning of a new chapter in radio history.

BEATS CHICAGO STATION

In staging the program the American Radio News Corporation won priority over a Chicago station in being the first to put on a complete television broadcast for public entertainment. The Chicago station is to begin regular broadcasting this week.

Lieut. W. G. H. Finch, chief engineer of the American Radio News Corporation, said there are now 31 licensed radio-vision stations in the United States and he estimated that between 20,000 and 25,000 persons had to date witnessed television test programs. Now that television is out of the laboratory and into the home, he looks for rapid acceptance of it with corresponding progress in its development toward perfection of sound broadcasting.

Fliers Out of Gas 3,200 Feet Up Land on Roof

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 26—Pilot Walter Toepel of Pottstown, Pa., and W. M. Hewett, Lincoln Aircraft Company, Philadelphia, ran out of gasoline at an altitude of 3,200 feet, glided one mile and made a forced landing on the concrete roof of a water reservoir here. They landed with the wind at their back and nearly crashed into a brick wall.

The fliers made a sharp turn and escaped the wall, but blew a tire. The plane tipped perilously, but righted.

CAROLINA VOTES ON BLEASE

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—A tri-cornered battle for the senatorial toga of Cole L. Blease, for years a political storm center, today intensified interest in South Carolina's Democratic primary. Eight contestants sought the governorship.

Observers generally conceded that today's voting merely would serve to eliminate all except two contestants in each of these races. A run-off primary will be held September 9.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 26 (AP).—United States Senator Pat Harrison and seven of eight representatives were unopposed in today's Democratic primary, but the remaining member of the state's congressional delegation, Ross Collins, was engaged in a spirited contest in which his position in the 1928 presidential campaign was challenged.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—(AP).—A woman and a Democrat were among five aspirants for the Republican nomination for governor, the chief contest in California's state primary elections today.

The woman, Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, Los Angeles sister of United States Senator Samuel Shortridge, made a quiet campaign. The chief interest centered about the three-cornered fight featuring C. C. Young, incumbent, James Rolph, Jr., mayor of San Francisco, and Buron Fitts, district attorney at Los Angeles.

DRY LAW ISSUE IN IDAHO MEET

ST. ANTHONY, Idaho, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Prohibition was the principal issue before the Democratic state convention today. Leaders expressed belief that insistent demands from various delegations for a strong anti-prohibition plank might lead to general debate.

Chief among the Democratic aspirants for the gubernatorial nomination were C. Ben Ross, Pocatello mayor, and Asher B. Wilson, of Twin Falls.

At Idaho Falls Republican delegates gathered for their state convention. Managers of John McMurray, former state chairman, claimed sufficient votes to give him the gubernatorial nomination on the first ballot.

ADDING to Milady's beauty has become one of the nation's major industries. Today there are salons and parlors where expert hands tend to the setting of Madame's coiffure, where agile fingers knead Madame's face in an invigorating massage, where scientific preparations renew the beauty of the hungry skin. It is all-important that you seek out the more reliable of these shops. That you entrust your greatest asset—beauty—to experienced hands. Thus, we suggest that you patronize those establishments who advertise in the Sun-Telegraph. Their reputation is solid. They are the masters of their profession. So that you may easily use their messages as a guide, we have grouped them every Sunday in the Society Section of the Sun-Telegraph. In these masseurs, barbers and beauticians you may place the utmost confidence. They are Sun-Telegraph advertisers, and are endorsed by the Sun-Telegraph.

FESS PRAISES HOOVER RECORD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 — (AP) — A Republican view of the Hoover administration which, in contrast to the expressed views of Democratic party leaders, saw good in the agricultural marketing act and the tariff bill was presented last night by the party chairman, Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio.

Fess, speaking over the National Broadcasting System, scoffed at the idea that other countries would retaliate against the tariff duties. He gave President Hoover credit for dulling the edge of the business depression and said the future historian would probably place the President's work for world peace as the major accomplishment of his first year and a half in office.

In summing up administration achievements, he said the President "has taken a strong stand on the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and has presented to Congress recommendations of legislation to more effectually enforce the law."

Mr. Hoover called a special session, Fess said, to deal with campaign promises and out of it came a farm relief bill and a tariff bill. Fess said the farm bill was fundamentally sound and avoided the danger of direct subsidies from the government. He added that the tariff was revised to aid agriculture and industries in need of help against foreign competition.

"COURAGE TO DO WHAT I WANT NOW"

Restoration of a Man Who Tried to Travel Too Fast

"Yes, I date all my troubles from an attack of the flu early last fall. When the flu left me, it developed into catarrh. My stomach was very weak. I was constipated and it was months before I found out what to do for it. I had been running around a good deal, for our set of young folks is pretty lively, and after I thought I had got over the flu I tried to keep up with them," said Louis Cansul, who is a superintendent with a big trucking concern in New Castle, Pa. "But I found they were going at too fast a pace for me. I had no courage, nothing to look forward to, and at our parties I just sat around. It was not long until they began to drop me, and as my stomach grew worse I did not care much. I belched up sour gas after every meal and was short of breath. Soon my live got very sluggish, and at times I was dizzy and had trouble with my eyes. My blood got bad, my skin became ashy and pimply, and I lost all my ambition and pep. Altogether I was a pretty sick man. Just at this time a friend advised me to use World's Tonic, which he said was a new medicine brought from different parts of the world that was doing wonders for sick people.

"I found almost immediate relief with this valuable medicine. My stomach soon got back to normal, my liver worked well, my dizziness disappeared, and gradually my blood was restored to purity, so that my skin became clear and my eyes troubled me no more. I felt well again in about three weeks, but continued with the medicine several weeks more. The change it made in me was marvelous. I got back my energy, found myself full of pep and courage, could endure more and had more enterprise than ever before in my life. It is a great joy to be a real man again, with the strength and courage to do what I want to do, and the energy and vim to enjoy life. This is what World's Tonic did for me quickly and pleasantly—in a few short weeks. It is a remarkable medicine. I recommend it heartily to every man or woman who feels run down and weak." World's Tonic can be had of Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower or of any other first class drug store. (H-L)

Master Mysteries

By ARTHUR HOERL

The Body in the Basket

DALE GLANCED INTENTLY DOWN THE ALLEY AND A FEW MOMENTS LATER—"NO, I DON'T HAVE TO LOOK MUCH FURTHER, CAPTAIN."

JACKSON—WHY, THAT'S MR. WYTHE! RICHARD WYTHE, WHO LIVED AT DEAUVILLE COURT AT ONE TIME! HE WAS IN APARTMENT 1-B ON THE GROUND FLOOR.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The body of a murdered man is found in a basket taken from a service truck of the Imperial Laundry. The driver has no conception how it got there. The only clue is a $20 gold piece found beside the body.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER II

There was nothing of importance brought to light during the rest of that first investigation. Phelps went to work for fingerprints, making a record of whatever he might find for later comparison with those of such suspects as were brought in.

Dr. Watkins pronounced the man to be dead 10 or 12 hours. It was then three in the afternoon, which set the actual hour of the crime between three and five that morning. Capt. Blake left Phelps in charge with instructions that the body be transferred to the morgue there to await further developments.

He then left with Sergt. Jardin to call at the laundry garage and the four addresses Cochrane had given. Robin Dale of course went along with Blake.

The garage was close at hand and after half an hour's questioning it was fairly evident that the body could not have been brought into the garage and placed in the basket at that point. A night crew was on duty at all times adjusting and repairing the trucks, so that at no time were there less than half a dozen men on duty.

To go through such a cordon of workers was practically an impossibility. All the workmen, too, were accounted for, although it was evident from the clothes of the murdered man that he was anything but a mechanic. Capt. Blake, however, had a way of never neglecting the minutest possibility.

The manager of the Claire Hotel was interviewed next. While not strictly a first-class hotel the Claire was of the better kind, one of the newer hotels which catered to permanent guests. It contained over 800 rooms and apartments so that at this point, it became rather an involved matter.

Of course, there were numerous guests who had checked out during the preceding 24 hours. There were also guests who were out of their rooms for protracted periods of time, which made it difficult for the manager to state if anyone from the hotel was missing.

Capt. Blake spent two hours at the Claire and finally accompanied the manager to the morgue. The manager was unable to identify the murdered man.

"Don't believe I've ever seen the man in my life."

That much time had been wasted. They went to the Deauville Court apartment next. That was on Fifty-fifth street, off Sixth avenue. It was rather a stylish apartment with a huge loungingroom taking up the entire front of the building. The elevator gave on this lounge and from it led a short corridor to three apartments on the ground floor.

The telephone was in one corner of the lounge, partially screened by ferns. A uniformed attendant was at the board. Captain Blake questioned him, but apparently, so far as the attendant knew, there was no one in the house missing.

"Maybe you better talk to Wrightson . . . he might know more about it than I do." Wrightson was the janitor.

Wrightson was called but he knew less, if anything.

"I only got on the job today, sir; been all morning with the agents getting instructions an' just got here about noon. Jackson, the old janitor, would'a known more about the tenants."

"Where's Jackson?"

"He finished up here yesterday," volunteered the man at the board. "I think he was goin' to leave the city or something."

"Know where we might find him?"

Robin Dale sensed, as Captain Blake probably did, the possibility of something tangible. It was starting to snow when they got outside. Looking around at the apartment house, Dale saw something which further confirmed his suspicions. It was a service driveway, which formed an alley between the Deauville Court apartments and the adjoining building.

The driveway dipped down, once across the sidewalk, leading to the service entrance, which was in the basement. The driveway thus went down an incline the equivalent of a floor. Dale glanced intently down the alley for a few moments. It extended along its lower level to the service entrance of an apartment on Fifty-fourth street, and from there upward, leading out on that street. Thus it ran the entire length of the block.

"You won't have to look much further, Captain," Dale said to him.

"I saw that. I don't think we want to miss this fellow Jackson, either."

The address Capt. Blake had obtained as Jackson's home was on the East Side, on Eighty-seventh street. It turned out to be an old-fashioned flat house. Thomas Jackson was the name on the letter box. The flat was two flights up.

A mild-mannered man, small and quite slim, opened the door for them. He seemed a little frightened at the intrusion, at the imposing array of three stalwart men entering the flat. The three stepped into the dining room after Jackson had admitted to the name.

There was a young girl present, a girl in her early twenties, a frail-looking thing with large, luminous eyes.

"My daughter, gentlemen . . . Stella, would you excuse us, you can go into the front room, we'll finish packing later."

The girl went out without a word. Then Jackson turned to the visitors.

"My daughter isn't very well, we're leaving for Arizona in the morning. You wanted to see me, gentlemen?"

"You worked at the Deauville Court?"

Jackson turned and looked toward the front room anxiously. His tone was lower when he spoke to them.

"I thought it might be about the apartment . . . You see, my daughter doesn't know I've been just a janitor. Sort of been too proud to let her know because we—we had wealth at one time." He paused for a moment as though in retrospection; then he went on, "Is it about something I've left undone?"

"No, I thought you might be able to help us," and Captain Blake explained their mission. Jackson readily agreed to go to the morgue and attempt to identify the body. There had been no one missing from the apartment house so far as he knew the night before.

Before they left Jackson went into the front room and made some explanation to his daughter. It was after eight o'clock when they arrived at the morgue. Jackson showed the first signs of excitement as he gazed upon the body of the murdered man.

"Why! That's Mr. Wythe! Richard Wythe, who lived at Deauville Court. He was in apartment One-B on the ground floor. It doesn't seem possible—only yesterday I saw him alive!"

They all recognized the name immediately. Dick Wythe! A gambler whose name was better known than his face which had accounted for the failure to recognize him when his body was found.

Pound of Bacon Too Heavy As Snake Diet

PERRYOPOLIS, Pa., Aug. 26—Mrs. George Sabel has a snake story that takes the bacon.

She purchased a pound of bacon and laid it on a table in the basement-kitchen of her home. An hour later she found it had disappeared. Members of the family discovered a four-foot blacksnake under the kitchen table. It had entered through an open window and gulped down the smoked meat, but did not survive long afterward.

Cat, Cow and Dog In Wild Melee; 2 Men Hurt

PIPESTONE Minn Aug 26 (AP)—The cat and the cow and the dog of the old nursery rhyme Hi-Diddle-Diddle caused injuries to two men, one of whom is nursing a fractured leg.

Gust Thiel was milking his bossy with pussy sitting by licking her whiskers. Ralph Tyler a neighbor and his dog entered the barn and then things happened. The dog made a pass for the cat and the cat passed to the cow's back causing the bossy to jump but not over the moon. However she succeeded in breaking Thiel's leg. Tyler ran to Thiel's assistance and was clawed and pawed and kicked suffering scratches and bruises.

FRANK & SEDER "GOODWILL DAY"

NEXT THURSDAY, AUGUST 28th

Last Day of Department Buyers' Sale

Some Department Heads Answer Some Unasked Questions

HAROLD RHODES, Second Floor Apparel Buyer—We expect to surprise the people of Pittsburgh with a great deal on Goodwill Day through the remarkable Furniture Bargains in Women's and Misses' Fall Suits, Coats and Dresses on our second floor. This will be Pittsburgh's headquarters for Apparel on Thursday.

SERTRUDE COLLINS, Millinery Buyer—Every salon in this city will be a Goodwill Day Bargain Center for the whole family. The whole store will be a Goodwill Bargain Center for Hats & Seder. Because the values are the greatest we've ever been able to offer.

SAM MALDMAN, Furniture Buyer—The whole town is talking about Frank & Seder Furniture values, but come on Thursday, Goodwill Day, and see the wonderful bargains we have in store for you.

Miss SULLIVAN, Corsets and Negligees—Every one of us on the third floor (that includes my neighbors in the Gown Infants Shop and Millinery Department) is prepared with the most wonderful bargains in New Fall merchandise for Goodwill Day.

M. S. KIMMEL, Rug Buyer—I want you folks to know that the manufacturer gave us a large part of their profits so we could give you the biggest bargains of the year in Rugs and Draperies on Thursday.

MRS. GANLEY, Fur Dept.—I have been in the Fur business for more years than I care to remember but never have I seen such assortments and values in Fur Coats as we are going to offer Thursday, Goodwill Day.

GEORGE FITZPATRICK, Merchandise Controller—I have gone over the Buyers' orders of merchandise for Goodwill Day, and you can take my word for it they certainly bought the goods at sensationally low prices. If the public knows bargains we ought to crowd the store on Thursday.

MAURICE ARNFELD, Mgr. Men's and Boys' Depts.—The manufacturers certainly went the limit in giving us concessions on New Fall merchandise for Goodwill Day. I personally urge every economical Dad to bring his boys here Thursday and outfit himself and them from head to foot at extraordinary savings.

MATTHEW B. GRANT, Blankets and Domestics—There ought to be a crowd waiting for the doors to open to get the bargains I have for them in Blankets and Domestics. I have prepared for capacity business Thursday, because every economical family will want these enormous savings.

JAMES ALTER, Supt. Bargain Basement—Well, the boys certainly came through this trip with Bargains that'll crowd our Basement the minute the doors open on Thursday. You THINK you've bought Bargains, but wait until you come here Thursday and you'll get the surprise of your life.

DID YOU EVER RUN A STORE?

Frank & Seder department heads are given the opportunity in August to run the store. This idea developed several years ago and when it was tried it was so successful that it has become a fixed policy of Frank & Seder ever since. After all it is only when one is given full responsibility is it possible to measure one's true value. And this is as true of an organization as it is of an individual. At one time August was looked upon as an off month—a little too late for summer goods and a little too early for fall merchandise. But all this has been changed at this store. The department buyers discovered that by working closely with manufacturers and placing their orders for fall at a time when the manufacturers needed business that it was possible to save a great deal of money. Then, fortified with these advantageous purchases, they were in a position to offer this merchandise to the public below regular prices. The result has been that thousands of families in Pittsburgh are glad to anticipate their fall and winter needs in exchange for the wonderful savings they obtain. This month more than ever, the public has been eager to buy wherever they could save, and that is why the Department Buyers' Sale which comes to a close on Thursday has been such an outstanding success. But we want everybody to come on the last day when they will have the opportunity to share in Goodwill Bargains that they will remember until the next Department Buyers' Sale.

AUGUST SALES SOON END

Economical families should keep in mind that this is the last week of the August Sales and to save on needed Fall and Winter merchandise while the opportunity is still here. Extraordinary values will be offered Thursday in our August Sales of Women's and Misses' Cloth Coats and Fur Coats, Furniture and Blankets.

MANUFACTURERS INTERESTED IN GOODWILL DAY

It is natural that manufacturers should take a special interest in this Goodwill Day because it has been planned by the Department Buyers. Some of these buyers have been doing business with these manufacturers for many, many years, and there has been created a friendship as well as business association. That is why so much of the goods that will be offered on Goodwill Day, Thursday, has been given to our Buyers at such unusual concessions. And the public is going to make the savings. After all there is some sentiment in business and every manufacturer is as anxious as our own Buyers to see a great big day on Thursday, and we must say that the manufacturers have shown their goodwill in a most practical way by sacrificing their profits at the beginning of the Fall season.

Goodwill Offerings for the Whole Family!

LET'S TALK COMMON CENTS

Yes, we mean CENTS. Just now everybody is thinking even of the value in SAVING CENTS. A few cents saved here, a few cents saved there, and you'll be surprised what all these small savings on purchases finally totals. On small items you will save MANY CENTS at Frank & Seder on Thursday—and on the larger items you can figure your SAVINGS IN TERMS OF MANY DOLLARS.

IT'S WORTH A LOT TO US

The Goodwill of a customer is worth a lot to any store. She is a goodwill messenger. She shows her purchase to a friend, and tells her what a wonderful value it is. She speaks of the service and attention she received, how nice the saleslady was who waited on her and so forth and so on. That's why Frank & Seder do everything possible to satisfy the customer, let us outfit them.

GET THE CHILDREN READY FOR SCHOOL

We haven't selected just a few specials for this Goodwill Day, but have planned offerings in Girls' and Boys' School Apparel that will meet the needs of children of every age. You will be surprised at the new low price levels in our children's departments thus assuring a very substantial saving to parents. Bring your children here Thursday and let us outfit them.

FURNITURE VALUES THAT WILL CREATE GOODWILL FOR OUR NEW DEPT.

Our Furniture Buyer has prepared to offer Living Room, Dining Room and Bedroom Suites, as well as Odd Pieces of Furniture on next Thursday at prices that will establish a new record for value giving. As ours is a new department, every piece of Furniture we feature, regardless of how low the price, must of necessity be brand new. We urge every housewife in Pittsburgh to wait until Thursday before buying furniture. This is the opportunity we have been waiting for to create goodwill for this new department and we expect to make a multitude of new friends and customers with the extraordinary offerings on Thursday.

Trainloads of Purchases for Frank & Seder Goodwill Day

Our Department Buyers as a goodwill gesture to the public for Thursday, the last day of the Department Buyers' Sale, planned with the manufacturers vast purchases of New Fall merchandise at extraordinary concessions. These goods have been received, and ticketed for Thursday's selling at prices that will create a sensation in the city.

Interesting!

It's ... person, who ... make ... pr... n...

Thursday will be the LAST DAY of the Department Buyers' Sale. And in appreciation of the splendid response of the public to this August Event our Buyers have designated it as GOODWILL DAY. But it will be much more than merely a name. It will take the form of GOODWILL offerings featuring values that will make this a long-to-be-remembered day for those who come.

SNAPPERS

The man who buys and saves has enough to buy another day.

About the only man who seems to have lost the Goodwill of the public is the Weather Man. But he'll find it Thursday at Frank & Seder.

* * *

Some one said that business must be bad because even the liars are complaining.

* * *

Persons who used to pay rent for homes and then live most of the time in cabarets are back home again.

* * *

These are the times when even families who have plenty of Dollars use their Common Sense to save in their buying.

* * *

It looks as if everybody has just about made up his mind that he's been wearing a long face long enough.

George Morgan
—A Pittsburgh Institution

George Morgan, Frank & Seder's first floor director, is as familiar a figure to Pittsburghers as the Mayor himself. He's all set with his best Goodwill Smile to welcome the biggest crowd next Thursday that ever passed through our doors.

The department heads have been busily engaged with the manufacturers assembling bargains to make the last the GREATEST DAY of the entire sale.

The manufacturers, glad of the opportunity to show their good will to the buyers who do so much business with them throughout the year, sacrificed a part of their profits so that we should be able to offer NEW WANTED FALL merchandise at LESS THAN PREVAILING PRICES.

Fall is just around the corner and when you can buy APPAREL and HOME FURNISHINGS at the UNUSUAL SAVINGS we will offer on THURSDAY it will be the height of extravagance to delay your purchases. We personally urge you in the name of EVERY BUYER to make EVERY POSSIBLE EFFORT to take advantage of these bargains. This can't be such a profit-making day, but it will bring CAPACITY CROWDS and make thousands of NEW FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS for us, and thus increase the volume of GOODWILL we already enjoy.

ARRANGE YOUR HOME AFFAIRS SO YOU CAN BE HERE ON THURSDAY—

Check up what you need in your home—look over the family needs in the way of Fall and Winter apparel — and keep in mind outfitting the children for school. You will be amazed at how much you will save.

IN HOLLYWOOD LIARS ARE TELLING THE TRUTH

They say that in Hollywood things are so bad that even the liars are complaining. But we get a different picture here in Pittsburgh. Indications point to a definite upturn in industry, more people are going to work, and with prices down to the basis that Frank & Seder will feature on Thursday, brighter conditions are in store for most families.

REFUSE PLANES AS RUM SPIES

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—Coast Guard headquarters at Washington refused to send airplanes to Lake Erie to aid in locating and watching the motorboats of the lake's new organized rum ring, according to word received here today.

"In the first place" the local Coast Guard station was informed through Capt. Benjamin M. Chiswell, assistant commandant of the Coast Guard, "We have only three planes, two being at Cape May, and one at Gloucester, Mass. They are needed where they are, and even if we had additional planes they probably would be used chiefly for life saving purposes."

A contract will be let within a few weeks for the manufacture of eight more planes for the Coast Guard but it is said to be unlikely that any of them will be used for catching liquor vessels. It is thought here one of the planes will be assigned to Lake Erie but only to save lives and property in case of lake accidents.

POWDER
REMOVES GREASE SPOTS WITHOUT LEAVING A "RING"
Most silks are now "weighted" or "loaded" with foreign substances to make them appear of better quality. Liquid cleaners dissolve this "weighting" or "loading," and this causes "rings" on Silks. We have therefore created Carbona Grease Absorbent Powder for use on Silks only. This Powder will not affect "weighting" or "loading" in any way—it absorbs Grease Spots instead of dissolving them, and no "rings" can result from its use on Silks.

HUGE RAIL FUND TIED UP

WASHINGTON Aug 26 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has $10,000,000 in its railroad contingent fund but is unable to use a cent of it at the present time.

This amount has been collected from prosperous roads earning more than 6 per cent on their investment under the provisions of the 1920 railway transportation act.

The money was intended to be loaned to weaker roads, but this has been barred by Comptroller General McCarl until the commission fixes a valuation on the railroads. In nearly every case it has been paid under protest. McCarl ruled that none of the money should be used pending a final valuation.

Since January 1 the commission has been busily engaged in valuation work and the value of some of the roads is expected to be decided next winter. As quickly as the valuation of individual railroads is completed any money paid into the contingent fund would become available for less profitable roads.

CONCERT CALLS ON INCREASE

NEW YORK Aug 26 (AP)—Whatever the economic condition of the country may be, there is an increased demand for concert artists, managers said. Instead of a heavy slump as they expected, they are encountering a demand 20 per cent heavier than a year ago from the 2,000 managers and organizations that book concerts for the American public.

"Heavy advance concert bookings invariably indicate confidence by the public in business conditions," said George Engles, who has under his management 30 representative musicians, including Paderewski, Madame Schumann-Heink, Walter Damrosch, Reinald Werrenrath and Jose Mojica.

"Music is still looked upon by the majority of the American people as a luxury. The concert business is therefore among the first to suffer when hard times are imminent. There is no such indication at present."

French See Dawes Visit as Land Boost

PARIS Aug 26 (AP)—The visit of Ambassador Dawes to the historic Dordogne country, where he is pursuing one of his hobbies, archaeological investigation, has attracted considerable attention in the French press.

Louis Forest Matin writer called the ambassador's vacation a "second Dawes plan." He calls attention of the French people to the value of the archaeological work which has been done there and to the beauty of the Dordogne scenery, but declares the region gradually is being depopulated.

7,000 Workers Quit in N. Y. Garment Strike

NEW YORK Aug 26 (AP)—A general strike began today in the children's dress industry and union leaders said 7,000 men and women had not reported for work.

'QUEEN,' 6 BOYS HELD FOR TRIAL

Six alleged bandits and their "queen" arrested last week and partially identified as members of the gang which preyed on taxi drivers and "petting parties" were turned over to county detectives today at a hearing in Morals Court.

City Detective Walter Monahan told the magistrate that while the holdups were planned in the city, practically all of them occurred in the county near the Babcock boulevard.

Helen Shaefer, 17, of Cherry street, Etna, was described as the "bandit queen." Others held with her include Henry Swick, Alphonse Winkler, Joseph Kleitz, James Murphy and Lawrence Rosenblatt of Millvale and Marshall Thompson of Bowerstown.

$30,000,000 Hotels Go to Corporation

WASHINGTON Aug 26—(INS)—Hotel and apartment house properties valued at $30,000,000, comprising the entire holdings of Harry Wardman, nationally known in real estate and building construction activities, have been taken over by a group of capitalists, it was announced today.

The properties, including Wardman Park, Carlton, Roosevelt, Chastleton and Annapolis hotels, were turned over to the Hotel Management and Securities Corporation.

Rabbit Chase Traps Dogs in Drain 5 Days

BERLIN, Ill., Aug. 26—(AP)—Bob Rozie and Prince, three of William Allen's fox terriers, were rescued last night from an underground drain tile in which they had been imprisoned five days. The dogs ran into the tile while chasing a rabbit and were wedged. Allen dug holes five feet deep, down to the tile. Yesterday, on the tenth hole and a half mile from where the dogs entered the tile, he found them and pulled them out. All recovered.

NOVEL TONE TEST OF RADIO RECEIVING SET IN WESTINGHOUSE SALUTE

The Loudspeaker

Sacking the Masters.
Impressions.
Big Games This Fall.
Channel Swims.

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The demands of radio are insatiable. Dance maestros cannot afford to wait for Broadway inspiration. The race for microphonic glory is to the swift, the new, the different—particularly the different.

Louis Reid

Therefore, they are ransacking the sacred shelves of the masters for melodies most adaptable to fox trot and one-step tempos. Thus has classical jazz found a place in the ever-changing scene. Thus is the saxophone and muted horn paying tribute to Wagner and Beethoven, to Verdi and Lizst.

* * *

Dancers, once they have stepped to the glamorous phrases of the "Evening Star," are loath to shuffle a paltry "Puttin' on the Ritz." Even Harlem is contributing its share to the glorification of the masters. From its subterranean jungles "Celestial Aida" in dance rhythm is being blended with such things as "Tiger Rag."

Things we never tire of: The Largo of the "New World Symphony," Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," the "Liebestraum" of Liszt, the Fifth Hungarian Dance of Brahms, Chaminade's "Scarf Dance," the Prelude to "Die Meistersinger," Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Le Coq d'Or" and "Scheherzade," Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Washington Post" and "El Capitan," the completed scores of "Eileen"—the most lilting of all Herbert's music—and "Babes in Toyland," Jerome Kern's "Ol' Man River," the Negro spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot;" "MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" when sung by a contralto, and Nevin's "A Night in Venice."

Dance Bands Discover Music Masters

Dance bands have discovered these numbers and are offering them nightly to the listeners in the armchairs as well as to those way-farers who wander to the roof gardens in search of the songwriters' moon. Moreover, they play them with a smoothness and a virtuosity that would not turn even a Gounod in his grave. D—— clever, these dance bands!

Impressions: The fondness of male quartets for "Dear Old Pal." The unmistakable carnival spirit contained in Ferde Grofe's "Mardi Gras." The incomparable sweep of violins in the "Ride of the Valkyries." The regal grandeur of "Pomp and Circumstance." The inexplicable absence of the refreshing note of anger in the radio talks of politicians. The inexhaustibility of food receipts on the air. The seductiveness of the Vallee's "Deep Night."

Radio's Biggest Football Games

The Harvard-Yale, Army-Notre Dame football games are the most important to the broadcasters. They're the only ones that find a regular place each year on the schedules of both networks.

Smoke is truly in the air. Manufacturers of cigars and cigarets far outnumber other commercial sponsors of radio programs.

When television comes it will bring many regrets. Regrets that it arrived too late to record the Lindbergh celebration in New York, the awkward efficiency of Hans Wagner, the invincibleness of Walter Johnson at his prime, the broken-field running of Red Grange, that most thrilling of all ring battles, the Dempsey-Firpo fight; the dramatic battle over the Ku Klux Klan plank at the 1924 Democratic National Convention, the arrival of Coolidge in Northampton after surrendering the White House key to Hoover, the arrival of the Graf Zeppelin at Lakehurst on its first flight to America, Man o' War thundering up the home stretch, Armistice Night in New York.

Most members of the Russian aristocracy who are not driving taxicabs in Paris and playing extras in Hollywood are on the staffs of broadcasting stations.

Channel-Swimming Absent From the Air

Channel-swimming is the only sport—if it can be called sport—that, thank Allah, has not reached the ear-cuppers.

* * *

The favorite tear-jerkers of the Mark Hanna era, "Father, Dear Father, Come Home to Me Now" and "A Married Woman's Lament," are finding more and more time on the loudspeakers. It's just too bad.

Of all the Broadway comedians of a generation ago only Frank Moulan has found a place on the regular schedules of the broadcasters. His unusual talent for warbling the difficult patter of W. S. Gilbert without missing a syllable has given him a ranking on the radio that has been denied to other stars of yesterday.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

An entirely new kind of program is on the Westinghouse Salute from KDKA at 10 o'clock tonight.

Briefly the stunt is to have a regulation receiving set take the place of artists for part of the program. Listeners will be asked to determine if there is any difference in tone between the artists playing directly over the microphones in Studio A or in the rebroadcast of their music over this receiving set.

Helen Greenwood.

We have never heard of anything quite so novel—leave it to these Westinghouse boys to figure out the new ones.

Part of tonight's Westinghouse Salute will go direct to the NBC network from Studio A. The other part will go direct over the network from Studio B, where a Westinghouse receiver will pickup the Studio A broadcast and rebroadcast it through a microphone placed a foot away from its loudspeaker.

The salute is to radio dealers the world over. Helen Maree Greenwood, lyric soprano, is the featured artist.

Who remembers Herbert Polesie, who announced some of the first programs over KDKA? He's "Henry" in the Henry-George skit, which comes to us at 9 o'clock over WJAS.

"Jim" Simpson—back from New York—is still in a quandary about his other stars and has asked us to help out.

* * *

And "Us" means you, so let's go.

Whom would you like to see at Duquesne Garden the week of September 29 to October 4?

* * *

QUESTION A DAY:

Marjorie Gray, Greenfield—Are Jesse Kaufman, manager of WCAE, and Louis Kaufman, KDKA announcer, related?

A.—No. Both live in Squirrel Hill, however, and this sometimes leads people to believe they're related some way.

Vee Lawnhurst—she of the golden hair—is to play and croon over KDKA at 9 o'clock in the Tek program. If you like crooning, here's a girl who goes the rest of the pack a mile better.

FULL TIME FOR KQV

A. C. Wrigley, of Dormont, was first up in yesterday's mailbag with a long discourse on KQV and its split time schedule.

Mr. Wrigley says:

"Why should the Radio Commission compel KQV on 500 watts to split time with WSMK at Dayton on 200 watts when it is clear to everyone that they do not interfere over the 300-mile area which separates them? If the commission's argument is sound that they do interfere, then why does the commission allow WORD on 5,000 watts at Batavia and WCKY on 5,000 watts at Covington, Ky., to operate simultaneously? Is this logical? What is sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander. If two high-powered stations can operate on the same wavelength over a 250-mile area then surely two low-powered broadcasters can use a similar wave when the distance is even greater.

"Another thing, what good does it do KQV to be among the pioneers in radio if they must mark time every time another station later in the game wants to slice time off their schedule? Surely a station that has stayed with radio since the beginning should have priority rights. I know that KQV is not the most popular station in the world, but it has loyal followers like myself who like its type of programs. We'd like to see KQV back on full time."

No Longer Skinny, Nervous. I Gained 4 Lbs. in 2 Weeks

"I was nervous, run-down, cross, tired until I took Ironized Yeast. Gained 4 lbs. in 2 weeks, nervousness gone, clear skin."—Mrs. B. Rogers.

Thousands who were "skinny," weak, nervous, write of 5 to 15 lbs. gained in 3 weeks with Ironized Yeast. Bony limbs round out. Ugly hollows fill in. Blemished skin clears like magic. Nervousness, indigestion, constipation end overnight. Sound sleep, new pep.

Two great tonics in one—special weight-building Brewer's Yeast and strengthening iron. Pleasant little tablets. Far stronger than unmedicated yeast. Results in ½ time. No yeasty taste, no gas.

HOLLYWOOD, GOTHAM AND LOCAL AMUSEMENT COMMENT

Louis Wolheim Not Only In Love Scene But He Gets Girl

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.

Once upon a time, I asked Louis Wolheim if he had ever played a love scene. Was he incensed!

Well, the big opportunity is at hand. Louis not only will play a love scene, but he will get the girl at the finish of the untitled sea story, which is now being whipped into shape by Hugh Herbert, actor and scenarist.

The girl in the picture is to be Mary Astor. And usurping Louis' usual post as "heavy" will be Ian Keith, the tall leading man who bears a faint resemblance to John Barrymore.

Louis Wolheim

Wolheim himself is directing. According to Herbert's description, the characters in the picture will be a jolly crew. The girl is a bum, Wolheim is a bum, Keith is an even worse bum and Herbert, who'll turn actor when the script's finished, will be a good-natured vagabond.

Aside from that, an atmosphere of refinement will prevail.

You'll recall that the cheerfully vulgar comedy, "Two Arabian Nights," was one of Wolheim's biggest hits.

ROGERS UNIMPRESSED

When Will Rogers went to the Fox lot, they built him a beautiful bungalow dressing room. Up to this day, Will has never used it. He went in once, made a quick change and hung his shirt on the candelier. Shortly afterwards he told the Fox people that he intended renting one of the rooms to a scenarist.

The comedian usually appears at the studio in a pair of overalls or an old black suit with white stripes in it. He doesn't wear neckties, but has been known to borrow one to attend a story conference.

STARTLING

To me, the height of something or other is that Fox has just arranged for the ultra-modern Joseph Urban to design two sets for their talking version of "East Lynne."

NAME RUTH'S LEAD

Ruth Chatterton.

Anyway, David Manners, the pleasing youngster of "Journey's End," has been chosen to appear as one of these loves in the heroine's life. Since he is the first, he'll probably be in and out of the picture. But a part's a part, and there are mighty few of them being given out in Hollywood these lazy summer days.

WILLING TO GAMBLE

Victor McLaglen proposes—and he insists he is serious—to enter into a novel compact with 100 of his friends in Hollywood. Each man will be asked to put up $1,000. The total amount will be put in a trust fund, and the longest surviving member will receive the principal. The club might aptly call itself "Hollywood's Last Man Club."

SHE BELONGS TO HILLS DOES OUR HEROINE ON SHOWBOAT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Driven From Home" is the latest inspiration of Capt. Menke. And what drammer! It has everyone up on the Golden Rod Showboat at Montrose waiting for the snow and the blizzard. But neither come. And neither is there any kind of a storm. Which is a courageous gesture on Producer Menke's part. He dares to drive a heroine from home without the accompaniment of a growling sky.

Drammer did we say? Yes, we said DRAMMER. There is the gal with the baby. And there is papa with the shotgun. Do right by Our Nell . . .

This papa—fresh from them that hills with an armful of firearms—means business. The old tradition of an older Kentucky, you know. (KEENtucky, they call it in the play. And 'tis keen!)

THE STERN FATHER

Frank Anton is made up as the stern father. He looks like another Grizzly Bear Smith, old hero of Boy Scoutdom. And that double-barreled gat he shoulders doesn't need much encouragement. "I'll shoot him like a dog," he says. And pop, pop, pop—another villain bites the dust of the Golden Rod stage. Another bottle of red ink smears up another forehead.

But let's get serious. There are more laughs to "Driven From Home" than Walter Winchell has wisecracks. Carl Replogle in a comedy role as usual, is in glorious form. When the audience shows appreciation by tossing nickels and dimes on the stage, he becomes the business man. The hero may get heroic, the heroine may get a baby, the villain may get a piece of lead from ambush—but Comedian Replogle gets the Buffalos and the Indian heads.

THE LEADING MAN

Our favorite showboat heroine, Marie McLain, is on hand. But we meet a new leading man. He's a nice young fellow, Billie Smyre, by name. He has come all the way from Mississippi or some place with a lot of serious heroics and Wooden Indian gestures.

Shades of Lillian Gish in "Way Down East." Shades of ourselves when we were fourteen and dared take our best girl to the movies. (It was the old Bijou Dream in East Liberty). And shades of anything at all—that is "Driven From Home."

It is a great big evening of fun. Go up to Montrose and get an eye and an ear full of this showboat.

And next week, ladies and gentlemen, The Golden Rod will proudly present "East Lynne."

This Town of Ours

The F. S. Moody's (Helen Wills) are so thrilled! . . . Billie Dove's husband got a million to be a good boy . . . Dorothy Mackaill and Paul Barke are on fire . . . Cosmo Hamilton's dotter, Joan, is being adored at Bellport by Rinaldo Herrara . . . That Will Osborne-Miss America betrothal announcement was ballyhooey, his real honey agreeing to it . . . Howard Hughes sailed with his "heart" as H. Pierson . . . One of the more distinguished stars just put her husband (a former critic) in a Long Island booby place . . . If the decree is granted Tony Biddle will middle-aisle it with Margaret Thompson Schultz, who has a mint . . . And Mrs. Biddle has changed her son's tag, Anthony, Jr., to Michael . . . The Main Stem in Reno is christened Liberty Street.

Scorch Jean Nathan is stopping shows at parties with an imported handkerchief trick . . . After spending 125 G's on her, Murray Pasner was iced by Helen Kane . . . It's a lad at the David G. Stocks, and at the Chas. (Wall St.) Doulenses . . . The bluest lines ever heard via the screen are in Joe E. Brown's "Top Speed" moompitcher . . . In Memoriam: The Benedict Gimbel-Betty Hamburger romance . . . Julius Rosenwald, the Sears, Roebuck star, will be a grandpaw shortly . . . Anna, the hat checker at Tony's, is plenty pretty, but she only goes out with three guys—Prince F., of Hungary; Lord C., of London, and a young Russian stock broker.

One theatrical section yesterday announced: "Frances Williams and Charlie, the trained seal, are at Proctor's 86th St. Theater." . . . Is she going around with a seal, now? . . . Talk about queer people. Carroll Graham, co-author of the hit novel, "Queer People," is urged by the management of Tillie's Chicken Inn., Harlem, to communicate at once, or else . . . Add Similes: George Worts' "He's the kind of a guy who always starts a check account with the number 3000" . . . Scribner's probably will kiss us for informing them that the novel on which F. Scott Fitzgerald has been sweating for 3 yrs will be delivered within 3 months.

Suzanne Bennett (Lady Sir Hubert Wilkins) will return to the stage, with his consent, of course . . . Ditto for Leila Westley, whose husband is sec'y of the N. Y. Aerial Police . . . Capt. Frank Hawkes is turning down offers for indorsements . . . He has a 14-year-old stepson, by the way . . . Special orders have been given the Wright people to rush installation of Lindbergh's new high-speed motor in his plane, the Hawks' achievement irritating the lad plenty . . . Mme. Helena Rubenstein, the beauty umpire, who makes a million every year out of the vanity of you, you, you and you!—is plotting an oygle-goygle "Ladies Only" party at her Central Park West shack . . . A Stock Exchanger wears long hose instead of sox.

Recommended to diversion seekers: Minsky's Girlesk show on Houston St., for howls! . . . Kate Smith's platter of "I Don't Mind Singing in the Rain" . . . George Arliss in "Old English" and the Betty Compton hoofing short at Warner's . . . Ramon & Rosita, and Frances Maddux at the El Patio, a pashy place . . . Paul Mears' Nut Club, on W. 136th near Lenox, real Harlem madness. . . . The Sunday and Chewsday "Special Nights" at the Central Park Casino . . . Floyd Gibbons, Phil Baker and Benny Rubin at the Palace . . . "Charles Michaelson," by Frank Kent, in Scribner's . . . and to pull down your pulse, try equal parts of gin, lemon juice and applejack, with a dash of grenadine.

Maurice Campbell, ex-Prohib. Administrator here, is asking $10,000 for his expose containing photostat copies of the most amazing graft missives, etc. . . . Larry Fay bought 50 copies of "Only Saps Work" to gift to friends . . . Yes, it mentions him prominently . . . Sally Fisher has left the affing-room . . . Seward Ehrich ankled up an altar in Baltimore as predicted . . . The Prince of Egypt, now Broadwaywarding it, is publicity-mad . . . H. Reichenbach pepigrams: "When a woman falls in love she acts like a fool. When a man falls in love—it is not acting" . . . Oh, Mr. Ripley! Harry Thaw wears celluloid collars!

One of the better speakeasies is disguised as an undertaking establishment . . . You go thru the chapel to the bar . . . J. H. Baker suggests a better tag for Broadway than "No-way Street." . . . He offers: "The Great Sharkey Way," because so many people are fouled on it . . . Tom Wells, editor of Harper's mag, will resign in three months . . . "No Bed of Roses," by Mrs. Ryan Walker, crashed Brentano's "Six Best" . . . Noel Meadow, of the maks, is L. Blumenfeld . . . The Bank of the U. The Hon. Sam Allsopp, son of Lord Hindlip, and Elaine Ullman will be sealed . . . Joseph Urban and F. Ziegfeld, who are supposed to have minds, are chain-letter forwarders.

Marbardi, the Egyptian blackgammon king, gets 50 smackers for teaching it to the swelegants . . . The Paul Greenwoods (Marion Conway), after a 5-month war, are reconciling . . . Helen Morgan's maw is plenty sick . . . Mary Rennels was presented with a death mask of the late Bill Bolitho, the widow's gift . . . The Mencken-Haardt handcuffing will be so quiet you'll be able to hear a pin (!) drop . . . Dick Hoyt, of Hayden-Stone & Co., and Major Lamphie., Lindy's instructor, went slumming at Minsky's burleecue premiere . . . Cynthia Rodgers couldn't make the "Gaieties" matinee Wensdee . . . Good stuff, too . . . Annette Bracey has a play . . . Leota Winters is a secret bride . . . Five ticket specs will be fined $150 by the Theater League for gyping. That only leaves them $550 profit, poor fellows!

The Wm. Collier, Jr., Probak Razor testimonial was spoiled by using Eddie Foy, Jr.'s photo . . . H. Rockey's "Masked Longing" tome will twit a well-known physician, a prima donna, a tenor and a columnist . . . The Sammy Lees are On the Verge . . . Helen Eby Rock, of Bayard Veiller's new play, "That's the Woman," will be welded to Elmer Conway, the printer . . . Her third and his second altar-ation . . . See tomorrow's for R. Vallee's wrist-spanking . . . Add Ideally Happy Endings: John Rumsey was the guest of the Robert Lehmans the other week-end, Mrs. Lehman being the former Mrs. John Rumsey . . . The other day the Lehmans were the house-guests of John Rumsey.

CLAIM ARRESTS SOLVE THEFTS

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Breaking up of a robber gang believed by authorities to have operated in the tri-state district may be the result of the investigation of the hold-up at the local office of the Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company last Friday.

Sheriff I. W. Charnock, of Brooke County said a confession had been secured from Clinton Windlan, of Bertha, Pa., in jail here, that he participated in the robbery. Windlan was said to have implicated J. C. Cutlip, of Sabraton, W. Va., in the Wellsburg robbery as well as a $3,000 holdup at Steubenville, O., last June. Cutlip also is under arrest.

Several other arrests have been made in connection with the investigation, and among those held is John Robey, of Bertha, who is in the Washington County, Pa., jail. Police would not reveal where the others were held.

Two women were arrested, but county authorities said they were not held in connection with the robbery investigation.

Savings Accounts Prosperity Sign

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A sign of prosperity is noted by Philip A. Benson, treasurer of the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn. It is that the volume of business in savings banks has increased in the last 10 months and the great mass of men are not in the unemployed class and they are saving what money they can.

YOU'LL NEVER KNOW WHAT YOU'RE MISSING

It's one thing to say we'll do a thing—it's quite another thing to do it. Changing tooth pastes, for example. Many of us see the PEBECO advertisements, believe their simple explanation of Pebeco's extra value. Many of us hear our friends tell of the real mouth exhilaration and comfort Pebeco gives . . . and then we put off buying it. Remember this: You'll never know what you're missing until you try Pebeco—and the trial costs mighty little. Delay no longer.

BEDS . . . August Furniture Specials

When the furniture market—like all commodity markets—took its now-famous slide, it took beds and bedding with it. When Kaufmann's decided the time was ripe for quick and aggressive buying, we played havoc with the manufacturers' bookkeeping. Maybe you don't know what kind of values these are. But your neighbor will have been here, and if you'll take good advice you'll follow.

WORK ON RIVERS TO AID JOBLESS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Secretary Hurley prepared for an immediate inspection of all Mississippi waterway, river and harbor and flood control works from Minneapolis to New Orleans, while Army engineers were gathering data with a view to speeding up river work to relieve unemployment.

Maj. Gens. Lytle Brown, chief of Army engineers, and Thomas Q. Ashburn, chairman of the Inland Waterways Corporation, have been selected by the secretary to accompany him. The trip down the river will be made by boat and Hurley plans to survey projects away from the stream by airplane. The war secretary will begin his tour about September 1.

The work of the engineers to determine which projects can be expedited to relieve unemployment is being done as a result of the conference over the week-end between President Hoover, Secretary Hurley and Army engineers at the President's Rapidan camp.

Localities where unemployment is most serious will be given the benefit, as far as is possible, of the residue of the $35,000,000 available during the fiscal year for flood control work, the secretary said.

'ATTIC' JURORS DISAGREE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Unable to reach a verdict, the jury which heard the trial of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich for the slaying of her husband, Fred Oesterreich, wealthy Milwaukee manufacturer, was discharged.

The jury had deliberated since Saturday morning.

The six women and six men, after being dismissed, told newspapermen the voting stood 10 to 2, with the majority favoring conviction of second degree murder, and two voting for acquittal. Saturday, they said, four ballots were cast for conviction of first-degree murder.

Mrs. Oesterreich was indicted this spring with her "attic sweetheart," Otto Sanhuber, for the slaying of Oesterreich August 22, 1922. Sanhuber, tried separately, was convicted of manslaughter, but freed by the statute of limitations.

House Burns Down, Occupants Routed

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 26.—The seven-room house of Alvin Shepard, Coal Hill, was burned to the ground with loss of $3,000. The occupants barely had time to get out. A defective flue was assigned as the cause. The family had started a wood fire in the stove and retired.

Gifford Pinchot, nominee for governor, was invited, but was unable to attend because of previous engagements. Congressman Henry W. Temple, State Senator Chauncey W. Parkinson and candidates for the Assembly will be present.

ACHES

There's scarcely an ache or pain that Bayer Aspirin won't relieve promptly. It can't remove the cause, but it will relieve the pain! Headaches. Backaches. Neuritis and neuralgia. An Invitation to

PITTSBURGH ACADEMY'S OPEN HOUSE

Thousands of young men and women in Western Pennsylvania are now making a final decision as to what they will do this Fall and Winter. September is just a few days away and school days will be here again.

You will want to visit such institutions as Pittsburgh Academy to see how the courses offered fit into your plans. And so that you can profit most by your visit we have arranged for an Open Night. Present and former students will be here, as well as members of the Faculty, of the Administration and of the Alumni. They will be glad to show you the physical equipment and to discuss the subjects and courses offered.

You will be particularly interested in the demonstration that has been arranged in which Pittsburgh's only representatives in the International Speed Contests will show how speed up to 135 words a minute can be obtained on a typewriter. There will be other interesting exhibits.

Come and you will be welcomed and be assured of a profitable evening. Many students are coming with their parents or with school chums. The demonstration starts at 8:00 P. M., giving you plenty of time to visit the class rooms in advance.

says
ALFRED H. GREBE
President
A. H. GREBE & CO., INC.

"THE Grebe Radio standards of precision of manufacture imply the use of vacuum tubes of the highest quality. RCA Radiotrons are the last word in vacuum tube design and construction. They improve musical reception. Because of their uniformity and dependability, they banish the troubles so often caused by poor tubes. That is why we say to every Grebe Radio owner: 'Insure the finest performance of your set by always using RCA Radiotrons.'"

RADIO ENGINEERS ADVISE:
Replace all the vacuum tubes in your radio set with RCA Radiotrons at least once a year. This is the only sure way to maintain good performance and minimize disagreeable noises and other troubles caused by inferior tubes. RCA Radiotrons will give you the maximum in selectivity, sensitivity and tone quality.

PITTSBURGHERS BID LOW ON AIR MAIL

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

Summertime offers lawyers a welcome surcease from the courts, where the puzzling business of selecting jurors is carried on. Lawyers generally fear juries, shake their heads and mutter:

"You can never tell what a jury 'll do."

A defense lawyer, representing a child, will seek to have as jurors as many mothers as possible, and then likely as not, will find the verdict against him. A lawyer whose client is a young woman on trial for murder, likes to see the jury box filled with men, but he silently prays, even then, that he has chosen males who are susceptible to a fair lady's smile, as aren't we all.

Courthouse attaches easily recall the daring of a young Pittsburgh lawyer, since departed for other territory, in accepting a certain juror to try his client, a man, charged with a murder of which he was thought guilty. The juror admitted on examination that he was a distant cousin of the murdered man and there were oh's of surprise when the defense accepted him. The case against the defendant was strong, but in his closing address the defense lawyer spoke out something like this:

"I was glad to let a cousin of the dead man try my clinet because I know my client is innocent, and I know that juror will not let sentiment interfere with his sense of duty."

The verdict was acquittal but, more interesting, it was the murdered man's cousin who swung the jury around to that verdict.

Roy Ingram, dispatcher for the Pennsylvania Railroad, was sitting in his office alongside the tracks explaining U. S. railroads to the titled Englishman who came to Pittsburgh to find out what makes the trains go.

As Mr. Ingram courteously explained details of operation a train would roar its way past every minute or two.

"Pardon me," interrupted the Englishman after 20 minutes of this, "the blooming trainshed's about full now, what?"

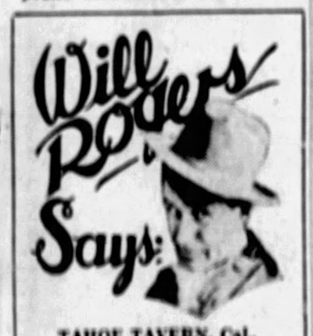
As I never had use for it and don't go to a show very often, I wonder if you could send a runner to the place and get the price back with compound interest. Thanks."

Will Rogers Says:



TAHOE TAVERN, Cal., Aug. 26.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Well, this week takes care of pretty much the last of the primaries. This will throw thousands in every state back among the unemployed. Everybody is always asking if women voting has made any real change in our political system. It has. It just doubled the amount of candidates. The only way we can possibly have more people seeking public pensions is to give the children the vote. We have done it for the wife. Let's do it for the kiddies. Children have the same qualification for office the grownups have — they are out of work.

BELIEVE SLAIN MAN VICTIM OF GANG

Detectives Seek Crowd After Bethel Township Man Is Robbed, Beaten to Death

County detectives today are seeking the identity of a gang which, they believe, robbed and killed Frank Walker, 31, a carpenter, of Bethel Township, whose body was found on a hillside along the Pittsburgh and West Virginia tracks near Coverdale yesterday.

The crime was preceded by a number of holdups in that vicinity, according to detectives, and two county operatives were dispatched to Covertale in an effort to solve the slaying. Reports reveal that three miners were held up along the tracks within the past week.

Walker was found by a miner yesterday with his head crushed and his pockets rifled. His wife, who identified the body at the county morgue, said he left home Saturday afternoon to attend a carnival in Bethel Township. No money was found on the dead man.

Search for a Wilmerding Italian who shot to death George Thompson, 46, of 614 Brown street, Wilmerding, in a restaurant at 417 Station street, Wilmerding, Sunday night, was broadened by detectives and police. The identity of the alleged killer was learned and his description broadcast.

TRAFFIC LIGHT FORMS READY

W. A. Van Duzer, assistant chief engineer of the State Highway Department, Harrisburg, yesterday notified the Pittsburgh Motor Club that Engineer H. E. Kloos, in charge of divisional offices of the department, with offices at 55 Water street, is issuing new permits to install or operate electric traffic signals throughout the Pittsburgh district. This new permit form is a part of the state campaign to eliminate hundreds of electric signals throughout Pennsylvania.

The department is conducting a state-wide examination of all automobile signals to determine if they meet the new traffic requirements. A minimum of 500 machines an hour must pass the intersection at peak periods; at least 125 vehicles an hour must enter from the side street during the period, or 250 pedestrians must cross the intersection in an hour, the state highway department requires in the new form.

Cathie's Thoughts Take A Romantic Turn

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Cathie Paige, next to oldest daughter in a fatherless home, secures her first position in the office of Alfred A. Farnsworth, a successful engineer. In his waiting room she meets Gordon Moore, a young engineer, in whom she finds herself much interested. Moore is awaiting her on a street corner when she leaves the office and he asks her to join him at lunch. Cathie, in gay spirits over securing her first position, accepts.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

The taxi dodged an express truck, careened around a corner and began the long pull up the California street hill.

Cathie lurched against her companion, murmured "Excuse me," and braced herself in her corner. She ought to talk, to say something bright and interesting, but she couldn't think of anything. Most men would be expecting her to, but Gordon Moore didn't seem to. She stole another look at him . . . oh dear, so handsome! And not the least bit conceited . . . She could have cried, she was so happy.

Just before they reached the Mark Hopkins, Cathie thought of her mother . . . what would she say? What would anybody say? But she was too excited to really care. The taxi was stopping. They had driven right up to the door, and a man in a long coat and brass buttons was helping her out with all the elegance of a grand duke, at least, though he was only the doorman, of course.

"I wish it were night, and I had an evening gown. One of those new slimsy ones, with a train!" she thought, as they were walking through the lobby, into a great, cool, dining room. It would have been fun to come in at night, with Mr. Moore wearing a tuxedo . . . he'd look wonderful in one . . . And she'd be wearing black, too, black net, no black velvet, with a long, swishing something behind her. . . .

Recollections

Thinks of Only Train She Ever Had

But she just shook her head and pretended to be interested in the view from the window in which their table was placed. She was really thinking about the only train she had ever had. The brown velour couch cover off the parlor soft. The rainy days that had gone whizzing by while she and Ruth took turns . . . Ruth always kept it the longest because she was the oldest, and cry-baby Jean trying to step on it because they said she was too little to play lady.

He ordered for her. Things he thought she would like Chicken, a salad, iced tea in tall glasses, the wildest sounding dessert. It turned out to be a sort of cream puff filled with ice cream, covered with chocolate, topped with an avalanche of whipped cream. He toyed with his. How could anyone eat a thing like that? She devoured hers silently and thoroughly, scraping up the last dab of whipped cream, leaving the cherry for the last.

"But you didn't eat yours!" she cried when she had finished, and only the chocolate smeared lace paper doily on the white plate was left.

"I'd rather smoke." He extended a package of cork-tipped cigarets, in a pigskin case. "Have one?"

Take a Walk

Self-Consciousness Wins Over Cathie

Cathie laughed out loud. "Of course not," she said.

It was nearly 2 o'clock when they had finished luncheon and started out on what Moore declared was to be a triumphal tour of the town.

"What you need," he told her, laughingly, "is a walk, after all that whipped cream and stuff. Otherwise you're likely to curl up in a corner and go to sleep!"

"I am not!" she retorted spiritedly.

But he made her walk, for all that. They made a pretty picture, the pair of them, striding down the hilly streets, the man tall and dark and powerfully built, the girl little and fair and lithe. People looked at them, and Cathie's cheeks turned a deeper pink and her eyes a brighter, more laughing blue. She was conscious that she was looking her best, and glad, oh, so glad, that Ruth had let her wear her new blue suit, and that Jeanne had loaned her the coral beads. "I look like a magazine ad," she thought happily, catching a glimpse of herself in a window. . . . "Like a school girl complexion, or a snappy clothes for dainy days, only I haven't any umbrella and it isn't raining . . . anyway, I don't think he's ashamed of me, but of course he's used to much sweller girls, debutantes and all that . . . I'll probably wake up pretty soon and find out that it never happened at all!"

They swung down the hills to the shopping section, looking in windows as they went, but lots of them Cathie didn't see at all. All she saw was her picture of herself and him, a tall dark man, and a short, fair girl, looking so well together, reflected against a nebulous, shifting background of antique furniture, jewelry, fancy groceries, oriental rugs.

Chinatown

Gordon Buys Her Some Presents

It was a green glass lemonade set that finally caught her eye. "Oh, isn't that darling?" she cried. "There—on the table, under the striped umbrella? Wouldn't it be lovely in your back yard, that is, if you had a lawn and all?"

And once she stopped and pulled his arm when they passed a rather shoddy display of end-of-the-season hats. "That's a good buy for $2.95," she assured him. "The brown straw. You could still wear it next season!"

It was then that he suggested that they walk up to Chinatown. He ached to buy her the fool lemonade set, and the funny hat, but it wouldn't do at all, he knew that.

He felt happier when they had left the big shops behind and were wandering up the narrow winding street flanked on both sides by dark shops with bright windows. Windows in which the jewels and silks and bronzes of the Orient gleamed warmly.

"This is the most interesting Chinatown in the world," he told her. "You can get anything from real pearls to shark fins here."

"I wouldn't know one from the other today, I'm too excited!"

"Then this is just the day to buy you a shark's fin!" In a cheap Japanese dry goods store at the end of the street he bought her some absurd toys in walnut shells and a box of queer looking things supposed to

SLEUTHS FAIL IN HUNT FOR BOMBERS

Terrorists Elude Pursuit After Rankin Blast and Fire; Threat Notes Clues

No trace had been found by county detectives today of blackhanders blamed for the bombing of the home of Sam Mazzarolli, at 13 Chartiers street, Rankin, early yesterday. Mazzarelli told detectives he received three threatening letters demanding $500 in the last two days.

Mazzarelli, 33, and his nephew, Frank Rossi, 16, of 1227 Love street, Swissvale, burned in a fire which followed the blast, were in the Braddock General Hospital.

The flames reached adjacent dwellings and made six families homeless. The total damage was estimated at $15,000.

FACE SCARRED, ASKS $20,000

Viola Gaines, of Emerson street, has brought suit against William Fuchs in Common Pleas Court for $20,000 damages for permanent face scars she says she received as a result of an automobile accident June 9. She avers through her attorney, John Wirtzman, that she was a passenger in a car driven by Robert King, when the defendant's car collided with the one in which she was riding, at Rostock and East streets.

King also filed an action for $20,000 against Fuchs for internal injuries he claims he received during the accident.

FIRE DAMAGES TWO HOMES

The homes of Angelo Stelluto, at 219 Renfrew street, and Ernest Garner, at 217 Renfrew street, were damged by fire which started in a coal shed in the rear of the Stelluto residence early today.

Members of the Garner household were routed from their beds. The Stelluto family, save for the father, who was asleep, had just returned from a visit to neighbors. Firemen estimated the damage at $1,000.

Suit for $25,000 damages has been entered by Rose Gibson, of Wilkinsburg, against William S. Spindler, for a dislocated spine and a fractured right knee, received in an automobile collision, she claims. Miss Gibson says that she was riding in a machine with Robert S. ASKS RECEIVER FOR HUSBAND

A bill in equity was filed in Common Pleas Court by Mrs. Sarah L. Hysong, of McClure avenue, Swissvale, asking a temporary receiver be appointed for her husband, John H. Hysong, whom she avers holds a judgment against the J. Kenny Transfer Company.

Mrs. Hysong says in her bill of complaint that Hysong on January 15, 1928, deserted her and her six children without reasonable cause, and has failed to support her or the children since that time.

She says through her counsel, Attorney James A. Nugent, that he does not own real estate or other property with the exception of a judgment against the transfer concern, which he obtained August 20. She wants the court to take charge of and hold the judgment and any other assets, Mrs. Hysong avers that her husband went to Florida after he left her, and without reasonable cause.

CHALLENGE 'SUBSIDY' SYSTEM

United Avigation Company's Offer for New Route 33½ Points Under 2 Others

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A bid from a newly-formed aviation company, the United Avigation Company of Pittsburgh, today lay in the Postoffice Department, a silent challenge to at least two policies on administration of the Watres air mail act.

The United Avigation Company's offer of 64 per cent of the $1.25 per mile maximum was low bid for the new air mail route from New York to Los Angeles via Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City. It was in competition with a 97½ per cent joint bid of Western Air Express and Trans-Continental Air Transport.

SUBSIDY LEGISLATION

In committee hearings on the Watres bill, Postmaster General Brown was frank in urging its provisions as a financial aid to the firms already in the air mail field, many of which offered testimony they had suffered losses under the old law. The legislation was referred to as being, in effect, a subsidy for encouragement of air passenger service, so this country would forge to the front among nations in commercial aviation.

BID NOT "TEST"

Immediate interest in the Avigation Company bid, however, did not lie in the opinion of postoffice officials that probably none of its subsidiary members had met the night-flying requirement of six months flying schedule over a 250-mile route.

Pittsburgh Officials Discuss Low Bid

Discussing their low bid for the air mail service, Pittsburgh officials of the avigation company said:

"Our bid was an honest one, and we feel we can carry the air mail at a great saving to the government. When the postmaster realises that our contract will save the government more than $5,000,000, we think that our bid will be accepted.

"It is true our company does not conform with the provision of the Wattres act according night flying, but in our mind, the important thing is, we can carry on the service at a great saving."

Denies Big Drought Loss To Crops of State

With the exception of corn and buckwheat, grain crops in Pennsylvania were ripened before the recent drought could affect them, T. D. Harmon, chairman of the Agriculture Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said today. He decried reports of wide-spread and heavy damage to crops. Harmon is vice president of the Capper-Harmon-Slocum, Inc., publishers of farm journals. He based his statements concerning crops on personal observations and government estimates. He said:

"The potato crop has been destroyed several times on paper, but official estimates place it for 24,308,000 bushels in Pennsylvania, about 1,000,000 bushels less than last year."

He added that the apple crop would be larger than last year, and the oat crop good. Other crops, he said, were in good condition.

Irregularities Void Ballots in 2 Seventh Ward Districts

RECOUNT BOARD REPORTS ON ERASURES

'Phantom Marks' Contribute To Changes in Totals; Woman Loses 24 Votes

Erasures, similarity of markings and other flaws led to the segregation of many ballots cast in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Districts of the Sixth Ward during the recent election. This was revealed in Common Pleas Court when the official recount board made its report.

One of the largest differences in the vote was that cast for Carrie Peelkowski for Republican city-county committeewoman. The recount gave her 221 votes, while the election board of the Sixteenth District returned her vote as 197.

The recounters also said that in the same district 10 Republican ballots were segregated because of "phantom marks," 29 Republican ballots were voided because of erasures and three because of cross-marks with two varieties of pencil. One ballot was voided because it bore the figures "27."

The board segregated 59 ballots in the Nineteenth District because of similarity of markings. Six Republican markings which were identical were votes for P. J. Sullivan for Congress, Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., for state senator, and George C. Metzler for the Legislature. The count for others, the court was told, was close, except that for James F. Woodward, secretary of internal affairs. The recount gave him 180. The election board marked up 156.

DOG RACES SET, OFFICIALS MUM

Following the announcement by Tom Keen, secretary-treasurer of the International Greyhound Racing Association, that the dog race track at New Kensington would be opened tomorrow night, District Attorney Victor Bouton, of Westmoreland County, and State Police Capt. Albert Carlson, of the Greensburg barracks, said they were uncertain as to what action they would take.

The tracks were closed several weeks ago, at the end of the spring season, following a temporary injunction restraining state police from interfering with the races.

District Attorney Bouton said:

"I will wait until the tracks open. I have had no official assurance that they will open, nothing but the rumor. I will decide upon which course to follow after the tracks are opened."

Capt. Carlson's statement was to the same effect.

APPEAL RULING ON VOTE LIST

An appeal has been taken by Lawrence D Blair, representing the election committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association, from the decision of the Board of Registration Commission, refusing to strike off the name of Grace Clemetson, a registered voter of the second district of the Third ward.

It is averred that Mrs. Clemetson did not issue authorization in writing, directing the city treasurer's office to issue her a tax receipt. It was therefore declared by Blair that the receipt was issued illegally.

Answering the averments of Blair, the Board of Commissioners claims that the tax receipt in question was paid for by the husband of Mrs. Clemetson. The Board of Commissioners, however, when they dismissed the complaint of Blair, rendered no opinion as to why they did so. A hearing on the appeal has been fixed for September 2.

FLOWERS SENT 'MA' BY AIMEE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—Explaining they wanted to get their leader away from the "noise of the beach," secretaries of Aimee Semple McPherson today planned to move the noted evangelist to a retreat in the nearby mountains to promote her recovery.

Mrs. McPherson is reported to be rallying from a nervous breakdown which followed a conflict with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy. The battle was accompanied by a rhapsody of charges ranging from face-lifting operations to snake-throwings.

Bouquets of cut flowers worth approximately $100 were sent to Mrs. Kennedy as peace offerings from her daughter and Angelus Temple officers yesterday.

FACE HEARINGS FOR 'BEATING UP' COOK

North Side Officers Accused Of Starting Altercation In Anger at 'Color Line'

Identified by a cook in a North Side restaurant as the two officers who had beaten him, the accused North Side patrolmen were under suspension today.

They are Patrolmen Francis Carr and Thomas Robinson, a Negro. They were suspended by Lieut. John Joyce after an investigation of an early morning brawl in Mrs. Hasley's restaurant, 1824 Brighton road.

It is charged the officers entered the restaurant after closing hours for coffee, and were informed by Miss May Stevens, a waitress, that Negroes were not served.

While Robinson went upstairs to the apartment of Mrs. Hazel Hasley, to have the order rescinded, Carr became involved in an argument with Samuel Dively, a cook, during which the latter says he was slugged by the officer. When Robinson came downstairs, he joined his fellow officer in the brawl, it is charged.

The officers will get hearings before the police trial board tomorrow.

MAN'S WHISTLE BRINGS FINE

Magistrate J. J. O'Connor was treated to an exhibition of plain and fancy whistling this morning in Central Police Court when Jack Shaw, 38, of 260 Shady avenue, demonstrated how he managed to tie up traffic last night at Second avenue and Smithfield street when he had assumed the role of traffic cop.

Shaw decided he wanted to be a traffic cop last night and practiced on motorists who happened along Smithfield street, police said. He pleaded this morning that he just happened to whistle when the lights changed. The magistrate ordered him to give an exhibition.

The forthcoming whistle was so weak that most of the spectators in the courtroom did not hear it, so Magistrate O'Connor ordered Shaw to pay $10 or spend 10 days in jail to improve his whistling.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question: Should the type of carelessness that results in forest fires and auto accidents be made a criminal offense?

Mrs. Martin

MRS. MADELINE MARTIN, housewife, Byrn Mawr — Yes, I think it should. The things that result from such carelessness are too serious to be taken in a light manner.

L. C. Piroth

L. C. PIROTH, state inspector, Mt. Washington —Absolutely yes. I think that any carelessness of any type at all should be treated as a criminal offense.

Miss Ulrey

MISS JANE ULREY, schoolgirl, Byrn Mawr —No, I don't think so. A careless person isn't a criminal and the things that happen because of carelessness aren't done on purpose. I think they ought to be shown their faults rather than be punished as criminals.

Miss Hastie

MISS ISABELLE HASTIE, teacher, Beaver —Yes. I think such carelessness should be treated as a criminal offense. And the best argument for that is the resulting tragedies.

Howard Tibbals

HOWARD TIBBALS, state inspector, Wilkinsburg — Yes, it should in most cases. But frequently the cause for such carelessness is such that a severe treatment would be neither fair nor necessary.

Miss Ulrey

MISS MARY ANNE ULREY, schoolgirl, Bryn Mawr. — No, I don't think so. The real criminals are of such a different class and there really isn't enough comparison between the two to treat them in the same manner.

2,500 ATTEND INSTITUTE

More than 2,500 high, grade and vocational school teachers today attended the second day of the eightieth annual teachers' institute of Allegheny County in Memorial Hall. Addresses were being given by prominent educators of the nation, with several vocational conferences arranged for special teachers.

The institute opened yesterday with Dr. C. E. Dickey, superintendent, presiding. Speakers during the afternoon included Dr. Paul V. Voelker, president of Battle Creek College, Battle Creek, Mich.; Dr. F. H. Gaige, of Millersville State Teachers' College, Millersville, Pa., and Dr. S. C. Schmucker, of Westchester State College, Westchester, Pa.

In an address on "The A. B. C. of Education," Dr. Voelker spoke on the necessity of the growing boy and girl to have three things, adventure, benevolence and companionship.

From the years one to eight, boys and girls need mother love, he said. From 8 to 12 years, boys must have fathers for companions or they become "sissies;" from 12 to 15 boys must have "gang" companionship—that of other boys, and from then until 20 they need a maternal but diplomatic guidance.

Girls of the period between 15 and 18 need their fathers as companions, and otherwise the guidance of both parents, he declared.

Dr. Gaige spoke on "The Hand of Providence in American History," and Dr. Schmucker on his books, and how he protects them.

The program today will include the same three speakers, presenting new topics. In addition, Miss Mary Hefferman, of the State Department of Education, Harrisburg, and Miss Lena Bixler, of Temple University, Philadelphia, will speak to the special conference groups.

BAR TO OMIT JUDGE VOTE

The Allegheny County Bar Association will not hold a referendum on the selection of candidates for the appointment to the Court of Common Pleas as successors for Judge Thomas D. Carnahan and Judge Thomas J. Ford, it was learned today. The bar association instead will refer to the governor the two referenda held last March and May.

Attorney William B. McPall who made the motion which was carried by lawyers who attended a special meeting of the association late yesterday, pointed out the fact that each referendum has cost an average of $750. He declared that the names of the men already mentioned in the other two referenda was sufficient to show the choice of the bar to the governor in helping him select the two local judges.

At the March referendum the following were suggested to the governor in the order of the number of votes received: William A. Challener, Allen H. Kerr and the present judge, Samuel H. Gardner. The May referendum list follows: J. Smith Christy, the present judge, S. J. Snee, and William A. Challener.

Town Gets Water Supply in Jugs Via Trolleys

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(AP)—Jugs of all sizes and descriptions have become a common sight on street cars and buses running from the capital to Falls Church, Va., eight miles away. Drought has so decimated the town's water supply that many families have only what they can carry in from other points.

So much difficulty has been experienced in getting drinking water that in many families the matter of baths and the washing of dishes and clothes have become major problems.

Much of the town's water is obtained from wells, and diggers have been working day and night, deepening the shafts in hope of striking more water.

HUNT GROCERY SWINDLER

Approaching Harry Mole, 13, of 113 Jucunda street, police say, the man directed the boy to go to the Butler store at 77 Amanda street and order merchandise sent to a Charles street address in Knoxville. He also requested that the store send change for a $10 bill.

Nearing the Charles street residence the delivery boy was met by the man, police say, who told him that his wife would take the goods, but he would take the difference in change. The boy is said to have turned over the money and the man disappeared.

Gordon's Present
Cathie Buys Him Pin Tray

"Now, I'm going to buy you something," she said gravely, selecting a tiny red lacquer pin tray under the impression that it would be just the thing for ashes. She paid for it with three nickels and five copper pennies.

"Oh, but you shouldn't!" he protested.

"Why not? You bought me something. Besides, I want to!" She was all gay and excited, because she was making him a present. "And you must keep it, to remember me by!"

"I won't need anything to remember you by." But he took the little gift in its wisp of tissue paper and put it carefully into his pocket.

After that the afternoon just melted away. A clock struck somewhere, reminding him of the hour. Good heavens, half past four! "I've got to get the 5:45 train. But we have time for tea. Come on, let's have tea!

They had it on a roof, under a wobbly Chinese umbrella. A half-cast girl with marigolds and jasamine in the coils of her glistening hair brought cakes and ginger, but Cathie found that she couldn't eat.

"Too much ice cream at lunch," she said smiling. But that wasn't the real reason. It was remembering his train, and the parting. It wouldn't be for long . . . it couldn't be . . .

Back Home
Cathie Sorry When Leaving Friend

"The tea's just scalding!" she told him, laughing and wiping her eyes, and she thought, "What a silly I am! Forgetting everything! I must be falling in love . . . oh, if he'll only love me back . . . if he only will . . ."

"Time to go," his pleasant voice broke in, frightening her, bringing her back from a dream world where he could not enter.

"Oh! Is it?"

"Now where's home?" he asked. "I've just time to take you."

Home. Now it all came back. Everything she had been forgetting. Everything he had blotted out with his thrilling presence. "Oh, you can't take me home," she cried quickly. "It's too far. I'll just get a car and—"

But he wouldn't listen. He bundled her into a taxi in spite of her half-hearted objections, and shy excuses. At a busy intersection he made the driver wait while he jumped and bought the biggest, fanciest box of chocolate Cathie had ever seen in her life.

"I never could eat all that! It's a life supply!"

"Haven't you got a family? Mother, father, sisters, brothers—"

"A mother, and two sisters and a brother."

"No dad?"

She shook her head.

"Big brother?"

"No, he's younger. I'm next to the oldest."

"I see," he said soberly. The taxi was stopping in front of a shabby, high-shouldered cottage squeezed in between two slatternly looking flats. They were on a side street, almost an alley, not far from Golden Gate park. Yes, he saw . . . The old cottage, with its weedy lawn and sagging, sun-blistered steps. And she, "next to the oldest."

"Goodby, and God bless you!" he smiled. He wished he could do something for the child, but Lord, what can you do in a case like that?

"Oh—but not goodbye!"

He backed away, a little frightened by what he saw in her wide, startled eyes. And she looked like such a sensible kid . . . "I'm afraid so," he said briskly. "I don't get down to the city very often."

For a long minute she stood motionless, staring at him with eyes that were at first incredulous, then just bewildered and hurt.

Then she smiled, and reached for the packages he was holding out to her. The Japanese toys. Her purse. The huge box of candy. "Goodby," she said gallantly, extending a slim, ungloved hand. "It's been a wonderful day. I'll never forget it—ever!"

"Oh, yes, you will!" He was standing, bare-headed still, by the side of the chugging taxi. "Next time I see you you'll be married to a millionaire. You're the kind. Some smart young man will find you!"

She was still smiling that gorgeous, gallant smile that illumined her whole face, but her eyes had grown misty and she shook her head.

"Goodby!" He leaned out to wave, as he was being driven away. She didn't see him. She was running blindly, wildly, to the back door.

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Woolen frocks are destined to have their day this season, a fact revealed by practically every current collection here. After seeing the new woolen models it is a temptation to suggest that many a smart woman may well be known by the wo[olen] this autumn.

this is a distinction to be coveted well as a sartorial standpoint. interesting woolen fabrics are a manner as to give them ed versatility. One-piece dresses, jacket suits and ensembled with three-quarter length coats are intricately trimmed with fur and even with velvet to make them appropriate for countless daytime occasions. No longer may the woolen costume be considered especially characteristic of the sports mode.

THE ORIGINAL responsibility for this development may rest with the fabric designers who have not only created woolen materials of unusually rich colorings and discreet indefinite patterns, but have endowed them with a supple quality that makes possible their manipulation similar to silks with softer lines generally and such details as tucks and incrustations.

* * *

ILLUSTRATING the sartorial advantages of the woolen costume is the ensemble shown here from Molyneux. It is of mixed beige jersey tweed developed with a three-quarter length coat, which type is prevalent among the models of slightly formal conception. In keeping with this latter idea is the blouse which is of georgette trimmed with jersey insets. There is a small cape in back and the neat fur collar of beaver.

THE IMPLUSE to discuss the prevailing importance of the black frock trimmed discreetly with white is again irresistible although we have yield to it frequently of late. But wherever smart women are gathered together here these days for luncheon, afternoon bridge or tea the current style value and the flattering attributes of the black afternoon frock of satin, of heavy dull crepe or rich velvet is repeatedly impressed upon us. Complete justification of this fact is offered by Doeuillet Doucet who uses the chic black and white combination to create this charming afternoon dress. It is of black morocain with white linen at the neck and wrists. The skirt is longer in the back than in the front and is exceedingly graceful.

AUTO OUTPUT SHOWS DROP.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The number of automobiles manufactured in the United States for the first seven months this year was more than 1,000,000 below the output for the same period last year.

This was announced by the Commerce Department which said the comparative figures were 2,481,911 and 3,726,283.

Production last month was placed at 262,363 cars compared with 335,477 for June and 500,840 for July, 1929. It was the lowest figure since last December when the output was 120,007.

The total for last month included 222,459 passenger cars, 39,663 trucks and 241 taxicabs.

DAWES TRACES EARLY HUMANS

BORDEAUX, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, paused in his prehistoric scouting at St. Leon, where the oldest human skeleton known was discovered by the Swiss archeologist, Hauver.

The inquiring Ambassador went over the region of the Dordogne where, from St. Leon-on-the-Vezere to Eyties, the country is rich in prehistoric collections. He was accompanied by Prof. George Grant MacCurdy, of Yale University.

The Ambassador was much interested in all he saw, from the man of the Flint Period of Mousier to the ivory statuettes of the Madeleine and the treasures of the Museum of Eyties.

Gen. Dawes was able, at the grotte of tht Font de Gaume, to follow the successive steps of each epoch and examine evidences of the progress made by the world's succeeding civilizations. He returned to Perigueux after his tour and started for Hendaye, on the way to Spain.

STEWED FRESH FRUIT SHOULD BE SERVED IN SUMMER WEATHER

It is a Pleasing Change From Raw Fruit and Often More Wholesome

It is often the tendency in summer to over-indulge in raw fruit. In many cases an upset digestive system can be traced to raw fruit.

However, when the fruit is stewed and sweetened to taste with sugar, there is less danger of digestive disorders. As far as taste-appeal is concerned, stewed peaches, apples, berries, plums and pears are most enjoyable when chilled and served for dessert.

In view of the fact that sugar is now at the lowest price it has been in a generation, and since fruit is very abundant, the value of storing away preserves of all kinds for winter use should not be overlooked. Not only is home-canning profitable, but grocers everywhere are offering splendid bargains in preserved fruits, jellies and jams.

Pickles and relishes made of cucumbers, tomatoes, cabbage and watermelon rind are also economical to preserve. Their spicy, tart-sweet goodness encourages the consumption of essential foods such as meat, fish and vegetables. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

MISS HARD-BOILED

By JANE DIXON

CHAPTER XXXVI

The day the Gloire de France was to land at Havre, Raquel had another talk with Mrs. Dexter.

The woman seemed torn between desperation and determination. She blew cold, then hot. One moment she was sinking into an abyss of despair. The next moment she was scaling the mountain of high hope.

"You look different somehow," Raquel told her. "More alive."

"You noticed it," Mrs. Dexter was all eagerness. "Frieda has taken me in hand. She is really quite devoted to you. 'Mademoiselle Raquel does this.' 'Mademoiselle Raquel says that.' You are a sort of a goddess to her. A goddess of beauty."

"It is nice of her to like me."

"Yes. The eyes of our servants are worth looking through. They see us at our best—and our worst. Frieda has always wanted me to take better care of myself. Now she's in her glory. She's like a little girl with a doll. Look at my hair. She's copied yours exactly."

What a change the dressing of hair could work in a woman! Mrs. Dexter's hair no longer straggled. Even the color was better. Brushing had brought out glints of bronze. Touches of rouge on her cheeks took away something of the unhappiness in her eyes made them brighter, less like those of a hurt creature. With another dress—chic—English—

Asks About Earrings

"I know," Mrs. Dexter said. "My clothes are impossible. I see it now. Monsieur Alphonse has cabled to Paris. There will be lots of them waiting for me there. Among them a jade green evening gown like the one you wore the night I met you. I really believe it was you and that stunning green effect with the coral that converted me."

"Then the gown has served well," said Raquel, delighted that she had obtained what would undoubtedly be a profitable order for Alphonse.

"And Mademoiselle Raquel," Mrs. Dexter hesitated uncertainly. "I want to ask you about the coral earrings you wore. They were fascinating. I have never seen any just like them. They gave just the right fillip to the gown. I forgot to speak to Alphonse about them. Were they a part of the ensemble?"

"No." Raquel said, suddenly gone cold inside. "They—I just happened to have them."

Mrs. Dexter was scaling the mountain again.

"Could you—would you—consider selling them to me?" she asked.

Raquel's black eyes widened, stared through the woman at something she was seeing out there in space.

"I shall never part with the coral earrings," she said softly. Then added, in a more casual tone: "They really have no value—except to me. You see, they belonged to my mother."

Lucky Talisman

"Oh—I'm so sorry. I shouldn't have asked."

"Oh, yes, you should." Raquel hastened to insist. "I'm glad you liked them. I'm sure you can find some similar. Or perhaps you could have others made, with mine as a model."

"You're a dear," said Mrs. Dexter. "If you'll leave them with Alphonse when we get to Paris, I'll see that nothing happens to them. My jeweler can copy them. And when I return them, I'll include another pair, one of the new designs, for your trouble."

Lucy's earrings. Her mother's one defiance of the dust of the desert that was her life.

If Mrs. Dexter sent her another pair of earrings as a gift, she'd return the coral ones to Lucy across the ocean. No, she'd send Lucy the new ones. Lucy would like the new ones better. It was so rarely that anything new came into the life of Pancho Rojos's Lucy.

"Yes," Raquel decided. "I'll keep the coral earrings. I'll never part with them. They are a lucky talisman. They bring me good fortune."

Late that evening, when Raquel was going to the suite "to freshen up a bit," she came face to face with Bertie Adams on the stairs.

He was about to pass her by with a quick nod and the merest suggestion of a shamed smile. Suddenly he changed his mind and called her name.

"Er—Miss Rojos."

Raquel stopped and greeted him cordially.

"I want to tell you again," he said, a flush staining his bronzed cheeks, "how genuinely sorry I am about—making such an ass of myself the other night."

Sorry for Him

Raquel's black eyes met his gray ones. There was neither animosity nor blame in their sable depths. Rather there was admiration for this tall young man with the body of a Greek god, his fair hair brushed back from a clean brow, his well-modeled chin square-cut and strong.

Admiration and pity. Why did men like him sodden their fine bodies, befog their keen brains with drink? Why had Pancho, her father, done it? Pancho must have been very much like Bertie Adams once—fine and clean and square-cut. Before he took to mescal and tequila. Before he cut himself off from his proud Spanish family, from his high-placed friends, from the society of decent men.

If Pancho had taken a hold on himself, if he had slain the devils within him, her whole life might have been different. Lucy's life would have been different. They would be persons of consequence. Somebodies.

Well, Pancho had failed them. As Bertie Adams would fail some woman. Unless—she wished Bertie Adams could see Pancho now. Bolting tortillas wolfishly. Ripping out vile oaths. Using his great fists on helpless women and children; his own woman, his own children.

She was silent so long that Adams mistook the silence for resentment. He would have murmured an apology and gone on were it not for her eyes. They held another verdict. Strange eyes. Like black pools with candles flickering in their unplumbed depths.

Friendship Continues

"I understand," Raquel said simply.

"I had hoped—that is, I wanted very much that we should be friends," he went on, encouraged by her kindness.

"We can be friends."

"You mean you'll forgive me entirely—you'll let me see you again?"

"Yes, if you wish it."

"Then I shall look you up in Paris. There are some places I'd like to show you, some people I know you'd enjoy. . . . If you'll give me the name of your hotel."

Her hotel? She didn't have a hotel. She hadn't the slightest notion where she would stop. He'd think it was queer.

"I haven't quite decided," she said.

"Then if you'll tell me where you are receiving your mail—"

Mail? She wasn't receiving any mail. There was no one to write to her. She was alone. Suspended in a void.

"Just address me in care of Monsieur Alphonse," she said, hastening to cover her embarrassment with the glibness of her answer. "I've arranged to receive all my correspondence through his office."

She had almost said, "through him." She had been stopped by the recollection of something Greta had said—"Alphonse is crazy about you." Had others noticed what Greta thought she detected? Greta was a suspicious little monkey. Full of plots and motives. Still, she was glad she had substituted Alphonse's office for Alphonse himself.

Harry Succeeds in Shaking Off Trailing "Mystery Driver"

Harry Underwood was speaking only for Lillian's benefit when he asked me to tell him from the mirror when the booth policeman could no longer see us. I had guessed it from his carefully loud tones. I was sure of it when in the mirror I saw the officer step into the road and with upflung hand halt the driver of the black coupe which had been trailing us. In tones as impersonal as his own I answered him.

"I think you're safe to get away now. He's stopped the driver behind us who was trying to pass us. His back is toward us. There! The curve hides him now."

"And us!" Mr. Underwood added with apparent glee. "Sit tight, everybody. I'm going to speed while the speeding's good and get off this road on to one I know that the common or garden variety of motorist hasn't discovered."

"At an uncle!" Mary spluealed from the rear seat. Lillian said nothing, but I knew that she was glad of the increased speed which would bring her sooner to her goal.

Mr. Underwood was conscious of one thing—no one in the car was nervous over fast driving. Long experience with Dicky and Harry, both of whom chafe if the motor speed drops below 40 miles an hour, has inured both Lillian and me to racing across country, while Mary is a typical young modern, never happier than when the car in which she is riding is speeding along.

My thoughts were not concerned with the speed of the car, however. Every faculty within me was focused upon the mirror, rejoicing in every second that gave me back no reflection of the black coupe which had dogged every revolution of our wheels since we left the hotel.

There were other cars reflected in our mirror now, however, for Mr. Underwood was passing every other car on the road as if they were idling at the curb. Ahead of us a left turn led into a winding parkway, and Harry slowed down a little as he approached it.

"Okay?" he murmured from the side of his mouth, and my "Yes!" must have been equally inaudible to Lillian and Mary. Then he swung into the parkway, slowing his pace a little because of the winding curves, and in a minute or two turned sharply out of it again into a road not particularly well-paved.

"This won't be so comfortable, Lil," he said, turning partly toward the rear seat, but with one wary eye on the road. Harry Underwood may deserve the appellation "speed demon," but his watchfulness of the road ahead of him is a pattern for any motorist to follow. "But it won't last long and it brings us out on a splendid but little-used road that will land us beyond Tarrytown and cut out all the heavy traffic."

"Is there any road or country lane within a hundred miles of New York that you don't know, Uncle Harry?" Mary asked, and there was something in her tone which told me that she was playing up to the cue I had given her, although she had no idea why she had been instructed to keep Lillian's attention anywhere but upon me.

"Darned few of 'em, Mary," he returned, and spoke no more for several miles, indeed, not until we had traversed the wider road of which he spoke and come out upon the main thoroughfare above Tarrytown. I wondered if there were something besides his close attention to the road in his thoughts, if he was remembering, as I was, those hectic years immediately following the war when he had been the puissant leader of a gang of bootleggers and underworld men. We had known for a long time that his leadership had been but a clever blind for his unofficial secret service work and that it was solely through his efforts that the gang, which had been used by a dangerous plotter against the government, had been broken up. But those years had given him a familiarity with the terrain around New York which justified Mary's sally.

We were well past the historic old village, with its Washington Irving memories, when Mr. Underwood spoke again.

"Now we're in the clear," he said, and I knew that the relief in his tones was not due alone to the satisfaction any motorist feels at knowing that a broad, smooth road lies before him for the remainder of his journey, but to his conviction that he had been successful in shaking off the persistent driver of the black coupe whom he had told me was a private detective trailing us for some unknown reason.

"Then, please may I speak?" Mary asked demurely, and Mr. Underwood chuckled.

"I don't need three guesses to know what you're going to ask, Mary," he said. "It's a simple interrogative sentence of four words—'When do we eat?'"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, August 27

The presage for this day, based on the lunar transits of important planets, is not a markedly fortunate one for progressive and profitable business transactions, although domestic social and affectional advantages and felicities may prove compensatory. Even in these relations there may be somewhat of the furtive or subtly menacing.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which social, domestic and affectional affiliations may be expected to favorably offset adverse and disagreeable business activities. Sudden change is probable, with loss of money and prestige, unless particularly good judgment and acumen be exercised in the management of the affairs.

A child born on this day may be restless, nervous and fond of change, but nevertheless should be gracious, talented and personally popular.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Passing the Paprika

The average man understands as little about how his wife's mind works as he understands how or why the radio or wireless telegraphy works.

Up to 30, a man spends his life in doing rash or foolish things, from 30 to 50 in trying to UNDO them—and the rest of his life, bragging about them.

All a woman need know in order to keep up a fluent conversation with the average man is enough to ask a few appropriate questions at the start, and to burst into admiring applause at the finish.

After a long-drawn-out summer love-affair, it is almost as hard for two people to look "heart-broken" at parting as it is for a schoolboy to look annoyed at the sound of the recess bell.

Why is it that when you tell a man that a girl is "sensible," he always visualizes her as the kind who would keep her husband's old love-letters, his insurance policy and her divorce-decree all in the same strong-box?

* * *

The basest brand of ingratitude is that of the woman who borrows your vanity-case, in order to doll up and make herself more attractive to your husband.

For a man, finesse in love, consists in knowing the perfect moment to take the first kiss; for a woman, in knowing when the psychological moment has arrived for the last kiss.

* * *

Now that pajamas have gone feminine, wonder if men will go back to the roomy old lullaby-shirt, in which they could kick around without strangling themselves?

For some men, the only drawback to heaven, as it is pictured, is that there are no bunkers or hazards there, and it may lack a lot of excitement.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Warm-Hearted Greeting

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper to send a birthday card to a male acquaintance, or any acquaintance at all? M. D.

Yes, this is proper and a friendly, warm-hearted greeting to make to a friend on her or his fete-day.

Purchasing the Bridal Gown

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. You will think I am rather ignorant, but I must write you for personal advice. I am about to be married and have had different ones say to me: "Are you buying your own bridal outfit?" (which is white), and naturally I say "Yes." Well, they think I am stupid. I am told my fiance is supposed to do so.

I am just a working girl with not much salary, while he earns $40 a week. What shall I do? I am going to listen to your advice only.

2. Does age make any difference? I am 18 and he is in his late 30s.

WONDERING B.

1. You are right, thoroughly right, and they are wrong, thoroughly wrong. This is just one of the things that must not be done, if a girl wishes to retain a semblance of self-respect. Buy your own bridal outfit—and you will always feel proud that you did the right thing.

2. No. There is no circumstance that makes any difference concerning this question.

Conversation While Dancing

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. A lady at a dance is given an invitation to dance by a young man whom she knows as an acquaintance. She accepts. Should conversation be held during the dance? If so, who should begin it?

2. Suppose she meets him there for the first time?

MARY LOU.

1. People who very much like to dance do not wish to talk very much while they are dancing. I say this as an enthusiast! So when you begin the dance, it is quite all right to say some pleasantry, something about the music, something about your delight in meeting the gentleman again, but then—dance. After the dance it is natural, of course, to chat as you would with any other friend, "about this and that."

2. The answer, then, is the same as for the first question.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Will You Help the Boy Friend to Make the Grade or Should He Ask It of You?

How much money should the Boy Friend have before he asks you to share his life?

Yes, I'm asking you, Gracie—Mary, Betty and Peggy Lou—and every other Bride to Be. When you marry do you think hubby should begin where Dad left off—with all the fancy fixin's around the house—all the chiffons and manicures and marcels?

Or are you willing to take a chance . . . Climb into a work apron and help the big boy make the grade?

Phil wants to know. Phil's long on love, but short on kale. And his heart is sore because he can't give his sweetheart "the sort of home she's been accustomed to." If you were Phil's sweetheart, what would you say?

"Dear Sally:

"I am coming to you for advice on a problem which confronts me, and which is very serious to me.

"I am a young man of 25, earning a salary of $35 a week. And the fact that it is only $35 a week is what's bothering me right now. You see I am in love, and I would like to get married. But have I any right to get married on such a small income?

"For the last four years I have made the acquaintance of several very nice girls, with each of whom I have kept company. But in each case the friendship was broken off, owing to the fact that I could never consider marriage to any of these girls, as my salary would not afford them the kind of living they are accustomed to. You can see how I felt, and why I broke off with them.

"Now, for some time past, I have been very friendly with a nice girl, whom I really and truly love deeply, and whom I want to marry. She is a sweet, lovely girl, and seems to like me very much, too.

But here the old problem confronts me again. My salary is a little bigger than it was four years ago, to be sure. But I know that if I did marry her, I wouldn't be in a position to give her the kind of a time a girl like here has a right to expect. And I feel as if I didn't have the right to take her away from a comfortable home to live in the kind of a place I can afford.

"But on the other hand, it will hurt terribly to give her up. I think and think of her, and of how happy a little home could be with her in it . . . if she would live there. And it makes me so blue and miserable when I realize how little money I have and what I'd be asking her to give up.

"If I do break with her, I know that I'll never meet another girl that I'll love like I do her. But still I feel like I have no right to pull her into poverty.

"So please advise me, Sally. What should I do?

"PHILLIP ALLEN."

What should you do, Phillip?

Well, you know the girl better than I do. You know whether she's the helpless, clinging vine sort, who must have things done for her . . . or whether she's the up-and-coming, capable good sport who might be willing to dig in and put her own shoulder to the wheel. And you know more than I do about how fond she is of you.

"You'll have to think these things over son, and then decide you're only earning $35 per, but because the breed isn't worth the upkeep, even if accordingly. If she's just a Beautiful Useless, break! Not because you're earning $35. But if she's a Regular Gal, I see no reason why you shouldn't put it up to her. Lay your cards on the table and ask her if she'll take the chance. And if she's willing, give her a break.

Yes, I mean just that, Phil—give her a break! You men, in your masculine independence and conceit, often overlook the fact that a fine woman wants to take the breaks with her man. For to a fine woman, building a home is the greatest adventure in life . . . an infinitely more thrilling adventure than any amount of luxury. And the right kind of a girl will risk it with you, if you only have 35 cents, instead of $35.

But maybe I'm speaking out of turn. Perhaps the other girls will think as you do, that $35 isn't enough in 1930. If so—here's their chance. How about it, sisterhood? Would you take a chance on $35. Or are you holding out for a Bigger Bid?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Be Careful of Fly Bites in Summer

Recently I have had letters about "undulant fever."

This is an infectious disease of goats, sheep, pigs and cattle. Human beings may become infected while caring for or while slaughtering infected animals. Persons who are particularly susceptible to the germ have developed undulant fever by drinking the milk of infected animals.

DR. COPELAND

The disease is characterized by chills in alternation with a decided rise in temperature. Other symptoms are sweats, anemia, general run-down condition and arthritis of the hip, ankle, shoulder or knee joints. Occasionally there is bronchitis and abscesses may be present beneath the skin.

The fever usually runs about three months, although cases have been known to last a year or two. Undulant fever rarely results in death, but causes great distress due to the length of time the patient is unable to attend his usual duties. Weakness seems to be the only after-effect.

There is as yet no specific treatment. It is hoped that vaccines may be developed to control the disease. In the meantime patients are treated much as are those having typhoid fever.

Every effort must be put forth to eliminate the disease among the cattle and pigs. Until this is accomplished there is always the chance that the disease may be spread by those who come in contact with infected animals. These persons should at all times exercise the greatest care in order to avoid contracting or transmitting to others any possible infection. The hands must be carefully disinfected and all cuts and scratches properly cared for.

In some states the health authorities are helping the farmers to eradicate the disease in cattle by having tests made for the "Bacillus abortus," which is the germ responsible for undulant fever. Until all infected animals are found and separated from the herd the trouble will not be checked. Of course, this is a costly procedure for the farmer, but the loss through keeping infected animals is ever greater. Until the disease is entirely eliminated from the herds the use of pasteurized milk is recommended as a protection against danger.

Mothers of young children need have no great fear for their little ones, as the disease apparently does not attack children. Nevertheless, pasteurized milk is much more safe and to be preferred for infants and children. Not only must the milk be pasteurized, but it must have from first to last the greatest care. Milk may be pasteurized and yet be contaminated after this process is completed.

Be sure the milk and all milk products which you use are obtained from dairies which are carefully inspected.

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

Complexion powder is a good friend. It acts as a protective barrier against harsh, flaying winds, too strong sunlight and atmospheric dust. It should be removed at bedtime, first with cold cream and then with a soapy facial, tubbing after which there should be a light application of a heavy cream to remain on until morning.

The three-day liquid diet is growing more and more popular among the heavyweights. It gives the digestive organs a much-needed rest and discourages adipose tissue. It consists of fruit juices, tomato juice and bouillon. Easy enough to throw off three pounds in three days. The difficulty is in not stoking up after the fast.

A double chin can be rolled into one by persistent treatment. Anoint with a heavy cream, pick up the flesh in small folds and roll firmly between thumb and first finger. But do not fail to finish up with an ice rub. Otherwise, there will appear the gobblers throat. Not pretty.

Girls with weak ankles should be pussy-footers. They must trot around on tiptoe with feet bare. The bad habit of standing with the weight all on one foot—usually the right one—weakens the ankle. Lifting up on the toes and down again is a good stunt, especially if the supplicant for beauty honors keeps the hands on the hips and takes a long, deep breath on every upward tilt.

Household Hints

Melt fine small pieces of castile soap with a little water, add a few drops of olive oil and put away in a bottle. You will have an excellent shampoo with practically no expense.

To remove tea and coffee stains of long standing, wet the spots with cold water, cover with glycerin and let stand for two or three hours. Wash with cold water and hard soap.

It is a wise mother who makes her baby's morning rompers of crinkled crepe. They wash out very readily; require no ironing and the material comes in a variety of attractive patterns and colors.

DREYFUSS REJECTS REDBIRD PROPOSAL.

THERE WILL BE no player deal between the Pirates and Cardinals, in spite of all the official confabs and ensuing rumors of the last few days. Any negotiations that may have been pending in that direction are definitely off, and there is no longer any chance for the consummation of the trade that recent signs have indicated as being likely to go through after the close of the present season. President Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburgh club, is authority for the statement that there will be no trading with the Redbirds.

Samuel Breadon

That the St. Louis club had proposed a swap became evident a few days ago, when President Samuel Breadon sent Branch Rickey to Pittsburgh for a conference with the Pirate chiefs. It was rumored at the time that the local club, at the invitation of the Cardinal management, had sent a scout to look over First Baseman Jim Collins, of the Rochester International League team, a St. Louis farm, and that Rickey had come here to learn the nature of the scout's report and offer terms for a deal.

NOTHING CAME OF it, however, and now the whole matter has been dropped. It is reported that, for one thing, the Pittsburgh club made it clear that it was no longer interested in Collins, whereupon Rickey said that the Cards would not trade Collins anyhow and would give him a tryout themselves instead, but that he was ready to make a deal for another St. Louis player who is believed to have outlived his usefulness as a Cardinal.

If reports are true, President Dreyfuss probably is still laughing over the terms that Rickey proposed, as the Cardinal agent is said to have demanded for this player not only one of the Pirates' star regulars, but a bundle of cash on the side. The proposition was not even considered, of course, and negotiations ended right there. Like the Cincinnati owners, who would not consent to let Hughey Critz come to the Pirates unless the Pittsburgh club gave up George Grantham and Adam Comorosky in exchange, Rickey has learned that President Dreyfuss is too old in the game to be tricked into playing the role of a Santa Claus.

ONE FEATURE OF the big track and field meet between 66 hand-picked American athletes and the British Empire team at Soldier Field in Chicago tomorrow night will be a return to the arena proper of an event that has been banished from many other athletic carnivals.

This is the hammer throw, in which the United States will be represented by Ed Flanagan and Ed Black, of Boston, and Earl Clark, of Denver, in addition to the new National A. A. U. champion, Norwood Wright, of New York. These men were picked on the strength of their performances in the A. A. U. games just ended here.

Ed. Flanagan

ON ACCOUNT OF the danger that a wildly-flying hammer might kill or maim one or more of the spectators, it has been the custom at most meets in recent years to have that event decided in some secluded spot outside the amphitheater. At some meets it has been left off the program altogether. In the Chicago games, however, it will be brought back where the crowd can get a full view of it. This has been made safely possible by the construction of a special wire cage, built in such fashion that all wild throws will be intercepted close at hand, and only the accurate tosses, which cannot reach the spectators, will escape through the open side of the enclosure facing the side of the field opposite to that occupied by the crowd.*

IT IS IN the hammer throw and other weight events, by the way, that the American team is expected to gain the points that will be needed, in addition to those scored in the track contests, to carry it through to victory over the British athletes. The latter have a world of class in the running events, but if the Americans can come close to breaking even in that branch their superiority in the weights should land them on top.

The English system of foot-racing will be employed in the track numbers. Under this system, organized or team strength, rather than individual speed, will be the deciding factor. The races will be relay events, taking the place of individual contests. Instead of a mile run, there will be a four-mile relay, with four one-mile runners competing for each side. Instead of a half-mile run there will be a two-mile relay for teams of four and a three-mile relay for teams of six; instead of a quarter-mile run there will be a mile relay for teams of four, and instead of the usual 100-yard dash there will be a 400-yard relay for teams of four.

IT MARKED WASHINGTON'S first victory of the year when the Senators, with Joe Cronin starring at bat, beat him yesterday, breaking his string of eight straight wins, giving him his fifth defeat of the season, and preventing him from tying Wesley Ferrell for the major league leadership in games won.

Lefty Grove

Ferrell has 22 decisions to his credit against Grove's 21, but has lost nine games to Grove's five. Grove was victorious in the two previous games he pitched against Washington in which he was responsible for the outcome. One of them was a 1-to-0 affair.

THOUGH UNABLE TO beat Grove in earlier games, the Senators have displayed a strong liking for the pitching of his slab-mate, George Earnshaw. The latter has been almost as successful as Grove against other clubs, but has found Washington a stumbling block, losing three games out of four pitched against Walter Johnson's men. However, Earnshaw is the only member of the American League's big four against whom the Senators have been successful. Their record is only five games won out of 15 in which they faced Grove, Earnshaw, Ted Lyons and Wes Ferrell. Lyons has beaten them four out of five, and Ferrell three in a row.*

THE UNUSUAL SKILL at pocket billiards that has been developed even among the youth of the land will be in evidence at Chicago tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, when Robert Moore, of Grand Rapids, and Charles Cacciapaglia, of Rockford, Ill., meet for the first National Junior championship in that branch of cue sports. Cacciapaglia is only 12, and Moore is but one year older, but both have remarkable records.

Moore boasts a run of 72 and many others above 30. He shoots with either hand and has made runs of 18 and 14 with his left. Recently he beat Richard Mooney, city champion of Grand Rapids, 50 to 0. Cacciapaglia has made 10 runs over 50 on a 5x10 table. This championship match, which is the forerunner of an annual tournament for the title, will be played on a 4x8 table.

HARNESS RACING, NOT so much in the public eye as it used to be, will come to the front again tomorrow among the sport head-

Washington, defending champion, and Chicago, one of the title favorites, piled up comfortable leads in the early innings as they sought to achieve their second successive victories in the championship tournament of the International Union Printers' Baseball League this afternoon.

Playing at Magee Field, the champions were out in front of St. Paul, 3 to 0, at the end of three innings. Raudabuse, on the mound for Washington, was invincible, but Arted, who toiled for St. Paul, weakened and was touched for three runs in the third frame.

Chicago, which piled up 16 runs in winning yesterday, appeared to be on its way to another decisive victory, leading Cleveland, 6 to 0, at the finish of three innings of their game at Forbes Field. The batteries were DeClave and Alberts for Chicago and Reuter and Dorsey for Cleveland.

LOCALS LOSE OPENER

In the tournament opening-day games yesterday Pittsburgh was defeated by New York, 9 to 2, and Chicago trounced Cincinnati, 16 to 5, at Frick Park. In two games at Forbes Field Detroit downed Indianapolis, 14 to 7, and St. Paul defeated Boston, 11 to 3. Washington, the defending champion, overwhelmed St. Louis, 21 to 2, in the only contest staged at Magee Field. This fray was halted after six innings because of rain.

The printers spent last evening at Mineral Beach, where a corn roast, swimming and dancing party was enjoyed. This evening the visitors will be entertained with a theater party at the Schenley theater.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE GARTHWRAY'S ROUGHEST TRIP—The Garthwray left Grangemouth, Scotland, on June 12, 1922, headed for the west coast of South America by way of Cape Horn. It did not arrive at Iquique, Chile, its destination, until December, 1923. The intervening 519 days, in which the log showed a distance of 21,000 miles, constitute one of the stormiest epics of the sea ever written. It was replete with hurricanes, 60-foot high seas, dangers, hardships and constantly threatening disaster. The story was published in all leading newspapers during March, 1924. THE WILSON PHALAROPE—The eggs of Wilson's Phalarope, which is an American bird, are incubated by the male alone. Contrary to the rule prevailing in bird life, the females are larger than the males, more handsomely colored, and more aggressive than their mates. TOMORROW—A DRIVING RECORD OF WHICH TO BE PROUD.

PROTEST MADE BY FAIRMONT

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Alleging violation of the league "rookie" rule, the Fairmont club of the Mid-Atlantic League, yesterday protested games the Clarksburg club won from Fairmont on July 4, 14, and 19, and on August 3 and 5. The protests were filed with Elmer Daily, league president.

The protests said Clarksburg listed as rookies Fillingham, Vassey, Coffee, Whitlock, Cloonan and Wallace, asserting in turn that Whitlock, Coffee, Cloonan and Fillingham cannot be considered rookies.

League rules permit each club to carry five rookie players, two without previous professional experience and three with Mid-Atlantic League experience only.

In yesterday's Mid-Atlantic jousts, Scottdale nosed out Cumberland, 5-4, at the Colts' grounds; Clarksburg rallied to beat Charleroi at Clarksburg; Fairmont set down Wheeling, 3-1, at the Stogies' field, and Jeannette lost to the Johnnies, 8-7, at Johnstown.

Fighter Suffers Concussion of Brain

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Frankie Campbell, San Francisco heavyweight, was seriously injured last night in his bout with Max Baer, of Livermore, Cal., when he suffered concussion of the brain in taking a terrific beating.

The fight was halted in the fifth round, and Campbell sagged to the floor. He was unconscious for 25 minutes while seconds and doctors worked over him in the open-air ring in the ball park. Finally he was taken to an emergency hospital, still unconscious.

An unfortunate incident in the second round hurt Campbell. After he half-pushed and half-knocked Baer to the floor he turned his back to his fallen opponent.

Baer jumped up, ran across the ring and hit Campbell while he had his back turned. He received a terrific punch on the jaw, but saved himself from falling by winding his arms around the top rope.

Mack, Worried, Sends Call For Reinforcements

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Just a little bit panicky, perhaps, at the way the second-place Senators persist in trimming the first-place Athletics, Manager Connie Mack has sent out a hurry call for reinforcements.

Mack told newspapermen that Jim Moore, a big outfielder with the Dallas club in the Texas League, would be on hand Thursday to give the champions a helping hand. Moore is an outfielder recently acquired by Mack.

TITLE FIGHT ARRANGED

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—When two young fellows go around laying claim to a world title, there's only one fit way to solve their problem—let 'em fight. That is exactly what Matchmaker Tom McArdle, of Madison Square Garden, intends to do with Midget Wolgast and Frankie Genaro. Both lads were signed yesterday to fight 15 rounds for the world flyweight title in the Garden October 17.

Burwell, Jacobs Tennis Victors

Other seeded players who won their matches were Jake Hess, Fort Worth, Texas, who defeated Samuel Stewart, Charleston, 6-0, 6-0, and Eddie Jacobs, Baltimore, who beat R. R. De Van, Charleston, 6-0, 6-1. T. C. McKinley, Charleston, won by default Bunner, Fairmont, was defeated in the first round by Gore, Charleston, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

TERRE HAUTE TOPS BUCS

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 26.—Max Carey was the magnet to attract 1,400 fans yesterday into Memorial Stadium, the most imposing baseball ground in the Three I League, where the Pirates lost an exhibition game, 11 to 10, although they outbatted the locals.

Joe Vosmik, Terre Haute outfielder, made five of the 12 hits allowed by Walter and Wood. The visitors, who were managed for the day by Carey, touched Lefty Dyer and Biot, a right hander, for 14 blows. Catcher Frank, of the Tots knocked a homer with one base occupied.

Carey used every one of the 14 players he brought along and he also played half the game in left field to give Comorosky a rest. Max made himself solid with the people of his native city. The score:

Catcher Replaces Harrisburg Club Pilot, Resigned

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 26—(AP.)—Resignation of Johnny Tillman as manager of the Harrisburg baseball club, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, and his replacement by Joe Cobb, catcher, was announced last night by Charles A. Hoak, owner of the club.

MRS. HILL WINS FIRST MATCH

Two up at the turn, Mrs. Hill ended the match on the short fourteenth. A lead of 4 up at the end of six holes, dwindled to 2 at the end of nine when Miss Adams had a par and a birdie on the last two holes. Mrs. Hill's card for the outward nine was one under par, 41. Miss Adams had a 44.

Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago, a member of the women's team which played in Great Britain this year, was 1 down to Mrs. R. I. Bullard, of Springfield, Ill., at the turn. Mrs. Gregg Lifur, Los Angeles, was all square with the Chicago youngster, June Beebe, at the end of nine.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—The fast-going Pirates have no pennant ambitions whatsoever, but the Buccos are in a mood to trifle with those who are enjoying these dreams. And by this token they would enjoy nothing more than to make these Bears climb a pole this afternoon and tomorrow.

Manager Ens and his rollicking crew are all here, and the Pirate family, aside from Lloyd Waner and Glenn Spencer, is in good shape. Little Lloyd gets out of whack, it seems, when he gets away from home cookin' and home sleepin'. The star outfielder was a sick boy when he arrived last night with the regular pitchers and catchers after the long daylight trip from Cincinnati. His stomach went on a rampage, and he was experiencing dizzy spells. Spencer's bad knee is still far from being O. K.

BLAKE OPPOSES BUCS

Manager Ens intends to use Larry French on the mound this afternoon as the two-game series gets started. The Cubs may go to work behind Sheriff Blake. One Chicago paper states that Manager McCarthy will save Charley Root and Pat Malone for the Cardinals, but if Marse Joe does move in this manner, he probably will be guided by the fact that the Buccos are exceptionally tough on the clever Root, who has had sufficient rest to go to the slab.

Be that as it may, the Pirates will challenge all comers. The Buccos, in a manner speaking, are footloose and fancy free. They realize they have much to gain and little to lose and therefore are not "tight." The Bears, on the other hand, are still worried about the flag. They must face the ordeal of another Eastern trip and want to enhance their advantage as much as possible before they start the journey over the mountains.

PIRATES PEPPED UP

The Pirates have won seven of their last eight battles and are tough hombres for any club these days. The seven straight successes pepped up the club and the Pirates are not down as a result of the hard setback they had to sustain in the second game with the Reds on Sunday. Steve Swetonic's pitching feat is still a big topic of discussion on the club, Steve's mates being full of regrets because the popular pitcher had to lose such a beautifully-pitched battle.

The main body of the Pirates arrived here from Terre Haute early this morning. After playing the two games with the Cubs, the Pirates must hustle back to Forbes Field to take on the Reds in a series that includes two doubleheaders.

Jess Petty, former Pirate southpaw, who recently was sold by Newark, of the International League, to the Cubs, is expected to join the Cubs here today. Petty met with striking successes once he got his hand in under Al Mamaux, former Prince of Dormont, who is now the pilot of the Newark Club.

RAMM STOPS BUSH

Nick Altrock Says:

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—The Cubs have one more Eastern swing before they put the final hemstitching in the pennant and if I was Wrigley I would insure their big toe, so they won't stumble at the Polo Grounds. They won't have to worry about Brooklyn. Today, the Robins look like a bunch of pensioned schoolteachers. They have no class now. The way the Brooklyns have been playing lately, they couldn't knock a ball off the fairway of a midget golf course. I see Al Simmons will get married after the World Series. Which practically assures the A's of the championship. There is nothing that can stop a love sick guy who is after extra honeymoon money.

TWO WORLD MARKS FALL IN A. A. U. MEET

CHARLES COPS DECATHLON CROWN

By JESS CARVER

In a blaze of glory kindled by the sparks struck from the flying spikes of a young Oneida Indian Brave the annual A. A. U. track and field championships died a natural death at the Stadium yesterday.

There were but few in the stands to see the smoke and flame of the conflagration as young Wilson Charles of Haskell Institute won the 1930 decathlon championship from a field of 13 but as Charles' performance in the 10 grueling events was consistent so did the attitude of Pittsburgh sport fans remain toward the National meet—consistently apathetic.

The A. A. U. stars a brilliant entry recruited from all parts of the nation wound up their three-day stand here with the running of the relays, the staging of the decathlon and of a special medley shot put event in which two world records were shattered. The decathlon of course was the feature event of the closing day's program and the closeness of the competition and the excellence of the performances were worthy of 100 times the 700 or so who turned out and perched on the hungry appearing stretches of the Stadium.

LOCALS VICTORS

As Charles stole the day's thunder with his splendid performance in the decathlon Pittsburgh itself did not miss the glare of the spotlight. Two of our local relay teams the P. A. A.'s crack four-mile quartet and the Pennsylvania Railroad's two-mile array won their respective races. The applause is very much appreciated. Thank you.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club and the Boston A. A. won their other relays the L. A. A. C. taking the sprints and the Boston team the mile. Denver A. C. while failing to capture a race did walk away with the relay trophy scoring enough place points to substitute the Los Angeles club by three points. Such stuff!

Yesterday's appearance here was not Charles' first. He played a bit of football for our enjoyment last fall at Forbes Field when Haskell bowed to the Dukes 7 to 6. Remember? He won the admiration and respect of the multitudes on that occasion by his brilliant footballing and yesterday, while the multitude was absent, probably getting caught up with its home work, Mr. Charles again occupied the role of a hero.

SCORES 7,313.343

The Indian scored a total of 7,313.343 points to win the all-around title. Trailing him came husky Jim Stewart of the Los Angeles Athletic Club who wound up with 7,119.605. Joe Hall, the dark horse of the meet, beat out the favorite, Harlow Rothert, of the Olympic Club, for third. The Florida University lad had 7,075.071, whereas Rothert registered 7,073.131.

Another Floridan, Forrest Munger, was fifth with 6,480.005 and the field of 13 trailed along in the following fashion: Howard Jones, N. Y. A. C., 5,917.755; Ivan Dykeman, 5,813.09; J. W. Hutchison, Ithaca Training School, 5,706.867; Edward Wlodyka, Boston A. A., 5,645.57; Fred Pusch, Grove City College, 5,600.463; L. Persyni, Union A. C., 5,258.30; James Deering, Yale, 4,594.005.

Charles, trailing Everett Utterback, of the University of Pittsburgh, a Brooklyn Harrier entry, for the first two events, forged to the front when he placed fifth in the shot put and remained a few points ahead of his rivals right down to the concluding event, the 1,500 meter run. Utterback dropped out after taking second in the 100 meters and the broad jump, his hay fever interfering with his breathing to such an extent that he could not carry on.

And the opposition offered by Rothert, Jones, Hall and Stewart was plenty tough. Why, at the completion of eight events only 26 points separated the first and fourth place men.

They came right down to the 1,500 meter run with Stewart and Charles almost neck and neck. By the luck of the draw, they ran in the same heat. Charles wasted little time in pumping out in front and striding along with his head back and his finely proportioned legs moving with mechanical precision, the Indian sped over the long course in 4:55. Stewart, badly fagged and barely able to finish, was almost a minute slower. His time was 5:51. Charles' plentitude of points in this race (he garnered almost 700 points) put him on velvet and was a big factor in his crowning.

He's a great kid, this bronzed Indian boy. Consistent, say, you never missed more one card draws to an inside straight as consistently as this lad piled up big point totals. He scored two first places, one second, two thirds, one fourth, three fifths and one seventh. It was his seventh in the javelin, while Stewart was landing a second, that cut down the Indian's advantage and forced him to such a brilliant performance in the 1,500 meters.

Rothert, a pre-meet favorite, got away to a poor start when he finished seventh in the 100 meters and eighth in the broad jump. He scored three first places, winning the shot, javelin and discus, but was too far from the top in other events.

Stewart might have been closer to his Indian foeman had he done better in the broad jump, the 400 meters and in the 1,500 meters. He scored three second places, being runner-up in the 100 meters, discus, pole vault and javelin.

Young Joe Hall, of Florida, had the boys standing on their respective ears for a time as he made a determined bid to overhaul the leaders. He had a great run of point-getting, starting with the shot put. He was second in this event, second in the high jump, fourth in the 400 meters, first in the 110-meter hurdles and third in the discus, but he faltered after placing fifth in the pole vault (where he attained a height a foot greater than he had ever cleared previous) and was ninth in the javeline and his comeback in the 1,500 meters when he placed third, barely placed him ahead of Rothert.

Fred Pusch and Lou Persyni, of Grove City and Westminster, respectively, competing in their first decathlon competition, deserve a bucketfull of credit. Pusch finished in tenth position with 5,600 points, and Perseyni was eleventh with 5,258.

The P. A. A. relay team won the four-mile event by almost the distance around the track from the Denver A. C. Ray Johnson ran first, Roy Roy second, Joe Pesci third and Woody Adams fourth.

Bill Croassmun's P. R. R. two-mile team gladdened the heart of the Stogie-Smoking Bill by winning its race in a great duel with the Denver A. C. Rupert Bertham of Ohio State, who's doing some thing for the Pennsy, came from behind in the last 100 yards in the anchor duel with Meyers, of the Denver team, to break the tape first. He did the last half mile in 1:56.3.

The Los Angeles A. C. sprint relay combination of Maxwell, Williams, Alf and Hec Dyer won the 440-yard event in 0:42.3 and the 880 in 1:27.6. The Newark A. C. outfit was second in both races.

Boston A. A. landed the fifth relay title, the layout of Morin, Sansone, Smith and Fleet turning in a mile in 3:22. Denver A. C. was second and the Union A. C., of Pittsburgh, third.

BRIX SETS RECORD

In a special medley shot put, with the boys heaving the 16, 12 and eight-pound iron balls, Herman Brix, holder of all the American marks for the 16-pound event, set a new American record for the 12-pound shot with a toss of 58 feet, 8¼ inches and of 68 feet, 9⅞ inches for the eight. His total distance was 177 feet, 9⅞ inches. Harry Rhea, of Nebraska, was second with 171 feet, 8¾ inches. Leo Sexton, of Georgetown, finished third with 165 feet, 10 inches and Harry Laborde, of the Olympic Club, was fourth with 162 feet, 3 inches.

The stars selected to represent the United States in the meet with the Great Britian-Canadian combine at Chicago tomorrow departed last night on Buck Herzog's B. and O. Special for the Windy City. They put all the left handers and the three-mile walkers in the upper berths, which is as it should be.

Trank goodness, that's all over.

Golf Holes in One Bring Yawns at Cedar Rock

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 26 (AP.)—It's getting so around the Cedar Rocks Country Club that a hole in 1 only elicits bored yawns.

Leo Shea, club professional, scored an ace on the 132-yard eighth hole yesterday. Sunday R. G. Otto negotiated the 180-yard third in 1, and three weeks ago J. I. Mahle accomplished the same feat on the 132-yard fifth.

JOE HALL, THIRD

Hall, a dark horse from the University of Florida, nosed out Harlow Rothert, the favorite, for third place in the A. A. U. decathlon championship at the Stadium yesterday. The Southerner here is shown clearing the bar in spectacular fashion in the high jump, an event in which he finished fourth.

JIM STEWART, SECOND

ANSLEM BOWS TO DAVIES

GIZZY EASILY WINS OVER BALDUC

By JAMES MILLER.

A bad cut over the left eye that bled profusely from the opening round until the last proved no handicap to Wee Willie Davies, Charleroi mite, who outboxed Frankie (Kid) Anslem, Negro flyweight, of Philadelphia, for eight rounds and then outslugged him in the remaining two, to win the judges' decision in their 10-round main bout of the double windup at Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last night. A good crowd attended.

Davies received the cut over his eye last Tuesday night in his bout with Prisco Grande Filipino, of Buffalo, at Johnstown. Grande butted Willie in the second round, and it required three stitches to close the wound.

Anslem shot a hard right to Davies' eye in the initial stanza which opened the cut and had Willie's face smeared with blood all during the round, but Willie, with a heart as big as himself, brought his perfect left jab into action and Frankie did not hit him with a solid blow the rest of the round.

DAVIES COPS EASILY

It was all Davies, with Anslem countering with a hard right to the body occasionally. Just another case of a fighter with a punch thrown in against a superior boxer.

In the ninth and tenth rounds Willie cast aside his boxing skill and whaled in with both gloves landing repeatedly on Anslem's face and body. It looked like no one but Willie from this end of the ring, although Al Grayber, the referee, voted the affair an even contest, with Judges Frank Ferris and Freddie Lux casting their slips for Davies. Anslem weighed in at 113 and Willie 114¾.

GIZZY VICTOR

In the other half of the bargain bill, Battling Gizzy, the Donora windmill, slapped Georgie Balduc, of Canada, around the ring with apparent ease without receiving as much as one good blow in return.

Gizzy had just too many punches for Balduc to fathom, and as the result the Canuck was smothered with flurry after flurry of leather. The Battler is one fighter the crowd likes to see in action. Balduc tipped the beam at 135½ and Gizzy 133½.

The two top bouts on the card were put on before what was to have been an eight-round bout, but, due to a misunderstanding in contracts, Bunny Buntack, manager of Len (Swede) Johnson, light-heavyweight, refused to allow his boy to go on with Arvin Spence, of Cleveland, so Frankie Moran, of Hazelwood, went in with Tiger Joe Clark, Negro southpaw, of the South Side. Moran was knocked out in the first round. And, strange to say, it was a hard right smash that floored Moran. Frankie tried to raise himself from the canvas, but failed to beat the count.

NANCI STOPPED

Jimmy Thomas, hard-hitting Negro of the Hill, once more displayed his vaunted right in scoring a technical knockout over Young Nanci, of Swissvale, in the first round of their scheduled six-round bout. Nanci was dropped with a right to the chin the first time and he took a count of three. The second time he went to the floor his face landed first and he came up at the count of six, covered with resin. He went down two other times from punches. The last time he arose at the count of nine and Thomas pinned him on the ropes and was battering him with rights and lefts when Referee Jack Henderson stopped the fight. Nanci had a weight advantage of five and a half pounds on Thomas, who scaled 120.

Al Grayber and Jack Henderson were the referees, with Freddie Lux and Frank Ferris as judges. Max Zeugschmidt and Chappie Couch were keeping time. The commission physician was Dr. J. M. McMeans.

Before the main bout, Ray Eberle announced that Jack (Buck) McTiernan, classy Swissvale junior-middleweight, would meet Clyde Hull, of Texas, in the main go next Tuesday night at the Bowl.

The show will be moved back a day because Monday falls on Labor Day.

Between Rounds

Just one more bout remains open for Francis Flynn's card at the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. arena Friday night. He has Jack Wilson, North Side middleweight, lined up against Al (Red) Jacoberg, of Jamestown, in the main 10-rounder. A bout of the double windup and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, meeting Paul Oger, of Belaire, O., in the other 10. Mickey Solomen, of New Castle, is paired with Bill Brent, Negro, of the Hill, in the second six-rounder.

George Godfrey, of Leipersville, Pa., nat-ties Arthur DeKuh, of Brooklyn, at the Taylor Bowl, Cleveland; Goldie Hess, of California, meets Tony Canzoneri, of New York, at Queensboro Stadium, N. Y., while Ace Hudkins takes on Jack McVey at Los Angeles, in important battles tonight.

SPORT TIPOFFS

IT'S ALL OVER—HOORAH!

To Mr. Charley Baker, of the Western Union, goes the palm for pulling the best one of the meet . . . The boys in the press box were discussing Charles and some one pointed out that he was a full-blooded Oneida Indian . . . "Oh, well," cracked Mr. Baker, "he may be an Indian, but he probably was born in this country" . . . For the benefit of those who do not know the angles of this decathlon racket . . . the points are based on Olympic records for each event . . . Equal the Olympic mark and you get 1,000 . . . Other totals are arrived at on the percentage basis . . . For example, you get 47.60 for each one-fifth of a second in the 100 meters . . . Seesta? . . . They ought to add a few points to the bird winning each event . . . Say 50 or 100 . . . It seems only fair . . . Mr. William Scragen, another Western Union celebrity, handled Ted Vosburgh's A. P. wire yesterday . . . He wanted to bet that none of the boys would finish the 1,500 meters before night . . . This fella Brix has a great act . . . He broke those records yesterday without deigning to remove his sweat jacket . . . Nice little feller . . . He and Paul Jessop, the new world record holder in the discus, both have to duck when they go in the ordinary door . . . Waldy Zeig was running around hunting bets on Simpson against Tolan for tomorrow at Chicago . . . If Tolan wins, I get an ex tar finnif . . . And Waldy will be that much short . . . If Simpson wins, he'll still be short . . . If I had five bucks I wouldn't be at track meets . . . The guy running the broadcasting act got by without playing the Stein Song . . . But he certainly gave "Around the Corner" a workout . . . It's all over, including the shouting . . . JESS CARVER.

PIRATES' CARD CHANGED

President Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, today announced that an agreement had been reached with the Cincinnati club whereby a shift will be made in the doubleheaders to be played by the Pirates and Reds in the five-game series at Forbes Field during the last three days of this week.

Instead of staging doubleheaders on Thursday and Friday, with a single game on Saturday, as originally planned, the clubs will move one of the dual bills from Friday to Saturday. Under the new arrangement there will be a doubleheader on Thursday, a single game on Friday and a double-header on Saturday.

N. KENSINGTON DOGS RETURN

With the return tomorrow night of dog racing at the New Kensington Kennel Club, Pittsburgh greyhound owners will have their run for a share of the purses. One of the prominent Pittsburgh owners is Dr. S. Glenn, of South Negley avenue, who has acquired a kennel of nine racers. They include the fashionably bred litter of Altcar Dress, Stepping Wolf, Dangerous Wolf, Another Darwin and Above Defeat — five dogs for which he paid $2,500. He also owns Jazzbo, Hogan, Cliff Top and Lady Teazle.

Dr. Glenn has been sprinting his dogs at his farm at Sandy Creek and reports that all of them are ready for the bugle Wednesday night.

Alloon, winner of the Derby, Spindle Top, Keno Thought, Hunter's Home, Diamond Crown, Bootlegger, Rough Alice Rose, Wings, Gleeful Glint, Bowery Red, Canter Bingham, Darktown, Golden Rock, Don't Worry, Dr. Dancer, Mixed Words, Wild Wisher, Naishapur, Monty Meadows and many other old favorites will be seen in action at New Kensington.

FAVORITES COP NET MATCHES AT BROOKLINE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Tennis' return to normalcy appeared in sight here yesterday when 32 strong teams engaged in the opening round of the national doubles championship play on the Longwood courts without registering anything resembling an upset.

Nine of the 10 seeded teams, led by George Lott and Johnny Doeg, the defending champions, won. The other team did not play because Sydney Wood, New York youngster, paired with Frank X. Shields, arrived too late to take the courts against Richard Lusch and Keith Werner, of Los Angeles. They will play today.

The defending champions defeated Albert and Robert Turner, of Newton, 6-4, 6-3, 7-5. Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, the Davis Cup doubles team, drew another pair of brothers, Leo and Charly Lejeck, the Western titleholders, and made even shorter work of them, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2, than did the top-seeded players with their set of brothers.

Big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, fresh from their Newport victory, had an easy time getting a winning start at the expense of the Middle Atlantic champions, Dooley Mitchell and Robert Considine, of Washington, by scores of 6-1, 6-3, 6-4.

Convention Gossip

Commissioner Billy McCann, George Brenner and Howard Davis are certainly working hard trying to make this the greatest country ever had. McCann seems to be a busy man, and the visitors are loud in their praise of the local chapter's handling of the affair.

Hamilton, Ontario, a newcomer in the league, is working hard trying to get next year's award as the tournament city. A representative from that city is canvassing members and giving away pretty little charms. The dope seems to indicate that the printers will make the trip to Canada next year.

President Johnny Dugan, of Cincinnati, was as busy as a bee superintending the tourney. The Cincinnati man seems to thrive on hard work.

Bertha Wright, of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, is here with the St. Louis team, but he certainly had little to become enthused over when the Washingtonians swung into action. Quoth that rain was a life-saver exclaimed Wright, after trying to keep score for two hours of all sorts of wild and woolly baseball.

Nackie Joe Fierst, of New York, a printer of National renown, is the life of the convention. Joe sports a derby hat that puts a damper on Coo-Coo's Derby. It's a green ensemble. There is little chance for any of the boys to steal the spotlight from the boy from Broadway.

Ludwig, the Detroit first baseman, is one of the classiest boys who has worked on the local sandlots. Ludwig compares with any first-sacker in the tourney and seems able to do anything to a queen's taste.

This fixture, which will be run at Good Time Park in Goshen, N. Y., is the richest prize in the harness game, being worth $70,000. It is for 3-year-old trotters, and it is expected that there will be 15 colts and fillies in the starting field.

YOU'VE HEARD A great deal about this and that "system" in the coaching of rowing crews, but old Jim Wray, whose Cornell and Springfield Rowing Association oarsmen won two national championships this year within two months of each other, declares it's all the bunk. "There is no system about coaching," he says, "no special stroke, and no special system. The thing for any good crew is perfect rowing form, and the only perfect rowing form is perfect co-ordination. This last is merely the result of constant practice, in which the oarsman derives the most out of the stroke the full distance, and a smooth, continuous uninterrupted motion throughout the race. Eight men rowing in perfect form do not need a high beat. They can row 32 or even 30 strokes to the minute and beat another crew, much stronger and hitting the water at 36 or 40, but not rowing perfectly. And they will win without exerting themselves. Perfect form, that's all it is, a co-ordination of all the factors into a smooth, uninterrupted stroke. Only physical qualities and the right spirit need be added. There's no mystery and no system about coaching."*

NEMACOLIN COPS

The Nemacolin Country Club walked off with the John Latta Jamison Memorial Shield, emblematic of the Western Pennsylvania caddie team championship, at the Pittsburgh Field Club yesterday, its four-men bag-toting team aggregating 340 strokes to return the low total. Pittsburgh Field Club was second with 345 and Oakmont and Alcoma tied for third, 346.

Two youngsters who have been fortunate enough to come through in the Pittsburg Sun-Telegraph's annual William Randolph Hearst junior amateur tourney, Joe Stevenson, of Greensburg, and Anthony Meyers, of Etna, who is the reigning king, came through to cop further laurels in yesterday's wide-spread caddie play.

Stevenson won the W. P. G. A.'s individual caddie crown when he returned a fine 40-38—78 over the difficult Pittsburgh Field Club links, unseating Tony Voscholo, of Westmoreland, while Myers won the caddie tourney held at the Wildwood Country Club, scoring a splendid 75, being out in 36 and home in 39. Harry Zimmerman directed the Wildwood event.

BELJAN VICTOR

Andy Petrolia's annual caddie tourney also was staged yesterday at the Schenley Park links, Frank Tepeiner coming through in Class A to win with a 69. B. Weltner being second with a 70. F. Yalch won in Class B with a 76, and S. Lipchick copped in Class C with a 90.

OUTLOOK HELD BETTER FOR PETROLEUM

Conditions Improved by Stabilization Program, Texas Company Head Says

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The petroleum industry during recent periods of prosperity and recession has been following its own laws and ignoring changes in the business cycle.

Thus far this year, for example, gasoline consumption not only has not fallen off, but has also failed to relinquish its usual annual rate of growth. Leaders of the industry are hopeful that greater prosperity will be brought about as a result of the program of rationalization in the oil trade, which has sought to reduce production to actual demand. R. C. Holmes, head of the Texas Company, believes that the outlook for the oil industry for the remainder of the year is better, basically because of the progress made in restricting production.

Mr. Rukeyser.

SEES IMPROVEMENT

Mr. Holmes pointed out to me:

"Conditions have been improved by the stabilization program. The producers of California and Oklahoma have succeeded quite well in reducing their production of crude oil to approximately the market requirements, while the producers of Texas are now actively engaged in a similar effort and with some prospect of success. If California production can be held to approximately 600,000 barrels a day, the Oklahoma production of 550,000 to 575,000 barrels, and if the Texas producers can reduce their output to approximately 750,000 barrels, the desired state of balance will be achieved and some reduction in stock accomplished.

"The primary necessity of the industry is to strike a balance between production and consumption in order that a material draft may be made on the excess stocks now carried. The unit drilling of oil structures is highly desirable to avoid the drilling of unnecessary wells to secure a larger recovery of oil and to prevent waste. The desired program can be accomplished under the existing laws of the principal oil producing states, although in some particulars these statutes might be improved.

"The present gasoline prices do not allow a sufficient margin of profit, but the situation may be improved considerably by reducing the production of crude oil so as to balance it with consumption."

NORTHWEST CONDITIONS

The Northwest, which has long been the special center of agricultural ills, has apparently been less adversely affected by the drought than other sections of the country. W. B. Geery, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, in a message to this column, pointed out:

"Venturing an opinion, which may very possibly require revision when it is possible to obtain a more complete knowledge of crop returns, I might say that the current crop appears to be less in volume over the district as a whole than that of a year ago, but unless market prices levels change radically, the money return will probably show no very great difference. I hold this view because the good crop is in the more densely populated sections, while the severe damage is largely in areas of sparse settlement, the Western Dakotas and Central Montana.

"Farmers are buying cautiously and business has been proceeding more slowly than a year ago. The marketing of the crop in itself always generates a certain amount of business activity and it appears probable that during the remainder of the year there will be some pickup in the business situation.

"From the information that is available here, I am inclined to think that while the Northwest has suffered a deterioration as compared with the agricultural prospects of July 1, it has not been as hard hit as other sections of the country, and that it has passed through the worst heat and drought of many years better than other agricultural sections that have been subjected to the same adverse conditions."

Fox Film Position Now Much Improved

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The complete semi-annual report of the Fox Film Corporation shows a complete reversal of the company's financial position, as a result of the refinancing and change in management which grew out of efforts to have a receiver appointed. Total current assets were $30,444,121, against current liabilities of $12,229,245 on June 30, compared to current assets of $23,408,565 on December 31, considerably exceeded by current liabilities of that date of $46,101,586. As previously reported, earnings for the first half set a new high record at $4 a share, and ability of the company to show further gains in income during July lead the management to predict total 1930 earnings of about $9 a share.

Columbia Pictures Net Over Million

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORPORATION reported net profit of $1,029,958 for the year ended June 28, 1930. This was equivalent to $6.56 a share on 156,908 shares of common stock after deducting preferred dividends.

Earnings for the fiscal year justified predictions of increased profits made several months ago. They reflect the continued growth in the organization's business and the improvement in its products which has, within a short time, made it one of the outstanding producing organizations in the movie field.

Profit for the year was nearly double that of the preceding 12 months. It compares with net of $551,823 or $3.55 a share on the common stock in the year ended June 29, 1929, with $249,931 or $1.17 a share in the year ended June 30, 1928, and with $155,638 or 54 cents a share in the year ended June 30, 1927.

Outlook Bright

OFFICIALS EXPECT FURTHER gains in earnings for the present fiscal year. More elaborate productions have materially expanded the organization's market.

Last May a contract was closed with Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation for the distribution of Columbia's 1930-1931 output of 20 feature sound productions in addition to short subjects. The R. K. O. chain of theaters covers all parts of the country and has a seating capacity of nearly 2,000,000 persons a day.

Unofficial estimates have placed the net profit to be derived by Columbia from this source at about $700,000 annually.

Large Reserves Established

LAST YEAR COLUMBIA deducted $2,714,970 from earnings for amortization of films. That this was liberal can be seen from the fact that the inventory of negatives and released positives at the end of the fiscal year was carried at only $1,296,591, or less than half reserve established during the year. The total inventory, including productions being made, scenarios unproduced and supplies amounted to $2,667,429.

The company's policy is to write off the principal cost of new productions during the first year of their exhibition. This leaves them on the books at only a nominal sum at the beginning of their second year although they still draw revenue from rural districts and from export markets.

MOVIE STOCKS TURN TREND OF MARKET

Dismissal of Warner Bros. Receiver Petition and Fox Report Cause Rise

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—The motion picture stocks continued to show a few mildly bullish sparks in today's stock market.

Such a vote of confidence as dismissal of the Warner Brothers receivership petition on the day of publication of an optimistic report by the film stock's officers from the management's last previously unfavorable figures with some evidence of building up stocks.

The advance was helped along by extensive operations in the theatre shares recommended as bought on reactions by a statistical publication which has been favorable to the issue. The list as a whole sagged during the early trading and worked lower under the influence of profit-taking of the speculative type. Trade and investment shares showed little change. By mid-day however the motion picture stocks were substantially upward and were supported by a wide assortment of trading favorites.

SHORTS COVER

Short covering appeared in some volume. The market continued mostly the private affair of professional traders however as no widespread inclination to buy stocks developed.

Fox gained more than 3 points and Loew's nearly as much. The balance sheet as shown for June 30 indicated a complete reversal of the cramped financial position shown six months previously. Total assets were carried at about $192,500,000 a gain of more than 50 per cent from December 31. The company is still faced with the problem of permanent financing, however as it has $53,000,000 in short term notes coming due next spring. Warner Brothers sold up more than 2 points although dismissal of the equity suit was only a technicality. General Theatres and Paramount were firm.

The advance was hailed by practically all groups and individual gains of ½ to 3 points were numerous appearing in Air Reduction, Mathieson Alkali, American Telephone, North American, Standard Gas, Vanadium, Byers, Norfolk and Western, New York Central, Dupont, Gillette, Eastman Kodak and National Biscuit. Such shares as U. S. Steel, American Can and General Electric gained more than a point. The utilities displayed more notable strength than of late.

WEAK SPOT

A conspicuous weak spot in the list was International Telephone, which sagged persistently, getting down more than 2 points.

The stock has been under considerable pressure at various times in recent months owing to curtailed earnings resulting from world wide depression. Oils were easy.

As railway earnings reports for July continue to appear, the comparisons with recent years shows little change from June. The more favorable reports usually appear first. The Department of Commerce's automobile production report for July was somewhat less than had been expected, and indicated clearly the extent of the slump in that month. Output was 21½ per cent below June and 47½ per cent under July, 1929. Call money continued at 2 per cent.

West Penn Electric Production Greater

The West Penn Electric Company, which controls the electric subsidiaries of the American Water Works and Electric Company, Inc., reports power output to regular customers of 150,039,797 kilowatt hours for the month of July, 1930, a decrease of 4.98 per cent over the output of 157,902,254 kilowatt hours for the month of July, 1929.

For the seven months of 1930 power output to regular customers totaled 1,109,481,005 kilowatt hours, which is greater by 0.58 per cent than the output for the corresponding period of 1929, which was 1,103,036,730 kilowatt hours.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Lower prices both for wheat and corn here formed the rule early today, influenced by downturns of wheat quotations at Liverpool and good harvest weather in Canada. With better weather, too, for harvest operations in Europe, buyers abroad were holding off. Opening ⅛@¾c down, Chicago wheat future deliveries underwent additional declines later. Corn started unchanged to ⅝c off, and subsequently sagged all around.

A good deal of the selling of wheat in Chicago at times today appeared to be against purchases at Winnipeg. Corn values went lower despite continued adverse crop news. Provisions were firm in the absence of any unusual pressure to sell.

Southern Pacific Railway Turns in Poor July Statement

Among the relatively poor operating statements turned in the leading railroads for July that of the Southern Pacific came in for no little comment. It operates the Southern Pacific Company, which is one of the largest railroad systems in the country. Gross of that road for the month was off $5,062,000 from the level of a year ago while net of $4,215,000 showed a drop of $1,812,000. Figures for the seven months were equally disappointing, gross showing a drop of $27,459,000 for the period and a net shrinkage of $12,486,000 or about 39 per cent from a year ago. It was to be recalled that there was much speculation on the possibility of an increase in the road's $6 dividend last year but while stockholders did not enjoy such a development at least they will not have to do any early worrying about continuance of the foregoing rate of payments.

Wall Street is now turning its binoculars on the business and industrial horizon, seeking to detect the first traces of a rift in the depression clouds that have been hanging overhead for about the allotted space of time. It was pointed out that in the past depression periods have usually been of a duration of 10 to 13 months. And inasmuch as the first signs of sluggishness were visible last July, though not discerned until some time later, the current depression has been with us the full year and one month. Improvement is therefore expected, though it will no doubt be gradual in the beginning.

Selling which made itself felt in a lower range of prices for Standard Oil of New Jersey and some other leading petroleum shares yesterday was largely in taking the form of liquidation of long holdings by some of the larger of the market's operators. The selling apparently was in the nature of a resumption of the liquidation which came into the market on Saturday coincident with the poor showing of half-year earnings of several companies. But it was evident also that the comment of The Lamp, house-organ of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, on the refining end of the business was not particularly encouraging to followers of the oils. It had the ring of a warning to refiners against a duplication of what has happened almost invariably each year, that is, running their plants at a high rate through the low consuming season and thus placing the industry in a poor statistical position with the approach of the ensuing year's period of heavy consumption.

Most market observers were of the opinion that the market was not likely to do much more than consolidate its recent advance during this week, which by reason of the decision of the Stock Exchange to grant the petition of members for a Saturday closing, will be another abbreviated period. The vacation season will be out of the way a week hence, and an increasing amount of attention is bound to be given various phases of the financial and business situation. The outlook for the market over the balance of the year hinges on the ability of business to pick up and hold its gain. A repetition of what happened this spring is something of which most people do not care to think.

Directors of the Republic Steel Corporation are due to meet for dividend action some time this week. There is some doubt in the market circles on whether the $4 dividend paid on the stock of the predecessor company will be maintained. A larger capitalization naturally resulted from the acquisition of several smaller units in the industry, and maintenance of the foregoing dividend would probably depend on the extent to which the company has been able to co-ordinate the operation of its newer units. Wall street would not be at all surprised if directors voted payments at the rate of $2.50 or $3 a share annually on the present issue.

Speculation is still highly concentrated in a rather limited array of the more favored of the listed issues. Analysis of fact that approximately half of last week's figures develops the the period's turnover of around 8,900,000 shares, was accounted for by the trading done in about 20 most active issues. Prominent in that group were to be found radio, Radio-Keith, Steel Common, United Aircraft, American Can, Vanadium Steel, American and Foreign Power, General Motors, General Electric, Nickel, Electric Power & Light and Westinghouse Electric.

Employment Gains In Western States

ST. PAUL, Aug. 26.—Industrial employment in Minnesota showed "decided gains" in July, and the employment situation in both North and South Dakota improved, district director of the United States employment service reports.

Heavy demand was made on the unskilled labor supply for harvest work, highway construction and other outdoor activities. Flour milling is increasing its activity.

Western Electric Plant on Full Schedule

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26.—The largest armoring machine for manufacturing wire armored cable is in full operation on rush orders at the cable plant of Western Electric Company at Point Breeze.

The installation of the machine, which is 162 feet long and occupies 3,240 square feet of floor space, marks the beginning of a new type of manufacture at the Point Breeze plant. From now on, this branch of the company will make all armored cable. None will be manufactured at the Hawthorne or Kearny plants.

The new armoring machine replaces the one in use at the Kearny works. Its capacity is twice that of the old machine, and its greater number of wire spool holders and larger bore allows it to armor cable of greater diameter.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The curb market suffered from inertia today and slithered along within a narrow trading area which reflected the apathetic attitude towards nearly the entire list. An upward tendency was in evidence and prices ruled steady to firm.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

From Log Cabin to Gothic Tower

A hundred and fifty years have passed since a handful of young men gathered in a log cabin somewhere in what is now called the "Golden Triangle" and formed the first student body of the University of Pittsburgh. Then it was called "Pittsburgh Academy." It was a simple, one-room building. The design of the cabin was not important, but the fact that there was a school at all touched the highest hope of these log cabin pioneers. Is it at all possible that one of those pupils, or the teacher who faced them, could have visualized the exquisitely beautiful tower now rearing its majestic height above the present University campus? In this imposing pile of steel and stone, an artistic and practical imagination has skilfully adapted the gothic lines of medieval architecture to the spirit of Pittsburgh. "Pittsburgh Academy" has out-grown its log cabin, but, although the student body now numbers some fifteen thousand the spirit which motivated those sturdy pioneers in their search for knowledge still continues and is one of the most prized assets of Pittsburgh.

DAILY TRUE STORY

"The Answer"

"They called Kenny 'The Answer,'" Maj. Parker said. "Quer thing to call a chap," I commented.

"It was shortened—he was supposed to believe himself to be, in the vernacular, the answer to a maiden's prayer."

"I understand. Sort of a collegiate Adonis and Lochinvar."

"He certainly had a way with him, so far as girls were concerned," the Major agreed. "Sure, you remember Ranny at the Mossybank Club?"

I shook my head.

"You must. That five years ago, before I went abroad, I was home on leave. Since I kept my membership and received papers and bills, I got the dope about all dances. I've forgotten all about answers to maiden's prayers, in those days, but Ranny Meriwell was still a subject when I left."

Major Parker chuckled.

"It was great while it lasted—" He paused to accept drinks from a tray brought by a steward.

"Scotch," he murmured. "Tastes better when about forty miles off shore."

"And aboard a private yacht whose owner we are well aware stocks from abroad rather than from a bootlegger," I agreed. "But you were about The Answer, Major."

"You might work it into one of those puffing society novels you turn out with such abandon."

"Wrong. Major. Not abandon—it is reverently that driver I'm not in the private yacht class as yet."

"Neither am I. But why worry when we have friends who are?"

We both paused to watch the owner of the palatial yacht. He came along and chatted a few minutes and then joined his beautiful wife, Lady Bellaton, and Viscount Heddington, to go below for a rubber of bridge.

College Title

"Back to your muttons, Major. What about Ranny, this answer to a maiden's prayer, and especially what about the thrills I missed at the Mossybank Club?"

"Oh, yes. You said you remembered Ranny as a stripling. When his father died he left just enough to put Ranny through college and enable Ranny's mother to live modestly in that awful Dutch-Spanish-Norman atrocity of a cottage he had built. Ranny managed to get through college—no cum laude for him. But he had something that he cherished far more—he had been voted the handsomest man in college—"

"Calamity — awful thing to happen," I put in.

"It was in college that Ranny was first called 'The Answer,' but don't think he was then one of those almost femininely beautiful lads. Say what you will, girls do not fall for that type—they like the stalwart sort.

"Ranny, to do him credit, at first looked about for a good position when he was graduated. His mother bought him a membership in the Mossybank Club. She had to stint herself to do it, but she didn't want Ranny to go to work; she wanted him to be a gentleman and she was one of those sweet, futile, dumb sort of women who had the ancient idea that a man couldn't work at real work and work at being a gentleman at the same time.

"Well, the July dance at the Mossybank was one of the club's two big events of the year. Ranny came without any girl friend. He had been a member only a week and had not been at the club before except one forenoon. He didn't need to bring a girl friend along. He hadn't drifted into the big ballroom 10 minutes before at least 20 girls were asking 'Who is he.' Even Emmy gushed to me about him."

"I had to do a lot of introducing. Ranny's mother had asked me to do that much. She didn't go. I really think she didn't have anything fit to wear—she gave every cent of her modest income to Ranny.

"He made an immediate hit."

"Turned his head, I suppose?" I ventured.

"He wasn't bashful, about himself," the Major agreed. "But, strange to say, the most beautiful girl there, Selma Leighton, was an exception to the others. She and Emmy were good friends, rather chummy. I remember Selma coming over to us that night.

Disliked by Selma

"'Aren't girls the idiots!' she exclaimed, 'look at the fools, they fairly cling to him. I don't like him. I don't like a handsome man, and I don't like the way he carries himself—see that look-me-over-girls way he has.'

"Ranny came over to speak to me between dances. Selma was with us. He asked her for a dance. 'I couldn't rob these little flappers of the thrilling privilege of dancing with the answer to a maiden's prayer,' Selma answered."

"Ranny looked at her and nodded. 'They did call me that at college,' he admitted.

"'And voted you the handsomest man in college?' Ranny nodded again. 'And you didn't protest?' 'Why should I, Miss Leighton?—it was true.' Well, sir, Selma gave him a regular horse laugh. 'That's certainly a notable career for a young man—being beautiful.' 'Women have made a profession of it since the stone age and perhaps before, Miss Leighton—' He had to excuse himself. Two girls came over for him and started to argue as to which one had the dance. I thought there was going to be a fight over him. 'I'll settle it by dancing with Miss Leighton,' Ranny said, turning to Selma with that wonderfully fetching smile of his.

A beautiful girl can afford to be plain-spoken. That a biological fact made me fairly good looking is not my fault or to my credit—it just happened. Miss Leighton, for chastity and friendliness and common politeness may be acquired by anyone with a yearning to true gentility—and with that he danced with Emmy and left the two girls still arguing while Selma's face turned almost the hue of a crazed lobster.

'I could wring his neck,' Selma said. I almost heard her grit her teeth. 'You had it coming to you,' I commented. 'That's what hurts. I have to admit it,' she confessed. 'Well,' Ranny went through the summer in a sort of whirl of glory. How he kept his head, how he kept out of scandalous situations is a wonder. Every young man detested him and every marriageable girl raved over him—along with a lot of married women. It was Selma Leighton who put Chet Warren up to showing Ranny as a real four-flushing dub. The committee on sports began to get friendly with Ranny just to get him into a lot of contests on our Labor Day club meet.

Stars at Meets

"He can dance and he can pose as the answer to a maiden's prayer,' Selma told Chet, 'and that lets him out. We'll show him up.' Selma reminded me of the French saying that we never forgive those whom we do an injustice. She never forgave Ranny for coming back at her with some sharp criticism. And strange to say, Ranny couldn't see anyone except Selma; he confessed to Emmy that he was crazy about her.

"To everyone's surprise, Ranny pitched good ball the first day of the meet. He also won a high jump over Tenson of Yale, who was supposed to have some sort of a record, and in the shot put, where Chet Warren shone at his best, Ranny made him look like an amateur. 'It was an accident,' Chet declared. 'We'll do it over if you wish,' said Ranny. Chet wished, he said, but after the second go, Chet wished he hadn't done it—he didn't equal his first go and Ranny bettered his. 'It might have been an accident,' Ranny said, 'but not mine.' Chet was so sore, because Selma Leighton was standing there, that he called Ranny a stuffed shirt and a few other things, promising to give him the beating of his life. 'Any time, Chet,' Ranny agreed.

"That fight didn't come off, a better one did. Chet did not accept Ranny's willingness. He had an idea that it would disgrace the club, he explained.

"It was the next day, when the cross-country run was on, that the big fight took place. About 50 of us went over to the knoll where the runners would pass on their way back. Oscar Leighton, Selma's brother, was there, keeping time. He wore the loudest yellow sweat shirt in existence except the one Ranny had. They were about alike. Ranny was in the run, and at last accounts was holding second place from the start.

"A stocky built chap, in blue serge, came up to Oscar Leighton and started to talk. 'Just a minute, here they come,' he said. The stranger promptly socked him just as Ranny, who had the lead, came up and saw it. He stopped running and helped Oscar up. The stranger told him to get the so-and-so out. Ranny asked him why he hit Oscar. His answer was a sock that sent Ranny tumbling back, but he rushed the man, and then we saw a fight.

Ranny Wins

"It was a terrific fight. I stopped the strange chap in the blue serge with my mid-iron in hand, and told him I'd brain him if he struck another foul blow or hit in another clinch. He saw that I meant it. The fight lasted 15 minutes and we had to bring water from the water hazard to fetch him around. Oscar had a broken jaw, but didn't know it then, he was so excited over the fight. When the chap sat up his question to Ranny was, 'Who are you.' Ranny told him. 'For Pete's sake, you was the guy I was hired to beat up!' he yelps. Then Ranny told him very mildly that unless he explained two things, who he was and who hired him to beat himself (Ranny) up, that he would give him another beating. The stranger was Bull Sigson, a middleweight of much renown.

"Ranny was better. Well, Sigson explained that he was hired by Chet Warren to beat up Ranny and was told that he would know Ranny by his gosh awful yellow sweat shirt.

"Ranny took Oscar to the hospital. Sigson was allowed to depart. Selma arrived soon after this. She made her chauffeur follow, and she rode back in Oscar's car. Ranny had no car, of course.

"'Ranny,' she said, 'I am going to pray a maiden's prayer to you.'

"'If I'm the answer, Selma, you've got your answer,' Ranny said, and Selma, being what is vulgarly but expressively called 'lousy with millions,' explains why we are enjoying this outing on Ranny's private yacht this moment."

"By George!" I cried, "and it explains why the name of the yacht is 'The Answer.'"

"Sure—Ranny's brother-in-law, Oscar, made him a present of it."

This is Vespucio Trafalgar Doakes, who suggests that the police, after every particularly exciting murder, merely send out a call for all gangsters who have had nothing to do with the case to come in and report, and thus save the authorities the bother of rounding them up and running the risk of actually getting the right man by mistake. This will save valuable time that may just as well be spent watching boulevard stops.

Fisher Has New Chance For Fine Public Service

The resignation of Judge Thomas J. Ford from the bench of Common Pleas Court will give Gov. John S. Fisher another opportunity to render valuable public service by appointing to the place an attorney of the highest integrity and ability. The Governor now has two places to fill on the Allegheny County bench, since Judge Thomas D. Carnahan's successor has not been named.

If Gov. Fisher were to continue to follow the policy that marked some of his earlier appointments to office—the policy of making politics the paramount consideration in choosing his appointees—there might be reason to regret that Judges Carnahan and Ford did not postpone their resignations until Fisher went out of office.

The judiciary ought not to be in politics, but when judges are chosen from the ranks of professional politicians, as has so often been the case, there is danger that judicial decisions may be influenced by partisan considerations. That is why those who have regard for the standing of the Allegheny County bench would be reluctant to see Gov. Fisher fill the vacancies at the dictation of the local Republican machine.

Fortunately there is reason to believe he does not consider himself any longer under obligation to the machine. The machine rejected his appointee, Senator Joseph R. Grundy, in the senatorial primary, supporting Grundy's chief opponent, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, instead. Fisher, whether in retaliation or for some other reason, rejected the machine's candidate for the bench when he filled the vacancies caused by the resignation of Judge John A. Evans and the death of Judge Josiah Cohen.

In appointing Miss Sara Soffel as judge of the County Court, Gov. Fisher is understood to have said he gave no thought whatever to political considerations. He has said he would be glad to know the choice of the Allegheny County Bar Association, to be determined by a referendum, when it comes to naming Judge Carnahan's successor.

A veteran lawyer himself, and familiar with conditions in Allegheny County, Gov. Fisher, if of a mind to, can give us first-class judges.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

The net result of 25 years of research, summed up in Renner's monograph, is that no special storm of mutation is agitating Oenothera's germ plasm. So far as we can see, the kind of sports it is throwing now it will continue to throw, as abundantly as ever, so long as it exists; and most of them are accidents to the chromosome machinery of no significance for evolution.

H. G. Wells

As regards true evolutionary material, Oenothera is producing no more gene-mutations than do the general run of plants and animals as regards its other sports, there is no reason to suppose that it is at the moment indulging in a burst of them.

De Vries was as unlucky in Oenothera as his material for the study of Evolution as Mendel was lucky in his choice of the pea for his study of heredity.

But even though we dismiss the Evening Primroses as evidence for Evolution by mutational booms, it may still be true that organisms are occasionally subject to fits of change, their germ-plasm to storms of mutation. It is a possibility; there is no reason why this should not be.

Few facts, however, are to be found in support of such a view. Every animal and plant which has been carefully and intensively studied—wheat and flies, maize and mice, shrimps and peas—is found to be throwing genemutations. And they throw them down and sideways more often than they throw them up.

Further, the rate at which genes mutate seems roughly the same in all of them. There is some evidence to show that in Switzerland the ee-orchid has started to produce numbers of varieties in the last fifty years, while the same varieties were scarce or absent earlier.

But many more records and experiments on animals and plants, but in a state of nature and under cultivation, will be needed before we can say if such mutational storms are as isolated as they now seem to be or whether they do indeed bear upon the evolutionary process to any notable extent.

One tenaciously held idea at least seems to be without foundation. It used to be implicitly believed by practical breeders and scientists alike, that the bringing of an animal or plant into new and favorable conditions would cause an epidemic of variations.

Rich food, protection and warmth for animals; cultivation, good soil and plenty of manure for plants—these were asserted to bring on mutation-storms.

But modern experience is rendering this conclusion very doubtful. We see variations more readily when they are under our eye and when we are on the lookout for them; and in cultivation we preserve many that would go under in nature. That seems to be all.

This idea of evolutionary spurts was much more reasonable when fossil records were incomplete, for instance, when only half a dozen steps in the horse progress were known, than it is today.

Now, with the fossil records of the horses and the sea-urchins, of the pigs, camels and elephants, of the pond-snails (Paludina and Planorbis) Ammonites, and many others at our disposal, we can feel reasonably sure that on the whole Evolution progresses slowly and steadily.

Whenever we get a reliable fossil series we find that to be the case. The crises of Evolution when they occur are not crises of variation, but of selection and elimination; not strange births, but slow, selective massacres. The germ-plasm, it would seem, has gone on throwing up mutations at about the same rate age after age.

Change in Presidency Of Carnegie Steel Co.

Andrew Carnegie entered the steel business in Pittsburgh shortly after the Civil War. Thousands of Pittsburghers of several generations have been employed by the company that he founded. So it is no wonder that the Carnegie Steel Company is regarded by many almost as if it were a public institution, and a change in its presidency is of widespread interest.

The position which ill health has forced William G. Clyde to resign and to which I. Lamont Hughes succeeds is a man's size job. The Carnegie Steel Company is the largest of the subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation, with diversity of products and works in many places. Executive management of such a concern calls for extensive practical experience in steel manufacture, and it is noteworthy that the company's heads have been almost invariably steel men, and not bankers or lawyers, as one so often finds in great corporations.

Mr. Hughes conforms to the traditional requirements. He has been with the company for more than a quarter of a century and knows the practical side of steel operations from personal experience in the mills.

The importance of the position of the chief executive of the Carnegie Steel Company can readily be gauged by a review of the careers of the men who have filled it. Mr. Hughes' predecessors in the job have included Thomas M. Carnegie, H. C. Frick (as chairman of the board), Charles M. Schwab, W. E. Corey, A. C. Dinkey and Homer D. Williams. Industrial giants!

The company has been fortunate in its executive management, to which its success has been, of course, largely due. One reason why its executives have been so able is that they usually came up from the ranks.

Suicide, Robbery, Now Killing as Lottery Toll

A large sum of money is collected in Pittsburgh daily by operators of the Clearing House lottery. More important is the staggering toll of human happiness that is being paid.

It has been necessary recently to chronicle a case of suicide in which the victim was driven to his deed by lottery losses, and a case of robbery in which the accused, a former Sunday school official, is said to have given lottery losses as the cause of his downfall. And now we have a homicide, attributed to the same cause.

The killing occurred (of all places!) in the Presbyterian Hospital. The police version of the affair is that a lottery agent called there to transact business with an employe of the hospital, that a dispute arose over some payment that was to be made, and the enraged customer plunged a butcher knife into the "numbers writer."

Arrests of several lottery men recently aroused the hope that the police were at last going to act. But persons well informed as to what is going on in the underworld assert that the arrests were made only because the men had trespassed on territory for which an exclusive concession had already been given by the political powers controlling the police to other lottery men. According to these informants, the "right" to run lotteries has been granted to certain individuals and the territory in which they may operate has been strictly delimited. If a "concessionaire's" agents cross the boundary lines of the ward for which he has the "franchise" they render themselves liable to arrest.

If things have indeed come to this pass, Pittsburgh was never more in need of a real housecleaning.

SPEED

By Archibald Henderson

America is said to be the land of speed. The foreigner, on arriving in New York City, feels himself caught and propelled at greatly heightened speed, as if dragged by some giant undertow. America revels in efficiency and energy; and one of the accompaniments must be speed. There is something exhilarating in the mere sensation of rapid advance. It is essentially enjoyable, even if we are not particularly concerned about either destination or arrival.

The spectacle of the speedy airplane, hydroplane, of motor car, skilfully propelled by a demon driver, annually furnishes delight to millions of spectators. A speed considerably in excess of a mile a minute is attained by many railroad trains. The fastest time for a boat is around 95 miles an hour—almost half again as fast as the fastest railroad train. The late Major H. O. D. Seagrave won knighthood and international fame by driving an automobile at 231.36 miles per hour over a straightaway sandy course at Daytona Beach. The fastest time ever achieved by man in the world's history was 368.8 miles in one hour—unless that record has since been broken.

It was achieved in the summer of 1929 by A. H. Orlebar, who flew four times around a three-kilometer course, at an average speed of 357.7 miles a.. hour!

Modern business, the tremendous strain of economic competition, the vast cost of time, is largely responsible for the great speeding up of all forms of traffic. Think of the great monetary saving effected by cutting off eight hours from the time formerly consumed in crossing the Atlantic, say from Hamburg to New York City! Air mail, and eventually air express, air freight, and air transportation generally will fully demonstrate the incalculable financial gain of cutting more than three days from the time formerly required to cross the American continent.

The steady increase in speed in transportation throughout the past century is staggering. Is it possible to attain much higher speed? Perhaps not much higher on land, nor very much higher on water. But in the air the possibilities are immense. The deer-fly is known to fly at the rate of 815 miles an hour. The day will come, perhaps within the century, when a machine will be invented to attain this or even greater speed. But who will pilot such an arrow of the air?

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Success is a mysterious thing. All of us try for it. Most of us fail. Why? Look into the lives of successful men for the answer. How did they get that way?

Was it because they were particularly clever in picking their careers? Did they always know what they wanted and go right after it. Not necessarily. Most of them muddled around for years, just as you are doing.

Was it because they were highly talented or intelligent? Hardly. Many "successful" men are prize boobs.

Was it because they worked hard? Millions of men have worked hard and got nothing in return but a lot of grief.

Was it because they were lucky? No— luck helps. But luck's little good to a man unless he has something to back it.

Was it because they were good? Behold, the wicked flourish quite as much, if not more, than the righteous!

No, none of these things will, in themselves, make a man successful. He must have something more—something more potent than luck, more powerful than intelligence, more persuasive than hard labor. He must have something, both subtle and irresistible, which will surge within him, regardless of his condition or circumstance, WHICH WILL BREAK THROUGH HIS OWN RESISTANCE AND THE RESISTANCE OF OTHER MEN. And there is only one quality which will do that. No one knows its source or nature, but we call it FAITH.

Now Faith is a mysterious thing. It is not conceit. It is not confidence. It is more than these. "Faith," said St. Paul, "is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." So the man who has faith banks on the things he hopes for, bets on the things not seen and believes that the mysterious force within himself can accomplish all those things for him.

In short, he bets and banks on and believes in life . . . Life, the invincible! And the man who makes a teammate of life wins.

Look again at the "successful" men. Some of their success seems very noble—some actually vicious—but the thing that lay behind it was always the same. And that was Faith. Take Al Capone and Cal Coolidge. No two men could have been further apart in nature or ambition. Yet each in his line succeeded. And the methods by which they attained success were identical. They succeeded because they believed in themselves and in the life within themselves and in the power of that life to take them where they wanted to go. Calvin Coolidge's tight mouth and Al Capone's hard eyes tell exactly the same tale. They are the mouth and the eyes of men who believe they hold a royal flush and are betting all they have on it. Hell 'n' high water can't stop the man who plays the game like that.

Why do the wicked flourish and the righteous so often flop? That's why. The wicked have Faith. They bet on their stuff—and on the force within them which makes their stuff. But the righteous, too frequently, only pretend. They're not betting. They're just passing. And life passes them in return.

"But I have faith," you sigh. "And I'm sure I could make good if I could get a chance."

There's the catch. You're waiting for a chance. But those who succeed feel that being born is the only chance a smart guy needs. You're holding back and haggling, waiting for life to make just the right proposition to you. But they bet on themselves and went ahead and made their own propositions. Never a truer motto, partner, than "Life helps those who help themselves."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

They've made so many new records in flying lately that it's awful hard to think up any new records to work for. There's hardly any place left to fly to for a record, and for staying up in the air and staying on the ground and everything like that, they've got all the records sewed up.

So there was a guy started out in a little plane not very long ago, and he hinted around the field that he was going after a record. "I'll come back with a record that'll surprise you," he says.

So the papers printed rumors that he was going to fly straight up and not come back till June, or he was going to dive deeper into the ocean and back again than anybody else ever did, or something like that.

Well, sir, that night he crashed into the top of a tall fir tree and stuck there. When he climbed down the reporters says to him, "Say, it's tough that you didn't get to make a record, ain't it?"

"Oh, didn't I?" he says. "Who else ever came down out of the top of a fir tree without ever climbing up there; can you answer me that?"

A Woman's Life

These are the things for which a woman lives:
In youth, bright April raptures and the mirth
And joy which merely to be living gives
To those who tread enchanted realms of Earth.
Sometimes she lives for sacrifice, for pain,
For sombre things which women bear to prove
They are true heirs of Eve's unkind domain;
But always, over all, she lives for love!

And in her age a woman lives for these:
A quiet house, old china, yellowed books,
Her children's visits, thoughts of tossing seas
And far lands journeyed through, of dear ones' looks;
And ever as the years' swift cycles move,
She lives for fragrant memories of love!

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Trouble In the Balkans

King Carol of Rumania will not be crowned officially until next spring. In the meantime some other country may make him a better offer.

"Bugs" Baer

Everything seemed as rosy as an artificial flower when Carol heard his country's call last summer.

Now, it seems that Carol was fooled by a ventriloquist.

He was supposed to go home, shake hands with all the prime ministers and kiss the Queen. Seems the handshaking was a success.

Carol even went so far as to proclaim a new national holiday. It was to be called Old Queen Week.

That is when the worm in the apple speeded up production. Something happened to make the plans of mice and men look like a rodent's blueprints.

Carol flew from Paris to the throne last June. The start was perfect, but the landing field was all torn up.

The reconciliation with the Queen was a squib. Dowager Queen Marie lammed out of the country, the army marched four abreast past some very important buildings, the navy got out its war oars and Crown Prince Michael started using his crown for a quoit.

King Carol issued an edict changing everything but the weather. The divorce from Queen Helen was declared null and hokum. She was to be queen again.

There was only one event in history that could be more momentous than the events in Rumania at this point.

And we don't mean for France to declare war on Germany or for Mrs. Gann to get her correct chair at the next White House luncheon. We don't mean the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or the junking of the American fleet.

Rumania was in a tough spot. And the only thing that could top it in the news was for Amos and Andy to get pyorrhea.

There was a butterfly in the horse radish. It was Madame Lupescu, of Bucharest and Paris, for whom Carol had renounced the throne on a slow note of 90 days.

Madame Lupescu had her rights and intended to protect them if she had to import a sentimental jury from America.

So the whole matter collapsed. And that's where it stands.

Carol will not be king until next spring. Crown Prince Michael will probably become the dowager empress and Queen Marie will go back to school.

We don't know how they run those royal governments. But everybody seems to have a lot of fun except the boys who pay the taxes.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Dame luck has been dealing shallow hands to one of the Rialto's picturesque producers—Morris Gest—recently. But like the slogan of salvationists he is "down but never out." Doubtless he is winding up now for a plate-cutting fast one.

It is a Gestian gesture to confound those who say he is through with a nonchalant come-back. He has done this many times. Ill health coupled with an ill-fated theatrical venture plunged him into bankruptcy recently, with debts of a half million.

But the man who gave New York "Chu Chin Chow," the original Russian ballet, Michael Fokine, Balieff's "Chauve Souris," the Moscow Art theater repertory, reintroduced Eleanor Duse and staged the beautiful "Miracle" is not likely to become bankrupt of ideas.

Gest is a real life hero in one of those up-from-the-sidewalk careers. Born in Vilna, Russia, he spent boyhood selling newspapers in Boston. Coming to New York, he dabbled in theatricals without making a splash until presenting "Experience" in 1914.

From then on spectacular successes and intermittent failures of Gest became legends of the theater. He publicized himself by wearing a black velour hat at a rakish angle and sporting a flowing tie. Frequently he would weep in the lobby at first nights.

He had, boo, hoo, spent his last penny—and the premiere would decide his future. It was "great theater," for Gest is a showman. But he cried "Wolf" so often few thought he was beached on financial shoals until liabilities were spread in newspapers.

Gest has the ballyhoo shrewdness of Barnum, plus a deep understanding of the theater. He dredged mediocre exhibits out of candle-lit Russian cellars and made them social rages in New York. His wife is the daughter of David Belasco, also somewhat a showman.

Due perhaps to old Winter Garden presentations, the Shuberts have been linked with the rowdy type of musical shows. Certain productions featuring a jovial commonness were known as "Shubert shows." Yet during the past season they gave the town four of its most artistic plays in Topaze, Death Takes a Holiday, the Infinite Shoeblack and Bird in Hand.

An unusual calling is that of a lady who inspects private library bindings and prevents them from curling and decay. She uses a salve rubbed in expertly, and the job is not only lucrative but brings her in touch with the best people.

Today while roaming the majestic mid-town glitter with its stepping towers, braggy fronts and restless electric dazzle, I somehow thought of those grey streets in London, especially the narrow Strand and the shy alleys dipping down to the Thames. It would have been pleasant to hear the ineluctable cry of the muffin men, the chant of old ladies selling heather, and most of all the spiel of the Punch and Judy show."

Yet such longings are quickly cured. I notice three talented gentlemen—Frank Ward O'Malley, Adolphe Menjou and Ralph Barton—who fled America during the past three years to remain permanently, are back kissing Times Square paving stones and hugging avenue lampposts.

Somebody has been clipping my column from a Western paper daily, writing across it in red pencil "O, yeah" and mailing it to me. Today the stamp was uncanceled and I, like a dirty little thief, swiped it. I guess that's getting even, hey, fat head?

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Often do you not feel sleepy at the steering wheel of your car? The hum of the motor, the monotony of a long drive, the physical demands made upon you are sleep-inducing.

At times you have realized that you were nodding while you were traveling 40 or 50 miles an hour.

You had a destination to be reached in a given time and did not think it necessary to rest yourself from driving.

So far you have passed through such experience without mishap. You may not be so fortunate in the future.

Dozing off for a moment may result in a terrible accident.

Surprise has been expressed that so many accidents occur on a straight road and not on curves which are fraught with danger possibilities.

One reason is that speed on a straight road, combined with inactive faculties which make a demand for sleep, numb the senses, while the care and slowing down required for safety at curves makes for alertness. Don't drive when sleepy.
